YES, CHRISTABEL WAS HERE; MAY BE STILL

Suffragette Leader Wanted in England Was Seen Dining at the Majestic.

FOLLOWERS HERE SKEPTICAL

British Consul, Though, Says He Heard Miss Pankhurst Was in the City—May Have Left Country.

It may have been that Major George William Horsfield of the Essex and Suffolk Royal Artillery was mistaken in supposing that he saw Miss Christabel Pankhurst, the militant suffragette, who is dodging the English police, on the Cunard liner Mauretania on the last trip here, but the publication of the interview with him in yesterday's TIMES brought out the fact that Miss Pankhurst has been seen in this city recently and probably is still here.

The English police, it was learned on authority, believe that Miss Pankhurst did not come on the Mauretania, but on a French liner. Major Horsfield said he had heard that Supt. Froest of Scotland Yard had personally looked over the Mauretania's passengers in Liverpool, and it was suggested that the English police would not like it to appear that Miss Pankhurst had slipped through their fingers so easily.

But however the suffrage leader whom the British Government accuses of conspiracy may have got here, she was recognized in the Hotel Majestic, Central Park West and Seventy-second Street, within a few days, by English persons who knew her. At the time she was dining in company with a woman, and the persons who observed her in the hotel recognized her at once as Miss Christabel Pankhurst. At the hotel yesterday it was said that Miss Pankhurst was not a guest at the hotel, though it was recalled that she had been seen dining there.

Courtenay Walter Bennett, the British Consul, lives at the Hotel Majestic. He said yesterday that his government had not asked him to find Miss Pankhurst. She was not charged with an extraditable offense, he said. He had received information that she had visited the city, he declared.

When Miss Christabel Pankhurst's sister, Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, visited here recently she was the guest of the Misses Alice and Irene Lewisohn at their home, 435 Fifth Avenue. Neither of the Misses Lewisohn could be found yesterday, but their private secretary said that she did not believe Miss Christabel Pankhurst had been in the city. If she had been here, the secretary said, Miss Pankhurst would certainly have informed the Misses Lewisohn of her arrival. Miss Sylvia Pankhurst returned to England last Wednesday on the Mauretania. At the home of the Misses Lewisohn it was said that Miss Sylvia Pankhurst returned alone, and that she had not seen her younger sister, so far as the Misses Lewisohn knew. The Mauretania is due to arrive at Fishguard next Monday.

Members of suffragette clubs in this city said yesterday that, in their opinion, it was unlikely that Miss Christabel Pankhurst was in the city or had been here. Mrs. Arthur Townsend, treasurer of the Woman's Political Union, the American suffrage organization most closely in touch with the militant suffragettes of England, said yesterday:

"We are sure that Christabel Pankhurst has not visited the city, and is not being sheltered here by friends. If she were here there would be no reason for her to go in hiding, as she would be perfectly safe from arrest, and, besides, she could not direct the suffragette campaign in England, and would be of little use to her party when they need her services. If she were here we would surely know it. Of course, if she were hiding and wanted to conceal her whereabouts, I would not divulge them, but we, none of us, know where she is at the present time. She does not resemble the woman that Major Horsfield saw on the Mauretania."

Mrs. John Winters Brannan of 11 West Twelfth Street, a friend of the Pankhurst family, said that in her opinion the story that Christabel Pankhurst was here was improbable.

"I would be sure to know it," she said, "if she were in the city, and I can say that she is not here. It is more likely she is in some other country."

At the headquarters of the Woman's Suffrage Party the officials said they did not know that Miss Pankhurst was in the city. Mrs. Sophie Krammer, Vice President of District 15, at 120 West Eighty-first Street, where Miss Pankhurst was reported to have been seen, declared yesterday that Miss Pankhurst had never been there, and that the members of the organization had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

"There is no reason," she said, "why Miss Pankhurst should hide if she is here. It would not help matters, and besides, she has nothing to fear. We do not know where she is."

SUFFRAGETTES COURT DEATH

Would Welcome Martyrdom, Says American Woman Visitor.

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—"The suffragettes in England hope to be killed, and sooner or later that will be the result," declared the Rev. Mary E. Andrews, formerly pastor of the Universalist Church here, in an address to the Equal Suffrage Society to-night. Dr. Andrews has just returned from London.

"Riot, starvation in prison—any means that will bring martyrdom—these Englishwomen court and would count death but a stepping stone to victory. It is a price any one of them would be glad to pay if it would advance the cause."

Dr. Andrews told of the conditions that surround the English workingwomen, and said that if equal suffrage were adopted these things would be changed.

SAW GASHES PHYSICIAN'S ARM

Dr. Carpenter Receives a Serious Wound at His Summer Home.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., April 5.—Dr. A. C. Carpenter of 219 East Nineteenth Street, New York, was seriously injured at his Summer home near here on Thursday afternoon. He was giving instructions to employes at a mill on his place when a piece of timber started to fall. As Dr. Carpenter attempted to catch it his left forearm struck a moving circular saw, which severed the flesh and muscles. He became unconscious.

Doctors were summoned and sewed up the wound, which was eight inches long. It will be a long time before Dr. Carpenter will be able to use his injured arm.

PUTS FOOD ON FREE LIST.

Bill Proposed by Ohio Representatives Covers Meats, Flour, Cereals.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Representative Bathrick of Ohio, Democrat, to-day introduced a bill to place meats, flour, and cereals on the free list. The bill was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. Bathrick hopes its passage might help reduce the cost of living.

BAR INDUSTRIAL WORKERS.

More Labor Agitators Are Banished from San Diego, Cal.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 5.—Eighty Deputy Constables, wet and tired, but determined to remain on guard against the threatened invasion of the Industrial Workers of the World, patroled the north border of San Diego County to-day. They expect to remain at the county line until the invading hordes have been turned back. One hundred and five men have been shipped out of San Diego in the last forty-eight hours, and have been made to kiss the American flag before being permitted to walk away.

The Workers who were taken off the freight train at Oceanside to-day have given up the attempt to get into San Diego. After being searched by the posse all were forced to join in singing the "Star-Spangled Banner." They were then started on their way with a "ceremony" said to be one they will never forget.

Fifteen more leaders of the Industrial Workers were taken out of the county by the citizens to-night. They were escorted to a big auto truck of the Fire Department and taken to the county line. This process will be continued, Chief of Police Wilson declares, until every Industrial Worker is out of the county.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 5.—Interest in the activity of the Industrial Workers of the World shifted to-day from British Columbia, where 6,000 railroad laborers are on strike, to Southwestern Washington, where 1,000 sawmill workers are out, and where the situation has been complicated by a split in the municipal commission of Hoquiam.

The Mayor, Harry Ferguson, is siding with the Industrial Workers in their demand that they be permitted to remain in town unmolested while conducting the strike. The other two Commissioners are backing the mill owners and the Citizens' Committee in their efforts to drive the men from the district.

The striking mill men are greatly encouraged by the result of the city election last Tuesday in Aberdeen, when two Socialist Aldermen were chosen. The Socialists polled nearly 700 votes, or nearly one-third the total cast.

In British Columbia, where construction work on the Canadian Northern is at a standstill, neither side has made a move for several days.

STREETCAR OVERTURNS AUTO

Boy Roller Skating Beside It Crushed So That He Will Die.

A Reid Avenue trolley car in charge of Motorman Edward Kirkland ran into an automobile at Bedford and Church Avenues, Flatbush, at 10:30 o'clock last night and upset the automobile in which were John Mortz, chauffeur for William Johnson of 196 Prospect Park West, and Thomas Leddy of 1,815 Atlantic Avenue, a friend of the chauffeur.

The auto fell on fourteen-year-old Peter Kelly of 802 Rogers Avenue, who had been roller skating beside it. The child's skull and right arm were fractured and several of his ribs were broken. Passengers aided the motorists and the boy. Leddy had internal injuries and a broken arm. Mortz was bruised, but otherwise unhurt.

Dr. Kelly was called from the Kings County Hospital, and he took Leddy and the boy there. Young Kelly will die, the doctors said.

Mr. Johnson said his automobile had been laid up for repairs, and he did not know that these had been made. Mortz, he said, had no business to take the auto out without notifying him.

AN ANTI-SUFFRAGE BURGLAR.

He Got $64 of the Party's Theatre Benefit Returns.

The Woman Suffrage Party is on the trail of a brand new anti-suffragist, and it is not a happy chase. Usually a new anti gives the women a warm glow of enthusiasm, for it means some one else to be converted, but this anti-suffragist is quite different from anything they have ever had to handle—he's a burglar.

Last Tuesday night he made away with some of the funds from the party benefit at the Broadway Theatre. Sixty-four dollars was extracted from a roll of 135 dollar bills tucked carefully away in the corner of a desk drawer in the headquarters in the Metropolitan Tower. The party will make more than $1,000 from its benefit, and this money was the returns from the theatregoers who bought their tickets in the office.

This is the fifth time the burglar-anti has robbed the party. It is always done in the same way. The office is safely locked by members of the office staff, who have seen that everything was secure before leaving for the night, and the money is gone when they return in the morning. The money is taken from a roll of bills and enough is left so that if the money were not counted the loss would not be known. The amounts taken vary. The burglar usually divides more or less evenly. The first money taken was $60, then $15, then $12, then $8, and finally $64, a total of $159.

HER MARRIAGE IDEALS FAIL.

Author of "The Family Beautiful" Seeks Divorce from Husband.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 5.—Mrs. Janet S. Kroeck, author and lecturer on "The Family Beautiful," was plaintiff in a divorce suit heard to-day in Judge Monroe's department of the Superior Court.

Mrs. Kroeck's endeavor to tell the public what marital felicity is and how it can be attained and maintained is the rift in the lute which has caused her action to divorce her husband.

"If my wife had stayed at home and cooked beefsteak for me and tried to darn my socks a little more, instead of trotting around to tell other people what they should do, we would never have had this trouble," says Wesley Kroeck.

"Her preachings were very nice to listen to, but her practice was very poor."

Mrs. Kroeck asks a divorce on the grounds of cruelty. In her book, "The Family Beautiful," Mrs. Kroeck thus describes the head of the ideal family:

"Around him hangs the enchantment of a little distance. He's the great big man who goes up town and brings everything home in his pocket and the rest of it in his head and something, let us pray, in his heart. For it is the heart interest of the father that counts. He's a good provider, God bless him, and he feels for us, too, but is often too busy or else he is too tired to let us find it out. And it is father's influence that counts most after all."

MAY INSTRUCT STATE DELEGATES FOR TAFT

ONE DESIRE IS HARMONY

State Chairman Will Even Give Up Committee of Resolutions to Root—What the Platform Contains.

The four delegates-at-large from this State to the Republican National Convention in Chicago may be instructed for President Taft after all, it was declared yesterday. Republican State Chairman William Barnes, Jr., has advocated an uninstructed delegation, but Republicans who are close to President Taft have objected to this, and it was said that their demands would have such weight at the State Convention to be held at Rochester next week that they would prevail.

Whatever difference of opinion might arise over this question, it was not thought likely by Republicans in this city yesterday that it would provoke a serious fight. Harmony is the one thing sought by Republicans in this State after four years of turmoil and dissension, it was pointed out, and Mr. Barnes, who controls the State organization of his party, would not no anything, it was said, which he believed would be contrary to the wishes of President Taft.

President Taft has seen a draft of the platform which Mr. Barnes will seek to have passed in Rochester next week. A prominent Republican who has talked to the President since he went over the document said last night that the President made no comment upon it, adverse or otherwise. While there have been indications that an attempt might be made to pass a platform of a distinctly reactionary trend, it was said last night that it would be made perfectly clear to the sponsors of any such plan before the convention was called to order that such an attempt would be put down. The President, while in favor of an explicit reaffirmation of sound Republican doctrine, is utterly opposed, it is said, to any declaration of principles that would denote a backward step.

Up to yesterday it had been understood that Republican State Chairman William Barnes, Jr., who is anxious to be made Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions for the convention, would not be opposed. It was learned yesterday that certain leaders in the party have now decided to back Senator Elihu Root for the place. It was said last night that the Chairmanship would probably go to Senator Root, as Chairman Barnes was not expected to oppose his selection to the extent of starting a fight over it. The selection of Senator Root would be most agreeable to President Taft, it was said.

A Republican, who is well informed as to the plans for the convention, said last night that the Rochester platform would probably contain a plank indorsing the President's tariff views, including the Tariff Board, which was created under the Payne-Aldrich Tariff act. It will denounce the recall in every form as advocated by Col. Roosevelt. The initiative and referendum may be passed over as State, rather than National issues, and as there is among the present leaders of the Republican State organization a preponderance of opinion against direct primaries, the discussion of that question may be left for the State Convention to be held in September, on the ground that that is also a State issue. Senator Root has said he was not opposed to direct primaries. Mr. Barnes and some of his principal lieutenants are hostile to the plan.

On the tariff the platform will declare for the protective principle. While the Republican leaders had considered adopting a resolution opposing the "third term" as a slap at Col. Roosevelt without mentioning his name, it was learned last night that there had been no final decision on this matter. Some of the leaders have held that any positive stand against a third term might come back to plague the party in 1916, when the situation might be very different from what it is to-day.

While it is regarded as certain that Senator Root and Republican State Chairman William Barnes, Jr., will go to Chicago as delegates-at-large, it was said last night that the men for the other places had not been determined upon. It was said that this question would not be finally decided until the leaders gathered at Rochester. President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University will in all probability be permanent as well as temporary Chairman of the convention.

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, and Congressman William M. Calder of Brooklyn, returned from Washington last night. Mr. Koenig spent two days at the Capital talking over details of the State convention with some of the New York Republicans there.

"I had a talk with Senator Root, with Vice President Sherman, and with Secretary of War Stimson," said Mr. Koenig last night. "I called on the President, but only to pay my respects. The President did not comment in my presence on the New York State situation. In my opinion there will be a thorough discussion of principles and policies at the Rochester convention. I don't look for a fight. I think we shall adopt a platform based on sound Republican doctrine on which all good Republicans can get together and work for party success in the National campaign."

TAFT SHUNS PLATFORMS.

Refuses to Take Any Part in Writing New York Declaration.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—President Taft let it be known to-day that he did not intend to have anything to do with the framing of the platform of his party in New York State. No official statement was made, but inquirers were informed that the President had no intention of trying to inject his own views in the party platform in any State.

Several leaders of the party in New York have talked with the President recently about the platform that will be presented to the Rochester Convention, but he is understood to have refused to take any part in the platform writing.

Senator Root is said to have been asked to write a plank dealing with the recall of Judges and decisions.

OHIOANS BENT ON INITIATIVE.

Supporters of Popular Vote Aim to Enter General Assembly.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 5.—The Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, President of the Ohio Constitutional Convention, and thirty of the delegates, active supporters of the initiative and referendum, have entered an agreement to become candidates for the next General Assembly, according to an announcement made here to-day.

Their candidacy is with the avowed intention of insuring an initiative and referendum law on the lines of a proposal just adopted by the convention.

DYNAMITE EL PASO BRIDGE TO MEXICO

Sentries Report That Parties Who Planted Explosive Ran to American Side.

PARRAL TAKEN AFTER ALL

Federal Defense, Successful at First, Fails—211 Americans Stranded at Vera Cruz—Red Cross Aids.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, April 5.—The Mexico & Northwestern bridge spanning the Rio Grande between El Paso and Juarez, known as the Corralitos Bridge, was damaged by dynamite explosions at 9 o'clock to-night.

Investigation of the bridge reveals that only a small portion of the woodwork was destroyed and the railway track was not injured.

Sentries at the Mexican end of the bridge declare that the parties who made the attempt to destroy the bridge ran off on the American side with the cry of "Viva Madero!" The bridge will be easily repaired.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Two letters received here to-day from residents of Mexico City show the situation to be even worse than has been reported. In one of these letters, which was received by Congressman Burleson, of Texas, from a woman friend in that city, the writer declares that friends of hers have been enrolling at the British Embassy for protection in case the City falls. These persons are all Americans, but have no confidence in the ability of the American Embassy to protect them. She says she has been urged to enroll at the British Embassy, but does not think it patriotic.

In the other letter it is stated that the railroad officials are nightly drilling their men so that they can defend the city when the attack comes. This letter says that the railroad men thus drilled number 700.

"I dread to think," says this writer, "of the talked-of strike on the National lines. I am hoping it will be averted, but the Brotherhood in Texas has sent word to the trainmen that if their former salaries are not restored, they will pay them $50 a month for a certain number of months, and then will find employment for them in the United States—and that offer holds for the Mexicans as well as the Americans.

"They need good Americans on the railroad. The railroad office force drills for an hour every night, there being 300 of them. Then those at the yards drill, making about 700 in all. This is what I have been told and, I think, from a rather reliable source.

"One of the railroad office men told me. It is rumored to-day that the Zapastistas are at Tlanepantla, but I rather doubt that. If they are coming into the city, I wish they would come and get over with it. I think the city can hold out against them for a time at least.

"You never in all your life heard so many conflicting reports as they get out. You know the Mexican art and curio store (the one that was in the U. S. Bank Building and had to move last Spring to the corner of San Francisco and Letran) has closed. Things are in a terrible state. Absolutely no business, and it hits us hard."

There are 211 Americans stranded, some of them in absolute want, in Vera Cruz, on the east coast of Mexico, in Mazatlan, on the west coast, and in Manzanillo, in the interior of the State of Jalisco. The American Red Cross here to-day dispatched $1,500 to the American Consuls in those places to aid in their relief. The Red Cross says it probably will be necessary to issue a national appeal for aid.

The rebel military authorities in Chihuahua require all persons leaving the city to have a passport, according to advices to the State Department to-day. This order will aid them in keeping close tab on those leaving the State capital and probably keep within the city limits all whom they do not want outside the rebel jurisdiction.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 5.—Two machine guns were held up at Marfa and two trunks filled with ammunition were stopped at Langtry yesterday by United States Customs Inspectors. Both were intended for exportation to Mexico, and neither was consigned to any accredited agent of the Madero Government, according to R. W. Dowe, Collector of Customs at Eagle Pass, to whom a report of the seizures was made.

Two bridges south of Juarez and three near Madera, on the Mexican Northwestern Railroad, were reported burned to-day.

The telegraph line to Chihuahua and Jiminez was cut last night. The break was repaired, but the wire went down in another place. No dispatches from the front were received.

REBELS TAKE PARRAL.

Federal Defense of City, Successful at First, Proves Unavailing.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, April 5.—Parral is now in the hands of the rebels, and the cry of "On to Torreon" is heard again in the Liberal camp. After two repulses and continuous fighting since Tuesday morning, Parral fell before the superior forces of the Red army late last night and the camp fires of the Chihuahua rebels are burning on the hills occupied by Villa's sharpshooters yesterday.

The attack was made from all sides, and the engagement continued during Wednesday and Thursday. Gen. Salazar was in command of the attacking force, with Gens. Campa and Fernandez under him. General Campa, who was driven back by Villa on Tuesday, did some fine strategic work in the final assault, and completely retrieved his lost prestige

JAPAN'S PREMIER TELLS THE TIMES THERE IS NO MAGDALENA BAY INCIDENT

Marquis Saionji's Statement to The Times.

THE NEW YORK TIMES having invited Marquis Saionji, Prime Minister of Japan, to explain the reports that Japan was negotiating for a naval base at Magdalena Bay, in the Mexican territory of Lower California, Marquis Saionji cabled yesterday a reply to the Japanese Ambassador in Washington, by whom it was delivered to THE TIMES.

Marquis Saionji says there have been no negotiations for Magdalena Bay, but that the Oriental Whaling Company of Japan has acquired fishing rights, in common with citizens and subjects of other countries, not at Magdalena Bay, but on the mainland of Mexico, along a strip of coast about 750 miles long, between the States of Tepic and Oaxaca.

Marquis Saionji's message follows:

Tokio, April 5, 1912.

So far as the Japanese Government is concerned, there is positively no truth in the last Sunday's Tokio dispatch to the effect that negotiations between Mexico and Japan were concluded a few days ago for the establishment of a large Japanese settlement at Magdalena Bay.

Marquis Saionji,
Prime Minister of Japan.

On inquiry the following fact has been ascertained, which might have been responsible for the above erroneous report:

Some time ago the agent in Mexico of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha (Oriental Steamship Company) of Japan obtained of his own accord from the Mexican Government the fishing rights in the west coast of Mexico. Later the said agent transferred the acquired right to the Oriental Whaling Company of Japan, and the whaling company concluded with the Mexican Government on the 17th of October, 1911, a contract by the terms of which the company has dispatched to Mexico one of its Directors with fishing experts and fishermen, numbering about ten, who are now engaged in the investigation of the fishing district.

The fishing district extends from the territory of Tepic to the State of Oaxaca, which has geographically no connection with Magdalena Bay.

The term of the fishing right is for ten years, and has no political significance whatever, it being purely an individual industrial enterprise, on the part of a Japanese private concern. Nor is it a privilege exceptionally granted to the Japanese subject, the similar fishing right having heretofore been granted to the citizens or subjects of the United States, Great Britain, Italy, &c.

Fishing Rights Have Been Obtained by the Oriental Whaling Company of Japan.

FAR FROM MAGDALENA BAY

Not in Lower California at All, but Along 750 Miles of the Mainland.

OTHERS HAVE SAME RIGHTS

Senators and Members of House Deeply Impressed by the Message.

CALL PLOT STORY EXPLODED

Senator Lodge Gratified by Statement but Inclined to Ask Further Explanation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—There is no Magdalena Bay incident, according to Marquis Saionji, the Japanese Prime Minister.

THE NEW YORK TIMES cabled to him on Wednesday night, asking for a statement concerning the case. The Marquis's reply, which was given to THE TIMES correspondent by the Japanese Embassy this afternoon, is to the effect that the flood of rumors have arisen from a Japanese company's plan to obtain fishing rights.

This is not in Magdalena Bay, the Premier tells THE TIMES. It is nowhere in Lower California. It is along the Mexican mainland on a strip of coast about 750 miles long, and is simply a concession for rights that are already enjoyed by business men in other countries.

Others Have the Same Rights.

He says that the United States, Great Britain, Italy, and other nations have already obtained similar concessions, and that the Japanese, who have obtained this right, have no political intentions, and are merely business men, having the same standing as the Americans, Englishmen, Italians, and others who have preceded them.

What was granted, the Premier says, was merely the fishing rights on the west coast of Mexico in a district extending from Tepic to Oaxaca, which is nowhere near Magdalena Bay.

The impression in official quarters is that Senator Lodge, in introducing his resolution, merely intended to give an impetus to the desire of his friend, Secretary Meyer, to put through his programme for an increase in the navy.

Premier Saionji's statement that other nations have received concessions similar to the one granted to the Oriental Steamship Company of Japan, and afterward transferred to the Oriental Whaling Company, is verified from authoritative sources, both in the State Department and in the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate.

From both quarters it is learned that the State Department and the committee have known all along of the fact that business men from European nations and this country have long since acquired rights similar to those which have been given to the Oriental Whaling Company.

The rights granted to the Japanese business men include privileges on land, such as building huts, docks, &c. This virtually amounts to the privilege of colonizing, if such a thing were desired. But in the State Department, Senate, and House there is a general refusal to believe that any such thing is intended.

In interviews which a NEW YORK TIMES reporter had with important members of the Foreign Committee in the two houses and with officials of the State Department, the so-called Magdalena Bay incident was scouted as non-existent. It would be difficult, however, to give an idea of the strong feeling displayed in the manner of every one of the Senators, Representatives, and officials who was asked about the matter.

In the State Department particularly there was displayed the same contempt for the whole story that was shown at the Japanese Embassy, where THE TIMES correspondent was told that the embassy would never have dignified the matter with a denial, if this newspapers' telegram to the Premier had not brought forth a command that such a denial should be made.

Up to this time the embassy has consistently refused to discuss the subject, holding that it was absurd and ridiculous on its face. It was not absurd, however, because Senator Lodge's position made the matter important when he took the responsibility of fathering such a resolution. This is true, regardless of what his motives may have been or how causeless was the action he took.

Lodge Gratified but Unconvinced.

Senator Lodge read the statement of Marquis Saionji with great interest but declined to comment on it. The Massachusetts Senator evidently did not regard the denial of the dispatch from Tokio of the conclusion of negotiations for the establishment of a large Japanese colony at Magdalena Bay, as squarely meeting the facts, as he understood them.

He has taken the position that the place has no value except for its military advantage, and that the purpose was to convey the title to the very large concession to a Japanese company, so that when the occasion came the Japanese Government could make use of the place as a base. As to the fishing rights he said we could make no objection whatever, as that is a well-conceded matter to various nations as well as to the Japanese.

Mr. Lodge was gratified at the statement, because it continues the record of the friendliness of Japan, and adds to the incident a polite explanation of what may be taken to have been the real basis of all the rumors of the intended activity at Magdalena Bay.

In his view his resolution has accomplished the effect desired and has made it plain to both the United States and Japan that in compliance with the Monroe doc-

'WALKS' A SIX-FOOTER WITH HER TOY PISTOL

Woman's Popgun at His Head Gently Guides Tall Intruder Into Policeman's Hands.

HE IS LOCKED UP AS A THIEF

Many Burglaries in the Bronx Stir Residents to Demand More Police Protection.

A determined-looking woman followed a six-foot man down Decatur Avenue, the Bronx, yesterday afternoon. What attracted the attention of home-going school children and passers by to the pair was that the woman was keeping the tall young man ahead covered with what appeared to be a very businesslike revolver.

She turned the man over to Policeman Williamsee of the Bronx Park Station, and to the Lieutenant at the desk she told her story. The prisoner described himself as Daniel Roach, an iron molder of 1,846 De Kalb Avenue, Brooklyn. His accuser is Mrs. Sarah Ehrlich of 3,258 Decatur Avenue.

The Ehrlichs live in a frame house set back a few feet from the street. Mrs. Ehrlich returned from a shopping tour about 4 P. M. The servant and other members of the household were out, and as she opened the front door she heard the sound of some one walking upstairs. She called out, and in answer Roach came down the stairs. Mrs. Ehrlich asked him what he was doing in the house, and he mumbled that he had come about a bill as he made for the front door.

As he opened the door Mrs. Ehrlich stepped into the dining room. The sight of the family silver packed up for removal convinced her that her visitor was not a bill collector. On a stand in the room was a child's toy revolver. Picking it up she ran after the man, who had gained the street.

Coming up with him she pointed the toy at him, and, holding it at his head, walked him two blocks until she found a policeman. Roach did not know he had surrendered in fear of a toy pistol until the Lieutenant questioned the woman about carrying a revolver in the street. He was locked up charged with burglary.

George W. Markey, publisher of the Bronx Democrat, and Mrs. Markey, returned to their home at 491 East 140th Street last evening to find that their apartment had been entered and that $1,700 worth of clothing and silverware had been taken.

Mrs. Markey before her marriage in September was Miss May Sheridan, chief operator at the Stuyvesant telephone exchange. She received many valuable wedding presents, and last night was mourning their loss. The matter was reported to the police, who learned that earlier in the afternoon some of the persons in the house noticed three well-dressed men leaving, each carrying a dress-suit case. As they passed downstairs they were heard to remark that "now they could have a very fine vacation."

Burglaries are becoming so frequent in the Avenue St. John district of the Bronx that residents are thinking of asking the authorities to send more policemen into the neighborhood. On Thursday Simon Rosenfeld lost $500 worth of goods. The thieves went out by way of the fire escape and the roof. The theft was discovered when Mrs. Rosenfeld, who was on the street with her baby, went into the apartment.

On Wednesday thieves jimmied the door of Morris Kornberg, 1,020 Avenue St. John, and got away with articles valued at $200. Samuel Cohen, in the same house, lost $100 worth at the same time and in the same way. The apartments of Gabriel Hyman, 616 Southern Boulevard, were visited on Thursday, and the thieves departed with goods valued at $400. On Thursday thieves entered the apartments of Morris Einstein, 614 Southern Boulevard. The Einsteins were $50 poorer when the thieves departed.

ALBANY, April 5.—The Rev. William Cashin, assistant pastor of Holy Innocents' Church, New York City, was appointed Chaplain of Sing Sing Prison to-day by Col. Joseph F. Scott, Superintendent of State Prisons.

MORGAN TO MEET KAISER.

Report That Settlement of Italian-Turkish War Will Be Discussed.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 5.—According to a dispatch from Modena, sent out by the Exchange Telegraph Company, it is understood in Rome that negotiations are proceeding for a meeting at Venice between the Kaiser and J. P. Morgan. After the conversations which Mr. Morgan had with King Victor Emmanuel, the belief is gaining ground that the object of a meeting between the Kaiser and the American magnate is connected with an attempt to effect a settlement of the war between Italy and Turkey.

BALLOONS RAISE WRECK.

Easily Lift French Craft Sunk with Twelve Tons of Lead.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, April 5.—Interesting experiments were made at Cherbourg this morning with an old boat weighted with twelve tons of lead, (this being about the weight of a submarine.)

The craft was sunk in the harbor and raised by special balloons, covered with haircloth and India rubber, and protected by metal. The balloons when filled by the hydrometer drew the wreck to the surface with ease.

NEW WORDS FOR THE FLIERS.

Navy Aviator Suggests Some Long Substitutes for Foreign Terms.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Airboatmanship is the word which should be applied to the art of sailing a hydro-aeroplane, in the opinion of Capt. Washington I. Chambers, who has charge of the navy's aviation experiments.

Instead of using foreign terms the Captain would substitute airplane for aeroplane, landing gear for chassis, body for fuselade, and airboatmanship or airseamanship for hydroairmanship.

NO MIDWEEK ENGLISH MAIL.

One White Star and Three American Liners Tied Up by Coal Strike.

Owing to the coal strike in England there were no mid-week mails from Great Britain this week, and there is no fast mail for Southampton to-day as three of the four American liners were laid up, as well as the Oceanic of the White Star Line. The next mail will arrive to-morrow on the Cunard liner Caronia. Shipping men said yesterday that the entire Atlantic service would have been tied up if the strike had continued much longer. The White Star liner Baltic, which is due to arrive here early to-day with the London Symphony Orchestra on board, may have taken some mails from Queenstown last Friday.

ALLEN OUTLAWS ARE HUNGRY

Fugitive Assassins Begin to Suffer Under Governor's Proclamation.

HILLSVILLE, Va., April 5.—According to "Sig" Smith, who lives near Mount Airy, on the North Carolina line, Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, the two Court House assassins, went to his cabin last night and begged for food. Allen knocked on his door, he said, and Edwards stood guard in the yard. Allen declared neither had taken food that day. They got none from Smith, and disappeared in the mountains.

The mountaineer feared to tell the detectives until midnight, and it was morning when the posse took up the trail. Sheriff Haynes's bloodhounds refused to scent the trail, and the posse went off on Smith's directions.

The posses are posting copies of Gov. Mann's proclamation calling upon all citizens to withhold aid from the fugitive outlaws. Allen and Edwards are the only free men of the gang of eight which on March 14 raided the Carroll County Court House and murdered five persons, three of them officers of the court.

trine, Japan cannot consistently take any step looking to the establishment of any sort of a foothold on the American continent without offense to this country.

Measured by this test of the matter, Mr. Lodge would not regard the statement by the Japanese Ambassador as squarely meeting the implied charge of his resolution, which was that an attempt was under headway to gain a strategic military foothold for Japan at Magdalena Bay.

Mr. Lodge points out that the place has no natural resources of any value, that there is no commerce there, that there is no occasion for a steamship dock or coaling station there, and that the Americans who have put money into the cession cannot fairly expect to make good their investment by selling out to any Government in violation of the implied application and extent of the Monroe Doctrine.

Never Believed There Was a Plot.

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, Democratic member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"The statement which the Prime Minister of Japan has cabled to THE NEW YORK TIMES in response to its message to him about the Magdalena Bay affair is a very important one. What Marquis Saionji says in this message confirms my own impression about the matter, that there is nothing in the story of a plot on the part of Japan to gain a foothold on this continent, so far as the Government of Japan is concerned.

"Without knowing any of the facts, I am confident that the information called for in the resolution of Senator Lodge will indicate when received that Japan is making no attempt to get a foothold in Mexico. That's my own impression. I think that impression is quite generally held among members of the Senate.

"My own guess is, although it is only my surmise, that Senator Lodge entertains the same views, and that he introduced his resolution of inquiry mainly for the purpose of clearing the atmosphere by showing that there is no ground for fear of a plot on the part of the Government of Japan against us in Mexico.

"I am glad THE NEW YORK TIMES had the enterprise to cable to the Japanese Premier. Marquis Saionji's response is a most important statement at this juncture. I think it shows that the Japanese Government is anxious that no wrong impressions should be propagated, that the Japanese Government has acted all along in perfect good faith."

Representative William Sulzer of New York, Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said:

"The statement which THE TIMES has received from the Premier of Japan confirms what I said yesterday. There is nothing in the Magdalena Bay story. Our relations with Japan are friendly and will continue so. There is no danger of war, and nobody need be unduly disturbed—not even Senator Lodge.

"THE NEW YORK TIMES is to be congratulated on its newspaper ability and commended for setting the matter right before the people of our country."

Calls It Very Important.

Senator Rayner of Maryland, member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"The statement which the Prime Minister of Japan sends to THE NEW YORK TIMES is a very important one, but I prefer not to make any comment upon it until after the President submits to the Senate the response of the State Department to the resolution of inquiry, introduced by Senator Lodge."

Senator William Alden Smith, of the Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"We have known for some time of the interest of individual Japanese citizens in those fishery rights on the west coast of Mexico, and the interest they feel in the cotton productions of the Imperial Valley. This, however, has not alarmed any one, nor does it show an aggressive disposition on the part of the Japanese in the Western Hemisphere.

"The Magdalena Bay rumors were aside from those two matters of fishing rights and cotton production, and it is very gratifying to learn that the Japanese Government disavows a purpose to establish a coaling station at that point. This disavowal will, in all probability, be quite satisfactory to the members of our committee, who were in favor of the Lodge resolution. That resolution was not offered because of fear of fishing rights, but because of rumors relative to Magdalena Bay."

Senator Benjamin F. Shively of Indiana, member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"Of course, without knowing more facts than have been stated it is difficult to pronounce an intelligent opinion on the subject. Nevertheless even to this extent the facts as set forth in the cablegram will be very closely scrutinized, I am certain, by the Foreign Relations Committee and the Senate. So far as I am aware the information conveyed in the Premier's cablegram is new and has not been before the committee. The question of the nature and value of these fishing rights will naturally be a subject of some inquiry and on the question of their value may hinge the question whether these or fishing rignts are the main question, only incidental."

Senator Porter J. McCumber of North Dakota of the Foreign Relations Committee said:

"The cablegram to THE TIMES from the Prime Minister of Japan is important at this juncture. I know nothing of the facts, but I have not taken the Magdalena Bay stories seriously. I don't think these stories are believed by members of the Senate generally.

"Some persons credited them, and Senator Lodge offered his resolution to ascertain the facts. I do not believe that Senator Lodge himself gave credit to the matter, but that he offered his resolution to get at the facts. As I understand the message from the Prime Minister, it means that the Japanese Government is not after Mexican territory, but that some of its citizens have received certain fishing rights. I suppose that any of the Central American States has the right to grant fishing privileges if they so elect. I cannot understand how the granting of such a concession would affect Magdalena Bay, or the Monroe Doctrine, or that we could complain about it. These same rights have been granted to citizens of the United States. The granting of such rights to private citizens is only one of those things which occurs right along. American citizens have many concessions in Mexico and Central America."

Sent to State Department.

Ambassador Chinda sent Marquis Saionji's reply to THE TIMES dispatch to the State Department by Mr. Hanihara, the First Secretary, late in the afternoon in order that this Government might be advised of the desire of his Government to set at rest the apparent feeling in the United States over the rumors that have been rife for the past few days.

Huntington Wilson, Acting Secretary of State, gave the statement very careful consideration, but declined to be interviewed in regard to it. He has from the first characterized the uproar about Magdalena Bay as ridiculous and unworthy of the attention or a dignified Government official.

If he had been in the place of Premier Saionji, whom he knows very well, he would not have authorized the denial and statement that was given out by Ambassador Chinda. At the same time he recognizes the fact that at the distance from which the Japanese must consider the newspaper sensations of the last week it is not an easy matter to form the proper perspective, and in line with the desire shown when the school question in California aroused so much feeling in this country the Japanese Government has generously responded to the emergency and endeavored to quell the imagined storm of resentment seemingly arising in the United States.

The State Department will send to the Senate Monday the information in its possession called for by the Lodge resolution. The answer will be simple and direct, and the President will not send any message with the data. The attorneys for the American syndicate that is trying to convert into cash the cession of Magdalena Bay have been before the State Department on several occasions and their correspondence will form an important part of the communication which the President will make.

It is believed that the answer will satisfy every one concerned in the matter that there has never at any time been any menace to the United States involved, and that there is nothing to fear from the activity of Japan in any way along the Mexican Pacific Coast.

How the Rumors Started.

The first occasion for the spread of the idea that Japan purposed to establish a military base at Magdalena Bay came when the Mexican Government a year and a half ago politely informed the United States that the privilege which had been granted for two years for oud Pacific Fleet to conduct target practice in the bay was becoming embarrassing to President Diaz. Representation was made that the feeling of hostility among Mexican lower classes to citizens of this country, engaged in various lines of business in Mexico, was increasing, and that President Diaz had been severely criticised for allowing the American fleet to use Magdalena Bay as he had. The hint was a strong one, and last year the fleet did not go there.

Following the publication of the fact that the fleet was not to go again to Magdalena Bay there crept into the press o fthis country reports that a secret treat yhad been negotiated between Mexico and Japan, by which Japan was to have the right to establish a naval base on Lower California. This came at about the same time that excitement was strong in California over Japanese immigration, and was supposed to be a part of that incident.

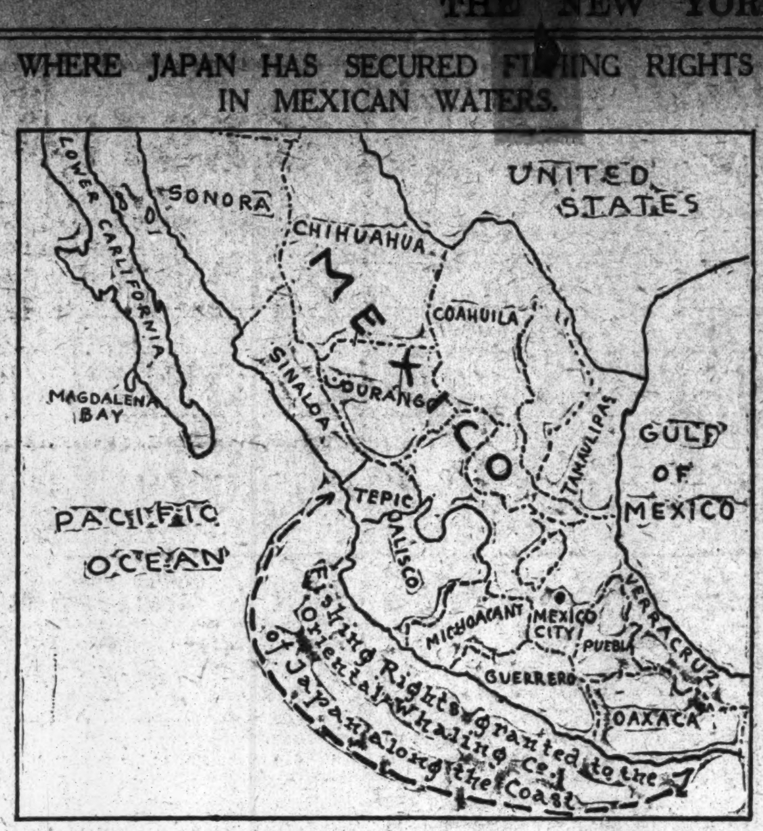
The matter had a long rest until about two months ago representatives of the syndicate, which has the concession, began to take steps to dispose of their property in order to pay off obligations. Then stories cropped out about the value of the place as a terminus for a line of steamers.

Last year during the Madero revolution the rumor started once or twice that Japan might take a hand in the situation, and a Japanese cruiser was seen of the coast of Lower California in the visions of some Pacific Coast newspaper men. None of the rumors was rewarded as worth denials, and no attention was paid to them by either Government. They died out and would have been forgotten had not Senator Lodge referred to Magdalena Bay in his speech last month on the arbitration treaties. That revived the whole matter.

Intervention Talk Disgusts Taft.

President Taft and members of his Cabinet, who view such events from the inside, have been disgusted with the pressure which has been brought to bear of late to force intervention in Mexico and involve the country in international complications.

WHERE JAPAN HAS SECURED FISHING RIGHTS IN MEXICAN WATERS.



LODGE SEES THE PRESIDENT.

Says Afterward He Has No Idea What Taft Will Do About Japan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Senator Lodge called at the White House to-day and had a long conversation with the President on the subject of Japan's supposed effort to obtain a foothold on the west coast of Mexico. The conference was followed by a report that the President would avail himself of the opportunity speedily to issue a statement of the policy of the United States on the general subject of the unalterable opposition of this country to the acquisition of even small stations close to the borders of the United States.

When Mr. Lodge reached the Capitol, however, he said he had no idea what the President would do in the matter. It can be stated emphatically that the Senator's resolution of inquiry was introduced in the Senate without consultation with the President or the State Department.

The complete independence of Mr. Lodge's move saves this Government from diplomatic embarrassment in the matter. But it does suggest a peculiar situation regarding the relations between the Department of State and the Senate. The upper chamber of the National Legislature and the State Department naturally come into contact often, owing to the Senate's prerogative of confirming diplomatic nominations and transfers and ratifying or rejecting treaties. With a Republican majority in the Senate and a Republican Secretary in office, the relations between the two would ordinarily be most friendly. But at the present time they are distinctly the reverse, and the way in which the Japanese incident developed is only one illustration of the lack of harmony that has been shown since Mr. Knox took charge of the department.

Because the "advice and consent of the Senate" have to be obtained on nearly all important matters affecting the department, treaties have been negotiated in previous Administrations and diplomatic appointments have been made only after previous consultations with at least the majority members of the Committee on Foreign Relations. And as that committee is noted for the non-partisan character of its membership in general, both majority and minority members have been taken into the confidence of the President or Secretary of State.

Mr. Knox has uniformly followed another course. Perhaps the presence on the committee of Senator Root, who as Secretary of State won distinction second only in recent years to John Hay, occasioned Mr. Knox's reluctance to appear to lean too heavily on the committee. At any rate, the general arbitration treaties were drafted without consultation with Mr. Root, who had negotiated previous arbitration treaties, or with other members of the committee, who in the end would have to pass upon them. The same course was followed in regard to the Nicaraguan and Honduran treaties, and before that in regard to the neutralization of the Manchurian Railway, the nominating of Ambassadors and Ministers, and in many minor matters.

The results to the plans of the Secretary of State have been unfortunate. The Honduran and Nicaraguan treaties in their present form have failed. The general arbitration treaties were so emasculated by the Senate that the President has not yet decided that they are worth exchanging ratification with Great Britain and France. The neutralization scheme met a dead wall of opposition, which any of the older Senators could have foretold for it. And, lastly, the Senate Committee has dropped a hint to the State Department that the rather wholesale transfer of subordinate diplomatic officers must end.

These incidents have led to a feeling of hostility on the part of certain Senators. They feel that Mr. Knox takes his duties too lightly. He is not often in his office, and the work has fallen to an extraordinary degree upon the Assistant Secretary of State, Huntington Wilson. While Mr. Knox's method of ignoring the Senate, of which he was once a member, might have been excused by personal friends in that body, they have taken a different attitude toward that method when the only head of the department showing active direction of the work is Mr. Wilson.

It was upon Mr. Wilson that some of the blame fell for several recent transfers, although his responsibility in the matter does not appear. Following a plan of giving the younger members of the Diplomatic Service diversified experience, the department has recently shifted them every year or so to different posts. With increasing disapproval, the Senate confirmed these transfers. But not long ago an unusually long list of transfers was sent in, and the committee inquired of the Secretary why the changes were made. In the end confirmation was given, but it was hinted that the transfers must be ordered with more care.

Incidents of this sort prepared the way for the final break on Magdalena Bay.

DENIES PURPOSE TO SELL.

E. D. Rowland Says Magdalena Land Was Never Offered.

E. D. Morgan Rowland of the Chartered Company of Lower California, who has been reported as being interested in the possible sale of lands at Magdalena Bay to the Japanese Government, made a statement last night at his club to a TIMES reporter, in which he denied that any land would change hands.

The statement was dictated, and is as follows:

"This land or any part of it has never been offered to the Japanese Government. I do not know anything more about it. If it has been offered it was by some one who was not in authority. I am satisfied that the story is the creation of an American newspaper.

"I am interested in the land at Magdalena Bay. I make this statement on my own authority, to the best of my knowledge and belief. If it has been offered to the Japanese Government I would probably know it."

Mr. Rowland then went on to explain how the report that his company was to sell land to Japan had, in his opinion, originated. He said:

"There is a man in California, a Japanese named Otosaburo Moda, who for twenty-five years has been a land buyer. A short while ago he bought some land; 800 or 8,000 acres, I don't remember which, in the Sacramento Valley, for another man. He paid $50 an acre for it. It is now worth $150 an acre. When I went down to Magdalena on this last trip to look over the land we own there, I took this Japanese land expert with me.

"When we came back to San Francisco in February we were besieged by newspaper men, and the report was immediately sent out that Japan was to get the land. There isn't any land there. It is all rock. There are between fifty and sixty natives at the place. To any one who has seen it, it is an amusing thing to consider it as a port of any kind."

The company in which Mr. Rowland is interested is known as the Chartered Company of Lower California and controls about 4,000,000 acres of land. It comprises land which was originally the Flores-Hale concession and extends into the interior as well as flanking the harbor to the northward and southward.

Mr. Rowland stated that he was very much amused by the reported sale of his land to Japan.

"The story is utterly foolish," he said, "and is simply a lot of free advertisement for us. It may even lead to our selling this barren land," he added smilingly, "for it has already given us half a million dollars' worth of free advertising."

Mr. Rowland refused to make an unequivocal statement that the company in which he is interested had or had not sold land or offered land to Japan. He confined himself to the statement that some one unknown to him "could have offered the land, and, of course, if the price is big enough any one will sell what he has."

EVASION, DECLARES BRAUN.

He Still Believes Japan Has a Secret Agreement with Mexico.

Marcus Braun, who made the statement onu Wednesday that he believed an agreement existed between Mexico and Japan by which Japan was to receive concessions at Magdalena Bay or other Pacific Coast points on Mexican terriotry, when the statement of the Japanese Premier was shown to him late last night, said:

"This is an evasion. I regard the statement as plainly demonstrative of my assertion that an agreement exists. I do not expect, and nobody expects, that Washington is going to give out its information, but the agreement exists just the same.

"What has Tepic to do with Magdalena? The question has not been answered. The point is not, as many people understand it, a military move. It is merely a furthering of the Japanese Government's plan to work their laborers across the Mexican line into the United States while at the ports of the United States they make a semblance of restraining them."

as the result of his having led his command into the trap Villa set for him.

The homemade cannon which Campa was forced to abandon was recaptured by his men as a matter of pride, and is being overhauled for use against the loyalists at Torreon. A machine gun also captured added to the battery under the command of Capt. Sam. Dreben, the American soldier of fortune.

The rebel loss was slight, owing to the poor marksmanship of the Federal volunteers.

Villa escaped. His force, which looked so large to Gen. Campa in the hour of his defeat, proved to be only 700. They are believed to have retreated to Mapimi, where the main Federal forces are said to be mobilizing.

REBELS ROB AMERICAN MINE.

Take Panuco and Inflict $30,000 Damage to Company's Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, April 5.—American lives and property are not safe in Southwestern Mexico, according to mail reports from Culiacan and Mazatlan. Roving bands of rebels, who espouse no other cause than loot, and who ride from place to place, have been attacking American mining companies operating along the Costal Plain, and Americans are deserting their properties and fleeing to the border States to escape further violence.

Panuco, a town thirty miles east of Mazatlan, has been captured by the rebels so called, and they are now in possession of all the public utilities and offices. Panuco is an American mining town, the Ptnuco Mining Company being the largest in that section. The rebels attacked the town, which was defended by a small command of Federals. The town capitulated after two days' hard fighting. The mining company was then robbed of eighteen ingots of purse silver, a quantity of gold bullion, $2,500 in money, and the entire plant was damaged.

Before leaving the mine the rebels cut the hydraulic water system and caused a loss of $30,000 to the company for no other reason than that the plant was owned by the hated gringoes, or Americans.

MISSISSIPPI FLOOD IS GROWING WORSE

Levee at Hickman, Ky., Breaks and Area of 150 Square Miles Is Inundated.

HUNDREDS WORK ON DYKES

Property Loss So Far Is Estimated Conservatively at $1,500,000—Death List Reaches Eighteen.

The flood area in the Mississippi Valley was widened and lengthened yesterday. The big Government levee west of Hickman, Ky., protecting the Reelfoot Lake district of Kentucky and Tennessee, broke late yesterday afternoon, and it is believed 150 square miles will be inundated. This section is thickly populated and loss of life is expected. Much suffering and property damage seems certain.

In its onward rush the Mississippi reached a flood stage almost as far south as Natchez, Miss., and last night hundreds of men were at work on the levees in the newly menaced territory, stopping small breaks and strengthening spots weakened by the terrific strain. As the river still was rising at Cairo, Ill., and the Ohio was slowly mounting higher as far up as Louisville, with smaller streams all down the line pouring unprecedented volumes of water into the Mississippi, the lower river district faced a crisis.

Six hundred and thirty-eight miles of the Mississippi is seriously affected, that being the distance between Columbus, Ky., and Vicksburg, Miss. The greatest strain, where the levee is likely to break any time, extends from Columbus, Ky., to Helena, Ark., a distance of 318 miles.

The flood death list was brought up to eighteen to-day. This is not positive, however, as reports of loss of life have proved inaccurate in some instances. Doubtless, persons have been drowned in remote settlements, and the facts not made known. The property loss last night was conservatively estimated at $1,500,000. Relief work is going on as rapidly as interrupted transportation facilities will allow.

At Hickman, Ky., 3,000 are sheltered in tents, provided by the Federal and State Governments. Food is being supplied in all districts. There has been little suffering from hunger.

FARM LANDS UNDER WATER.

Great Damage Caused by Breaking of Levee at Hickman, Ky.

HICKMAN, Ky., April 5.—With a roar that could be heard for miles, the Mississippi River flood burst through the Government levee five miles west of here late to-day and to-night is racing over the Reelfoot Lake district. By to-morrow 150 square miles of farming lands will be an inland sea. Grave apprehension is felt for the safety of farmers in remote sections of the sparsely settled country. The water when it came through tore a gap sixty feet wide in the levee, and the swirling current is fast widening the breach.

The Reelfoot levee, as it is generally known, has been regarded as a danger point for a week, and strenuous efforts had been made to hold the flood. Until to-day, when the waves driven by a high wind began to beat against the banks, it was thought the fight would be won. The Reelfoot basin is made up of small farming communities. A number of the residents already had abandoned their homes, but others remained on their lands. When the crash came efforts were made to communicate with the scattered villages by telephone, but with little success.

Thieves are becoming active in the flooded section of West Hickman. County authorities are discussing the advisability of asking for a company of militia to protect property. Refugees continue to arrive in great numbers. Their losses are temporarily obscured in their minds by personal suffering and anxiety over their kinsmen. Mrs. William Venters of Island 8, who was rescued by a launch, is almost distracted because her husband and children were left behind, having taken refuge in the attic of their home, where, she says, the inhabitants of the island were driven several days ago. She thinks the water must be to the housetops by now.

A family from Missouri spent a half day in rowing across the river in a skiff, and the men were nearly exhausted before they got out of the current. A steamer is plying along the river below here picking up marooned residents. Scores have been rescued in this manner from perilous positions. Three hundred are quartered at Tiptonville, Tenn.

Organized relief work is being successfully carried on here with the means at hand, and as funds arrive the refugees at least will be spared the hardship of hunger. Wagon trains of provisions and bedding have arrived from Fulton, Ky., and Union City, Tenn. The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis is running trains to East Hickman, a mile away, where a temporary station has been erected.

On the hill where tents have been put up the women of Hickman assisted in preparing the camp for the refugees, distributing food, clothing, and bedding.

CAIRO LEVEES HOLD FIRM.

Illinois City Is Entirely Cut Off from Railroad Connections.

CAIRO, Ill., April 5.—This city, surrounded for two days by water, remained dry to-night, and is believed to be safe from the flood. The levees stood firm, and the men patrolling them reported no sign of any weakening.

The citizens recovered quickly from the scare they received this morning, when it was reported that the Tenth Street levee had given way. Investigation showed that back water from the drainage pump had risen more than usual, but that there was no danger. The river to-night again reached a stage of 53.9 feet, and it is expected to remain at this stage for several days. The breaking of the Government levee at Hickman, Ky., will relieve the strain on the levees at Cairo and other points north of Hickman.

The scene in the drainage district immediately north of Cairo is distressing. Houses partly submerged yesterday were torn from their foundations to-day, and to-night are on their sides or upside down. A big church building is on its side. Factories are submerged to their roofs, and in some places are entirely covered. The city is entirely cut off from direct railroad communication. Many people went on tugs to Mound City and from there took trains.

FEAR LEVEES WILL BREAK.

Situation Along Lower Mississippi One of Gravest Danger.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 5.—The Mississippi River is slowly increasing to a point where it will be an impossibility for the levees to withstand tbe pressure. News of breaks are expected at any moment, and with them will come reports of death and disaster. Each hour sees the situation growing nearer to a point that will be beyond human endurance.

From many sections, it is reported, the flood, which already has broken all records for the volume of water held by a practically continuous levee system, is moving to the South, but the crest has not been reached in the district between Hickman, Ky., and Arkansas City, Ark. Unless big breaks occur above here a stage of forty-five feet will be reached within thirty-six hours.

Far down into Louisiana and Mississippi farmers are hurriedly gathering together their families, live stock, and such household goods as may be carried quickly, and are moving to higher ground. Warnings have been sent broadcast throughout the section.

Thousads of men are at work to-night battling the flood at many points along the river. Life is risked that property may be saved. Great suffering is prevalent in a widespread territory. Refugees are seeking towns and cities nearest their deserted homes. Many underwent great privations before arriving at some place where proper care could be given them. Some traveled miles on foot, hungry and often thirsty. A few have steadfastly refused to leave their homes, and these are in danger.

Township, county, municipal, State, and Federal authorities are affording aid where it is possible. A meeting has been called by the President of the Business Men's Club here to furnish relief for the sufferers. Across the river from Memphis the conditions are growing more dangerous each moment. For a distance of nearly 800 yards the water has reached the top of the levees, and is being held back by sand bags.

Reports received from R. N. McWilliams, a Mississippi planter living opposite Island 83, that the levee at Rescue, Miss., had broken have been confirmed. The levee was not the main one, but its break caused the inundation of many large plantations.

The Government levee five miles below Hickman broke late this afternoon, and the inundation of the Reelfoot Lake section of Tennessee is now a matter of only a few hours. News late to-night from the break is meagre, but it is said the break is a serious one. From Charleston, Mo., north to Cairo the country for miles back is under water. Great destitution prevails. In one case a woman with a babe in her arms was rescued from a tree. At Wyatt, Mo., the water is three feet deep in the business section of the town.

Gov. Donaghey of Arkansas to-day sent two companies of militia to Barfield Point, nine miles from Blytheville, Ark., where the St. Francis levee is weakening, and a desperate battle is being fought raising and strengthening the dykes. The situation was regarded as so desperate that Adjt. Gen. B. G. Green was sent to take command of the troops. O. N. Killough, President of the St. Francis Levee District, has given up all hopes of the levee withstanding the flood.

At Kankaroo Point, fifty miles below Memphis, water began flowing over the levees to-night, and every available man for miles around was sent to the scene. Five hundred men were also rushed to Modoc, a point twenty-five miles below Friars Point, Miss., on the Arkansas side, where water was flowing over the levee.

The situation in Memphis is gradually growing worse. The water in North Memphis is reported a foot higher to-night than this morning and spreading.

$10,000 FOR LEVEE SUPPORT.

Senate Votes Money for Protection of Mound City, Ill.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—On an appeal from Senator Cullom the Senate to-day appropriated $10,000 for the protection of the levees at Mount City, Ill., ten miles up the Ohio River from Cairo, Ill. The formality of reference to a committee was dispensed with.

Mr. Fitzgerald in the House said the President had instructed the Secretary of War to utilize army supplies, but that reports indicated there were supplies sufficient in the flood districts to meet all demands.

Eastern Mails Reach Pacific Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—The first through Eastern mail to arrive here in several days, having been delayed by Missouri and Mississippi Valley floods, came to-day on a special train. More than 350 tons of mail, including 400 pouches of British mail for New Zealand, was rushed across the bay and distributed in record time to waiting trains and steamers.

FOLLOWERS UPHOLD KEITH.

Elected Chairman of Senate District Committee—Warning to Murphy.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 5.—Harry P. Keith, who was elected a member of the Democratic State Committee from the Senatorial District comprising the Counties of Suffolk and Nassau, whom Tammany Leader Murphy is seeking to unseat, won a double victory over the Tammany boss here to-day. When the Senatorial Committee of the district met to reorganize, Mr. Keith was elected Chairman. When the Nassau County Democratic Committee met for reorganization it not only elected Philip J. Christ, one of Mr. Keith's lieutenants, Chairman, but it also adopted resolutions warning Mr. Murphy to keep his hands off Nassau County's affairs.

The members of the Senatorial Committee from Suffolk County, where the Democratic organization is controlled by ex-State Senator Edwin Bailey, one of Murphy's henchmen, who is contesting Mr. Keith's seat on the State Committee, stayed away from the meeting. The Democratic County Committee of Suffolk was scheduled to reorganize yesterday, and the members of the Senate Committee from that county feared that if they attended the meeting of the Senatorial Committee friends of Mr. Keith might capture control of the Suffolk County Committee.

At the meeting of the Suffolk County Democratic Committee, Supervisor C. Milton Rogers, who is friendly to ex-Senator Bailey and to Tammany Leader Murphy, was elected Chairman.

SAVED BY HIS JUDGES FROM WHIPPING POST

Flood of Letters from Many Other States Came Later to Plead for Burglar.

BUT THE JUDGES HAD ACTED

Delaware Legislature May Abolish Whipping — Wright, the Burglar, Pleaded Guilty—Serving 14 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 5.—Although Gov. Pennewill received 300 letters from ten different States protesting against the administration of thirty additional lashes to Richard Wright, a white man, for burglary, the victim owes the remission of the lashes to Judges Conrad and Boyce, who sentenced him. The Board of Pardons at Dover remitted the lashes yesterday following a reprieve granted the accused by the Governor. Wright was whipped with forty lashes on March 2, and was to receive thirty more a week later.

The Governor, who is at his country home near Greenwood, said to-night that before the remonstrances in Wright's favor had begun to come in he had received letters from Judges Conrad and Boyce asking for Executive clemency in the prisoner's behalf.

"It was this," the Governor added, "that decided the matter. My mind was made up what to do before the protests from without the State came to hand."

Wrigh unexpectedly pleaded guilty in court to four indictments charging theft and burglary. It was mandatory upon the Judges to impose seventy lashes in accordance with the statutes. This they did, in addition to giving the man a sentence of fourteen years' imprisonment.

Immediately after Wright received forty lashes on the bare back the Judges got in touch with the Governor in behalf of the prisoner and requested a reprieve. The Governor granted sixty days until the Board of Pardons could act.

The Governor was asked to-night if the protests influenced his action to any extent.

"No," he replied, "I cannot say that they did. The letters were from individuals and organizations. In many of them the writers frowned upon the whipping post generally and urged its abolition. The Judges took action in the case, however, before the residents of other States knew anything about Wright's sentence."

The Governor declared he did not remember any of the names of the writers, and said all the missives had been destroyed.

"I will not say the whipping post is not a good thing in some instances," he continued. "Ten or fifteen lashes, however, are as good as 100; the minimum number carries disfranchisement."

The agitation over this case and the whipping of two negroes on their bare backs in the open air with the thermometer at zero last Winter will be followed by appeals to the Legislature next January to abolish the whipping post.

The pillory was in use in Delaware until a few years ago. Agitation resulted in its being abolished by the General Assembly.

GOV. MARSHALL'S AMBITION.

Without Campaign Funds, but He Wants Nomination.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A frank and candid Presidential aspirant came to town to-day. He is Gov. Marshall of Indiana, who has thirty delegates pledged to him and is waiting for something to drop. He furnished a new definition of "progressive."

"What is a progressive?" he said when somebody used the word. "In the Republican camp it seems to mean one who wants to progress toward the Presidency."

"Are you a candidate?"

"I'm not chasing the nomination," replied the Governor. "Indiana Democrats say they want me and I believe they mean it, but I have no headquarters, no campaign managers, and no campaign money."

"How can you get the nomination then?"

"The only chance I have would be through a deadlock in the convention with attention turning to Indiana."

FOSS IS OUT OF THE RACE.

Massachusetts to Vote for Taft, Roosevelt, La Follette, Clark, Wilson.

BOSTON, April 5.—The alignment of the political forces for the Massachusetts Presidential preference primaries on April 30 was settled to-day with the expiration of the time limit for withdrawals from the Republican and Democratic tickets filed on Tuesday. Republican voters will express their preferences for Taft, Roosevelt, and La Follette, while the Democrats will decide between Clark and Wilson, Gov. Foss having withdrawn his name.

HEADS CITY COMMITTEE.

Koenig Elected Chairman of Republican Body Having Increased Powers.

At a meeting held at the headquarters of the Republican County Committee in the Tilden Building yesterday Samuel S. Koenig, head of that committee, was unanimously elected Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Republican City Committee. Under the old election law, the city committee's only function was to issue the formal call for the city convention.

Under the new direct primary law it will designate the name of the organization candidates for the primary ballot for the offices voted for in the city. Ogden L. Mills was elected Treasurer of the committee and John Boyle, Jr., Secretary.

ECLIPSE TO TEST WIRELESS POWER

Paris Will Try to Prove Whether the Sun's Ultra Violet Rays Supply Energy.

FROM EIFFEL TOWER STATION

Scientists Long Puzzled by the Variations in Sending Power Between Day and Night.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, April 5.—A remarkable experiment in connection with wireless telegraphy will be made here during the eclipse of the sun on April 23, which will obscure four-fifths of the sun's rays in France.

It has been noticed for a long time that the distance to which marconigrams can be dispatched varies greatly according to the time of day and the direction. A message sent by rapid vibrations, which will not carry more than 700 miles during the day, can be sent two or three times that distance at sunset, especially toward the south, while, when slower vibrations are used, it can be transmitted further during the day.

It is believed that these curious facts are due to the ultra-violet rays of the sun, but this has not yet been ascertained, on account of the great changes in atmospheric conditions which take place between day and night.

It is thought an eclipse, when the greater part of these rays will be rapidly cut off, will be an ideal occasion for making decisive tests, and the wireless station on the Eiffel Tower will send messages continually from a little before the eclipse until a little after it in several directions, especially north, south, and west.

If it is found that the force of these messages varies with the progress of the eclipse, it will be considered proved beyond doubt that the ultra-violet rays of the sun are a powerful factor in the energy of the Hertzian waves.

GERMAN CRUISERS COMING.

Moltke and Others Shortly to Sail for America With 2,000 Men.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 5.—The Berlin correspondent of The London Times states that according to telegrams from Kiel, the large cruiser Moltke, accompanied by two cruisers of the "town" type, is expected to leave Germany on May 10 for North America.

With the addition of the Bremen, the station cruiser on the American coast, the squadron will comprise about 2,000 officers and men, or about the same number who visited Kiel from the United States last year.

SAYS JUSSERAND MAY GO.

Paris Newspaper Suggests His Possible Transfer from Washington.

PARIS, April 5.—A series of diplomatic changes is being considered by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, according to the Figaro.

It is regarded as possible that Jules J. Jusserand, now French Ambassador at Washington, will be transferred to Madrid, and that Antony Vladsislas Klobukowski, who is now French Minister at Brussels, will be sent to Washington. No confirmation of these movements can be obtained.

The French Cabinet is about to choose an Ambassador to Austria-Hungary in succession to Philippe Marius Grozier, who resigned in March, and this fact may have given rise to the report of coming transfers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—At the French Embassy to-night it was said there was no truth in the report that Ambassador Jusserand was to exchange his present post for another. This, however, may mean that no official confirmation of the report has yet come from Paris.

SANTIAGO WELCOMES KNOX.

Host of Officials at the Pier and Cavalry to Attend Him.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, April 5.—Secretary Knox arrived this afternoon on the United States gunboat Eagle from Guantanamo, where he transhipped from the cruiser Washington.

Despite the wishes of the Secretary, his arrival took on something of an official character, for he was met at the pier and welcomed by Ross E. Holaday, the American Consul; the Governor of the province, the Commander of the Rural Guards, the Mayor and City Councillors of Santiago, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, representatives of the Archbishop of Santiago, and the British, French, German, Brazilian, Argentine, Colombian, Mexican, Norwegian, Santo Domingan, and other Consuls. A troop of cavalry escorted the Secretary to his hotel, and officers of the Rural Guards were stationed there to attend him.

At the request of Mr. Knox, no functions have been arranged for his entertainment. The Secretary and his party, therefore, spent the afternoon at the San Juan Hill battlefield.

Mr. Knox will board the Washington to-morrow and sail for Kingston, Jamaica.

MANY RESTRICTIONS IN HOME RULE PLAN

Ireland Does Not Get Control of Customs and Excise for Six Years.

CAN IMPOSE HER OWN TAXES

Imperial Government to Remain Paramount in Many Directions—What the Irish Legislature Can't Do.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 5.—The most detailed forecast of the Irish Home Rule bill that has yet appeared is published on "the highest authority" by The Ulster Guardian, the organ of the Ulster Liberal Association, which has been in close touch with the Government in the drafting of the measure.

The Irish Legislature, the paper says, will consist of the Crown and two houses sitting separately. One, the Council, will have 48 members, 36 to be elected and 12 to be nominated by the Crown. Their term of office will be eight years. The other, the Assembly, will consist of 103 elected members, and is to be dissolved every five years.

The Legislature will have no power to make laws affecting the Crown, army, navy, territorials, treaties, titles, treason, naturalization, coinage, copyright, patents, the Post Office, (except in Ireland,) or trade, except within Ireland.

With regard to finance, for six years the customs and excise will continue under imperial control. All other taxes will be under Irish control, and Ireland will have power to impose additional taxes of her own.

After six years the control of the customs and excise will pass into the hands of the Irish Legislature, subject to reversal by the Imperial Parliament of this provision and subject to perpetual free trade between Britain and Ireland.

The initial deficit in Irish revenue will be supplied by grant in aid, diminishing annually, and terminable in six years.

The Dublin police will be under Irish control. The Royal Irish Constabulary will remain under imperial control until a new force, under the control of the local authorities, is established. For six years the Supreme Court Judges will be appointed by the Imperial Government. The Lord Lieutenant will be appointed for a fixed term of years.

With regard to safeguards, the Irish Legislature will have no power to make laws for the purpose of (1) establishing or endowing any religious creed or imposing disabilities or conferring privileges on account of religion as affecting the undenominational constitution of national schools and universities; (2) impairing the validity of the marriage laws as at present existing; (3) depriving any one of life, liberty, or property without process of law in accordance with settled precedents or denying equal protection of laws or taking property without just compensation, and (4) imposing disabilities or conferring privileges on account of birth, parentage, or place of business.

Ireland will send seventy members to Westminster. The Irish peers will remain as before, pending the reform of the House of Lords. The Executive will consist of the Crown, represented by the Lord Lieutenant, acting in Irish affairs with the advice of the Irish Cabinet responsible to the Irish Legislature.

The power of restrain on the Irish legislation will be exercised as follows: (a) Veto by the Lord Lieutenant on instructions from the Imperial Parliament; (b) the Imperial Parliament can repeal an unjust tax; (c) the Privy Council can declare such an act void.

The Ulster Guardian says the bill will satisfy both the Nationalists and Irish Liberals.

VAUDEVILLE SHOW FOR KING.

British Monarchs to Honor Music Hall Profession by Attending One.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 5.—The King and Queen have consented to attend a specially arranged vaudeville entertainment at the Palace Theatre on June 10.

It will be remembered that in connection with last year's coronation festivities they attended gala performances at Covent Garden and His Majesty's Theatre. In order not to offend members of the music hall world, their Majesties had arranged to pay them a similar honor by visiting the Empire Palace, Edinburgh. Before the date arrived, however, the theatre was gutted by fire, which cost the lives of the great La Fayette and some of his company.

The forthcoming performance at the Palace Theatre here will be organized by a committee consisting of all the London vaudeville managers. The performance will last three hours and comprise about twenty acts by representative vaudeville artists.

COAL STRIKE CLIMAX TO-DAY.

British Miners' Federation to Vote for or Against Resuming Work.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 5.—The struggle within the Miners' Federation reaches a climax to-morrow, when it meets for the purpose of considering the resolution of its executive advising the men to return to work pending a settlement of the minimum wage by joint district boards.

In spite of the fact that practically all the leaders have spoken in favor of resuming work, there is a possibility that the executive's resolution will be countermanded by the federation and the men ordered to remain on strike.

Miners meeting in Yorkshire, North Cumberland, Fife, Kinross, and Midlothian instructed their delegates today to condemn the executive resolution at to-morrow's meeting, and move that the men be ordered to remain idle. A bitter feeling against the federation's executive prevailed at these meetings.

If all the delegates representing the districts which voted against resuming work vote in the same sense at the federation meeting, the executive's advice will be rejected by a large majority.

The delegates of the "war districts" have 444 votes in the federation. The delegates from "peace districts" have 190 votes.

CORDON TIGHTENING ROUND PARIS BANDITS

$20,000 BAIT TOO TEMPTING

Fugitives Apparently Betrayed by Confederates for Reward—Carouy's Arrest Due to Deserted Woman.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, April 5.—The arrest of Bonnot, Garnier, and perhaps other members of the motor-car bandits seems imminent. Detectives were all day drawing the cordon around the localities where they are believed to be hiding.

Everything tends to show that the reward of £4,000 ($20,000) offered by the Société Générale for information leading to the apprehension of the brigands has proved too strong a temptation for one or more members of the gang.

It is now known that £500 reward was paid for information which led to the arrest of Soudy. The greatest secrecy is observed regarding the source of the information reaching the police, but the arrest of Carouy may furnish the police with a clue. Carouy himself is reported to have attempted to commit suicide last night by trying to drive a nail into his temple, but he only succeeded in inflicting a trifling scratch.

Carouy appears to owe his arrest to his denunciation by a woman he abandoned in favor of a girl said to be of striking beauty, whom he met at a suburban music hall last September. The detectives set themselves to find this girl in the belief that Carouy would be sure to visit her. This led them to a southern suburb of Paris, where, aided apparently by information from the woman Carouy had deserted, they were able to arrest him.

FLIGHT FROM PEKING TO PARIS

Longest Aeroplane Race Yet Planned by the Paris Matin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, April 5.—The Matin announces its intention of organizing a flying race from Peking to Paris. After recalling the feats of Garros, who mounted to a height of 13,944 feet; of Helen, who flew 778 miles in one day; of Gobe, who made a non-stop flight of 463 miles; of Vedrines, who flew from Paris to Madrid, and of Lieut. Conneau, who flew from Paris to Rome, the Matin says that it now remains to perform a still greater flight, and it will therefore organize a race in the air over 7,500 miles between Peking and Paris, by the route which Prince Scipio Borghese covered in a motor car in 1907.

The Paris to Peking race follows in a series of great cross-country events which had their beginning in a seven-day race from Paris to Amiens and return in August, 1910. This race had been preceded by notable single flights cross country, but not by contests in which a number of aviators participated.

On Dec. 18, 1910, Tom Sopwith flew from Dover, England, to Beaumont, Belgium, and on March 5, 1911, Lieut. Bergue flew 138 miles from Nice to Corsica over water.

On April 12 of the same year Pierre Prier flew from London to Paris without a stop, and on May 21 the famous Paris to Madrid race was started. Pierre Vedrines finished first, covering the distance of 600 miles with only four stops. His aggregate prizes amounted to $30,000.

The next notable race was scheduled to be from Paris to Turin. This began on May 28, and was hotly contested by Beaumont, Lieut. Conneau, and Garros, the former arriving first at Rome. There it was decided to abandon the flight to Turin. Frey, who made the attempt to finish the race on June 13, was seriously injured. Garros and Beaumont, who flies under the name of Con, in this race flew 900 miles.

Germany entered the field of cross-country racing on June 11, 1911, when the German circuit race for prizes aggregating $100,000 was initiated. It was won on July 10 by Koenig, who covered 1,200 miles. It was started from an aerodrome at Johannisthal, and it touched, in the order given, at Magdeburg, Schwerin, Hamburg, Kiel, Luenenburg, Hanover, Muenster, Cologne, Dortmund, Nordhausen, and Balberstadt. Berlin was the finishing point.

Russia's offering, the St. Petersburg-to Moscow race, was decided on July 25, 1911. It was run for prizes amounting to $50,000, and covered about 400 miles.

The greatest race of 1911 was started on July 7, and was known as the European circuit. It covered most of France, Belgium, Holland, and England, the fliers twice crossing the English Channel on their way to and from London. Prizes were awarded amounting to $100,000, Beaumont, the winner, alone receiving $25,000 as his share. Garros finished second, and Vedrines third.

On July 26, 1911, The Daily Mail's circuit of Great Britain was won by Beaumont, his prize money amounting to $50,000. The circuit covered 1,010 miles, from Brooklands north to Edinburgh, and back, via Glasgow, Sterling, Manchester, Carlisle, and Bristol. His flying time for the entire circuit was 22 hours and 28 minutes. A crowd of 50,000 persons greeted him as he completed his flight.

In the United States while the French and other aviators were making cross-country flying famous, the flight of Curtiss from Albany to New York, of Hamilton from New York to Philadelphia, and of Atwood from Boston to Washington and from St. Louis to New York were stirring the people here. The United States has not yet seen its first conspicous cross-country race in which a number of contestnts have fought for leadership. The greatest American achievement in the air is still the flight of Rodgers from New York to Los Angeles. It covered a distance of 3,220 miles in a flying time of 3 days 10 hours and 4 minutes.

The automobile race of Prince Scipio Borghese from Peking to Paris was made, as the air race over the same route is to be made, to demonstrate the fine qualities of the vehicle used.

It required sixty days, with forty-four driving days, for Borghese to make the journey over a route* which had been picked out in advance and equipped with frequent caches of tires, petrol, and water. The route lay across mountains with mere mule tracks on them out from Peking to the Gobi Desert, thence across the desert via a line of telegraph poles, which were followed as a guide; thence to Lake Baikal, across Siberia to St. Petersburg, and then on to Paris.

The automobile problem differed from that of the aeroplane in that the automobile carried its own larder and sleeping equipment, and its driver and his aid were not compelled to depend upon the country for any of their needs.

DOG'S ALARM SAVES 12.

Rouses M. P.'s Family in Blazing House—Has to be Rescued Himself.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 5.—Pery H. Illingworth, M. P., and his family owe their lives to a pet retriever. Mr. Illingworth, who is one of the Government whips and Junior Lord of the Treasury, has just taken the lease of a house at Salisbury, a historic Elizabethan mansion on the banks of the Avon, containing a quantity of very old furniture, which is regarded as priceless.

At 5:30 o'clock this morning the Illingworths were awakened by the continual and excited whinings of the dog, which, being a family favorite, was allowed to sleep outside the bedroom door. They found the house aflame. All the inmates, endangered, were rescued safely, but had no time to dress, much less save their property.

Mr. Illingworth½ having assembled his household on the lawn, including his wife, two baby sons, and eight servants, noticed that the dog was missing. He turned back into the house at some peril to his life, determined not to abandon the animal, to whose warning they owed their safety.

For some time the dog could not be found, and the search was becoming hopeless, when a barking was heard in one of the rooms. Rescue was effected by a ladder from the outside, the interior being then like a furnace.

The place was completely gutted in twenty minutes.

LONDON, April 5.—Three destructive fires in historic country mansions occurred to-night. The first was in Lake House, in Wiltshire, a fine Elizabethan edifice full of priceless Jacobean furniture.

Lake House was occupied by Percy Helden Illingworth, member of Parliament, who, with his wife and children, was only saved from death in the flames by the barking of a dog. The family made its escape clad only in nightclothes.

The other fires were in Rossdhu House, on Loch Lomond, belonging to Sir Ian Colquhoun, and Gibbstown Castle, near Navan, County Meath, Ireland, where alone the damage aggregated $200,000.

Reciprocity Agreement Is Made Between the Dominion and Islands.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, April 5.—A reciprocal trade agreement between Canada and most of the British West Indies has been practically completed, but will not go into operation for nearly a year, as concurrent legislation is necessary.

The schedules will probably include Canadian breadstuffs, fish, lumber and some classes of furniture, a preference being given in Canada to West Indian sugar, molasses, fruits, cocoa, &c.

No official statement is available yet, but it is understood that the West Indian preference is graded to suit the tariffs of the different islands.

¶ As the chauffeur obtains his license for proficiency in driving, so we have obtained from the chauffeur the license of his approval for proficiency in tailoring motor garments. He has learned to expect in a Saks auto suit or overcoat serviceability of fabric, stylish lines, and those shape-retaining qualities which are perhaps the most essential feature in chauffeurs' apparel.

¶ Our assortments of suits and overcoats for the chauffeur this Spring are both liberal in extent and variety, including many new and distinctive models, and the finest fabrics obtainable for motor use. The prices, too, deserve special mention, for they are noticeably low, considering the superiority of workmanship and finish which has always been an attribute of Saks motor wear. Sixth floor

Men's Easter Neckwear
Silk and Knitted......50c. to 3.50

¶ Do not neglect to do that today which it will be impossible to do tomorrow. In other words, do not wake up tomorrow morning with the consciousness that you have neglected to buy a new scarf the day before. Fashions are en fete tomorrow, and a new scarf is necessary, though you forget all else. Many men regard something choice in neckwear as a sort of sartorial uplift, for an effective scarf adds distinction to new clothes and helps regenerate the old.

¶ We are ready with inexhaustible assortments, from scarfs that are eloquent at half a dollar, to those that boast the lineage of foreign looms at three and a half. Plain silks and gorgeous silks—silks that lead the simple life and silks that are rampant with color. Knitted scarfs, too, those soft, alluring sirens of the neckwear family that hug a collar with such infinite tenderness. All shapes, materials, weaves, colors, and prices. Main floor

LETTER AND SPIRIT

The Eighty Maiden Lane Building and the land upon which it is erected represent an investment of over $4,000,000.

The contract for this building, like all such contracts, provided for extensions of time in the event of strikes, etc., and the opportunities were rife for the claiming of such extensions had we insisted upon a strict observance of contract rights.

In fact, if our conduct of this operation had been wholly governed by contractual obligations, the 27-story office building at Eighty Maiden Lane would probably be unfinished at this writing, tenants could not move in during the present renting season, and the Owners would suffer a big loss on their investment.

But beyond our contractual obligations referred to was our moral responsibility to the Owners—that unwritten, irreducible part of the contract, which kept ever before us the vital necessity of completing the building on time, in order that tenants might be given possession and that the Owners should not face the handicap of a rental loss at the very threshold of their enterprise.

The great achievements of the world always transcend the letter and fulfill the spirit. The reputation of this Company has been attained not alone by adhering to the letter of its promises, but by fulfilling those promises in spirit—not alone by meeting its contractual obligations, but by meeting its moral obligations, too.

LESS RENT AND MORE SUNSHINE!

Two things stand out clearly in connection with the new Eighty Maiden Lane Building—low rents and abundant sunshine. Other buildings in the same neighborhood rent for more per foot and are not planned to yield anything like the same proportion of light.

Obviously, if you are open for a change of location the logical solution is the Eighty Maiden Lane Building. It offers you the greatest possible share of light and sunshine at rents which are less per foot of space than you would have to pay in other buildings where facilities are not so modern and sunshine is not so abundant.

More sunshine for less money is a likely-looking proposition and we advise you to get next to it. Phone the Fire Companies Building Corporation — 796 John—headquarters for lower rents and more sunshine.

MINE OWNERS READY FOR A LONG STRIKE

Prepare for Failure of Peace Conference by Hiring Men by the Hundreds.

ARE RETAINED ON HALF PAY

Employment Agencies Busy Engaging Strikebreakers — Miners Shape Plans for Conflict.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—While both the operators and the coal miners are apparently trying for peace, it is evident that neither will be unprepared in case no agreement is reached at the conference in this city next Wednesday. Scattered throughout the city are more than a thousand strike breakers and guards, hired at various agencies here since the talk of the strike began.

At 324 North Ninth Street, is a strikebreaking agency, which, until yesterday, had hired more than 800 men, mostly profession strike breakers, it is said. The agency hiring the men calls itself the Wisch Secret Service Agency, and it announced to-day to scores of applicants that it is engaging no more men at present, excepting a few cooks.

All the men hired by this agency are still in the city and while waiting are receiving half pay. Only able-bodied men have been hired, among them stationary engineers, shaftmen and men whose knowledge would stand them in good turn at the mines.

Several hundred men have been shipped to the coal regions, ostensibly to act as guards in the event of a strike.

The position of many local unions in the Lackawanna region is shown in the action taken by local union No. 637 of the Continental mine, near Scranton. Following a long preamble reciting what the union men have endured in their endeavor to make better working conditions and wages in the anthracite field, fighting the battle for themselves as well as for men who were not members of the union and declaring that this cannot be allowed to go on in the old way if the union is to live, the local union adopted the following:

> Resolved, That we go on record as opposed to any arrangement or contract with the coal operators that does not carry with it the provision that all men and boys employed in or around the mines shall be members of the U. M. W. U., or, in other words, we stand opposed to any agreement with the Anthracite Trust that does not provide for an absolute closed shop. This we consider as vital to the continued life of the union in the anthracite region. In fact, we fear that anything short of this will mean its disintegration.

It was said in Scranton to-day that if the miners' union were recognized so as to provide for a "closed shop" the miners are willing to recede from the "check-off" demand. The "check-off" provides that the coal companies deduct the union dues from the wages of the man and turn them over to authorized officers of the organization.

One-half of the locals in the Scranton-Wilkesbarre territory, it is declared, have adopted resolutions calling for recognition. All the others will adopt similar resolutions before the Philadelphia conference next week.

SOFT COAL PRICES JUMP.

News of Longer Suspension Sends Up Rates After a Decline.

The prices of soft coal, which declined with the news that a settlement had been reached in the bituminous fields, jumped again yesterday in this city with the news that a four weeks' suspension of work is expected in the Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois districts and the Pittsburgh district of Pennsylvania. A representative of the New York and Philadelphia Coal and Coke Company said that no settlement could be called a reality until the miners were actually working under the terms of settlement.

There was little anthracite in the market yesterday, those who had any of the small steam sizes in stock holding it to await the result of the conference on Wednesday between the representatives of the anthracite mine workers and the Operators' Committee of Ten. In view of the general belief that the anthracite mine workers' representatives will make recognition of the union one of the principal issues, the following statement was issued last evening on behalf of the Anthracite Operators' Committee of Ten:

> The operators are willing to stand absolutely upon the decision of the Strike Commission with respect to this demand. No claim has been made that new conditions have arisen to make the issue different now from what it was when the commission passed upon it, and the question should therefore not be reopened.
>
> The operators have consistently held that it was unreasonable to ask them to enter into a contract with a union controlled by workers engaged in bituminous mining, a rival industry. They were upheld in this by the Strike Commission, which declared that the first requisite for trade agreements in the anthracite industry should be an organization "governed by the anthracite mine workers and free from control or dictation of bituminous mine workers."
>
> None of the reforms in organization that the commission recommended has been made, and to-day the operators are asked to do precisely the same thing which the commission, with full power, declined to direct them to do.
>
> On Page 65 of its report the Strike Commission made the following statement: "The present constitution of the United Mine Workers of America does not present the most inviting inducements to the operators to enter into contractual relations with it."
>
> Another conclusive reason why the anthracite operators should not recognize the United Mine Workers as a party to a contract is that not nearly all the anthracite mine workers, not even a majority, are members of that union. This is not a statement of opinion, but of admitted fact. The union's own officers have deplored in their official reports the unwillingness of the mine workers to retain their membership. Though the numerical strength of the union in the anthracite region may increase rapidly at times like the present, it is well known that the great body of mine workers are outside of the organization most of the time.
>
> The experience of the last nine years has thoroughly justified the Strike Commission's plan for governing the relations between the mine workers and operators. With the Conciliation Board always ready to settle grievances, the mine workers have had complete recognition of their rights—a form of recognition that has been satisfactory to a vast majority of them.

While the operators do not say explicitly that if there was a separate union of the anthracite mine workers they would recognize such a union, the belief among dealers is that such a union would be recognized.

FUR WORKERS MAY GO OUT.

8,000 Demand More Pay, a Shorter Day, and Better Conditions.

Samuel Cohen, organizer of the Fur Workers' Union, has been requested by the union to call a mass meeting of its members to vote on a general strike to enforce demands which the employers have ignored. The demands include an eight-hour workday, uniformity in wages and better working conditions.

The meeting will be held in Cooper Union some day next week. There are 10,000 fur workers employed in 800 shops in the city, and 80 per cent. of them are in the union.

"Owing to the germs in the furs when they are being prepared," Mr. Cohen said, "the workers are subject to asthma and other diseases, and we want to have the workday as short as possible. There are several scales of wages and we want to have them uniform. It is a long time since we made the demands, and we have notified the employers several times that we wanted a reply."

Most of the employers are in the Associated Fur Manufacturers, Inc. D. C. Mills, Secretary of this organization, said that its members had received no demands. He added:

"This would be a poor time to strike, anyway. The trade is so slack that a strike would be rather welcome than otherwise."

OPPOSE HARVESTER PLAN.

Dissolution Into Two Companies Not Favored by Government.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Attorney General Wickersham held conferences to-day regarding the relation to the Sherman anti-trust law of three of the most important industries in the country—harvester, steel and beef.

The negotiations between the Government and the International Harvester Company for a friendly dissolution have reached a critical stage, where it is impossible to foretell the outcome. Counsel for the company to-day submitted to the Government in writing certain propositions they had previously made orally. They discussed the corporation's two-company dissolution plan with the Attorney General, assistant to the Attorney General Fowler, Commissioner Herbert Knox Smith and Dr. Francis Walker of the Bureau of Corporations. The Government, it is intimated would prefer a disintegration into a greater number of companies than two, although there has yet been no rejection of the two-company idea.

Mr. Wickersham talked over the Government's plans in the Steel Trust suit with Jacob M. Dickinson and J. E. Colton, the special assistant attorneys general in charge of the case. It is expected that the taking of testimony will begin within a few weeks.

The situation regarding the meat packers, who were recently acquitted at Chicago of charges of criminal violation of the Sherman law was the subject of a long conference, but has not been settled.

GOING TO SEE THE CANAL.

Collector Loeb and His Wife in Port Commissioner Smith's Party.

R. A. C. Smith, Chairman of the State Port Investigating Commission, sails for Panama to-day in an official capacity on the Hamburg-American cruiser Victoria Luise, accompanied by his wife and daughters, Capt. F. O. W. Smith, William Loeb, Jr., Collector of the Port, and Mrs. Loeb, former Judge Le Boeuf of Albany, and his wife and son, and Mrs. E. T. Holmes, and Miss Isabel Harkness. At Havana the party will be joined by former Justice Morgan J. O'Brien.

The list of 400 tourists for the Easter cruise to Havana, Panama, and Jamaica includes Mrs. John A. Dix, wife of Gov. Dix; Major von Hawarth, Military Attaché of the German Embassy at Washington; former Secretary of War Russell A. Alger, James A. Gary, Judge F. W. Henshaw, Baron von Hardenbrock, Wilson Marshall, and Commodore Leonard Richards of the Larchmont Yacht Club.

LIMIT GRADUATES' DRESSES.

Cincinnati Board May Fix the Cost at $2.85 for Materials.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 5.—Extravagant dressing for commencement exercises in the high schools of Cincinnati and Hamilton County will be discontinued if the Union Board of High Schools has its way. This pertains almost entirely to the young women, who must in the future wear plain dresses.

The resolution passed by the board stipulates that Supt. F. B. Dwyer and two principals shall report on the right price for dresses used in graduation exercises.

MOVING HEBREW ORPHANS.

Sheltering Society Soon to Close Home Here for the Country.

The orphan asylum of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, in Broadway, between 150th and 151st Streets, will be vacated on May 1, when 600 children will be taken to Pleasantville, N. Y., and divided into "family groups" in seventeen detached cottages. Friends, patrons, and alumni of the institution will hold a dinner on April 13 and bid farewell to the old building, which has been occupied by the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society since 1874.

The children will sing and dance in the synagogue of the institution on the evening of the dinner. It has not been found practicable to house all the children at Pleasantville at the present time. Those that room cannot be found for will be given into the care of families in New York City and vicinity. The friends of the institution hope that the city and State will help in a financial way to make this cottage experiment a success.

Shot Girl Chum in Play.

Fifteen-year-old Roy Pheras, whose home is on the top floor of a big apartment house at 160 Wadsworth Avenue, ran into the office of Dr. Knowles in the same house yesterday afternoon and cried out that sixteen-year-old Zoe Petit of 507 West 184th Street had been shot in his home. The physician hurried upstairs and found in the apartment besides the girl her chum, fifteen-year-old Beatrice Tremaine of 412 Audubon Avenue, and Martin C. Harrison, fourteen years old, of 209 Wadsworth Avenue.

The physician found that the middle finger of Zoe's right hand had been shot away by a bullet which struck her in the body, where it was deflected by a corset steel, inflicting only a flesh wound.

Young Harrison was arrested, but was released later in the custody of his mother.

Smith Beats Smith.

LA CROSSE, Wis., April 5.—August Smith defeated August Smith for Mayor of Viroqua, Wis., on Tuesday, according to the official count, which was completed to-day. Both August Smiths are leading citizens of the town, one being a merchant and the other principal of the High School. The merchant, who, for purposes of identification, was recorded as August Smith the elder, was chosen Mayor by 161 majority.

BULLETS END RIOT OF JERSEY STRIKERS

Deputy Sheriffs, Injured by Stones, Fire Over the Heads of the Mob.

SEVERAL MEN GO TO JAIL

Legal Steps Will Be Taken to Free Them and Have the Deputies Arrested.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., April 5.—A battle between striking mill hands and Deputy Sheriffs, in which pistol shots answered volleys of stones, and which resulted in the injury of several men on both sides, was fought outside the gates of the Forstmann & Huffmann woolen mill at Garfield, across the river from this city, early this morning.

The effects of the fight were far reaching, for it brought co-operation between the warring factions of the Industrial Workers of the World, who stirred up the strike trouble, produced a misunderstanding between the Deputy Sheriffs and Chief of Police Forss of Garfield, and marked the beginning of a legal fight for the release of those strikers and their representatives who had been arrested, and for the arrest of at least nine of the Deputy Sheriffs for assault.

The clash between the strikers and the officers of the law began about 6:30 o'clock this morning. Of the force of 1,200 hands employed in the Forstmann mill about 350 are out on strike. It has been the habit of the strikers to gather in the vicinity of the mill gate at the foot of Jewell Avenue and jeer those not on strike as they enter the mill. Each morning a force of Deputies march down to the Passaic Bridge to escort some 100 workers who live here into Garfield.

There was even more than the usual crowd, many women and some children, about the gate when the escort departed this morning. The officers kept the strikers back from the vicinity of the gate, and they were held back to Morris Avenue, a short distance from the gate. The trouble started, the police say, when Charles Rothfischer of Chicago, one of the organizers of the Chicago Industrial Workers of the World, who are headed by W. D. Haywood, and who favor more violent methods in strikes than do the Detroit Industrial Workers of the World.

The Fight at the Mill.

Nearly all of the strikers are foreigners and about the mill gate this morning a majority were Huns. Rothfischer started to make a speech, but the Sheriffs drove him back and the crowd swallowed him up. Working the crowd, now sullen, backward, the eight Deputies noticed Rothfischer again haranguing the strikers. Fritz Kick, the manager of the mill, demanded that Rothfischer be arrested and drawing their clubs the Deputies started after the man in earnest. The strike leader saw them coming and darted into a house in Morris Avenue. After him went Deputies Fagan and Butler, while Deputy Sheriff Garrett Lawson, who was in charge, held the crowd back with his men.

A few minutes later Fagan came out of the house with Rothfischer under arrest. The crowd moved forward threateningly as the Deputies closed in about their prisoner. Then came a shout in Hungarian and Fagan was felled. A big stone struck him in the mouth, breaking his teeth, splitting the roof of his mouth and breaking his nose. That cry was the signal for a volley of stones and in an instant the battle was on.

At first the Deputy Sheriffs used their clubs but when two were felled and the crowd of strikers, which was rapidly recruited, was overpowering them by force in numbers, Lawson gave the order for his men to draw their revolvers and fire. With the first shot a detail of local police under Sergt. F. J. Boyle came running from the direction of Jewell Avenue and more Deputies from the gate came hurrying to the scene.

For a few minutes clubs were used freely and stones were thrown. Then the Deputies fired another volley of shots over the heads of the workmen and this was too much for them—they broke and fled.

Those who were injured, with those who were arrested, were taken back to the mill gate. In the back room of the gate house Justice Edward M. Johnson of Hackensack was waiting and the prisoners were brought before him. Fagan was treated and afterward removed to a hospital in Hackensack. Arthur Bratt, a Deputy Sheriff, and a son of the probation officer of Bergen County, was struck in the back by a stone and injured. Deputy Rem Bensberger suffered bruises, having been hit four times. Michael Wargis is in the Hackensack hospital with a fractured skull. He was unconscious for four hours.

Charles Rothfischer was sentenced to ten days for disorderly conduct, which Deputy Sheriff Dawson said was preparatory to charges for inciting to riot. Martin Fischer, a union organizer, got ten days in the Hackensack jail. Harry Marcusi, a striker, got a similar term, and Joseph Fritz was held in $200 bail for the Grand Jury.

The prisoners had not been long on their way to the Hackensack jail when Harry H. Weinberger, counsel for the strikers, prepared to move legal machinery for their release. Applications will be presented to-morrow to Justice Parker of the Supreme Court to review the cases of the men sentenced on the ground that they had been deprived of counsel, and that the commitments were defective. At the same time complaints will be made to Police Recorder Miles C. Whitehead, asking for the arrest of nine Deputy Sheriffs for assault and battery. Mr. Weinberger will also meet Sheriff Conklin of Bergen County, and request the withdrawal of his deputies and the rescinding of the order forbidding the strikers to meet either in halls or on the streets in Garfield.

When the strike started Boris Reinstein, general organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, assumed command. He believes in a settlement of differences alone peaceful lines. The element of discord came, he said to-day, when James P. Thompson, organizer of the Chicago I. W. W., with which Haywood is connected, entered the fight. Reinstein says that the Chicago leaders favor violence, and that their appearance was bitterly resented.

Thompson, with Rossini, an Italian leader of what Reinstein calls "The Haywood outfit," and Rothfischer, succeeded in breaking the strikers' ranks, and obtained a following of about 400 strikers. These met in Belmont Hall, Garfield. The police yesterday closed the hall, and the Chicago men, seeing no hope of winning with divided ranks, appealed to Reinstein to take in the dissenters and fight out the strike as a unit, leaving the question as to whether they would join the Chicago or Detroit organization until after the settlement of the strike.

After the riot to-day Reinstein's Strike Committee met and decided that all the strikers could come into the fold except their leaders. Reinstein explained to-day that the committee was not willing to assume the responsibility for letting the "Haywood outfit" in. "The strikers, yes, but those who make trouble, no." Thompson was turned away when he attempted to attend the meeting. So the trouble resulted in bringing the strikers together and the leaving out of the Chicago organizers. Prosecutor Wright has instructed the Sheriffs to arrest Haywood on sight. He was expected in Passaic yesterday, but apparently he did not arrive.

Mrs. Julius Hammer of 1,488 Washington Avenue, New York, Mrs. Henry B. Robbins of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Hess Moran and Mrs. Harry Cody of Philadelphia have organized themselves into a Commissary Committee for the strikers. They are supplying food to the men at a small cost, and have issued an appeal for money and food.

WOMEN TO WORK WIRELESS.

Will Replace Men as Operators on Pacific Steamship Lines.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 5.—Women will supplant men as wireless operators on the steamships in the North Pacific if the plans of R. H. Armstrong, manager of a wireless telegraph company that has contracts with many liners, are followed.

Mr. Armstrong, who says men are not always satisfactory, to-day engaged Miss Mabel Kelso and Miss S. Through for his first women operators and turned them over to Chief Operator C. B. Cooper for instruction. The young women will be taught to repair the apparatus when it is disabled.

Two Taft Delegates May Be Women.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Two women may go as delegates to the Republican National Convention, and if they do, they will vote for President Taft. The Taft managers assert that they will carry San Francisco by 20,000 plurality. Two of the delegates on their slate for that city are women.

PITTSBURGH'S 'HUMP' TO GO.

Leveling Street Near Frick Building Will Cost Millions.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., April 5.—Mayor W. A. Magee, with a silver pick, and former State Senator William Flinn, with a silver shovel, lifted a few spadefuls of cobblestones and earth to-day from the crest of Fifth Avenue, and thus began the cutting of "The Hump," which will change the topography of Pittsburgh's business section.

The contract, which unexpectedly went to ex-Senator Flinn's firm, Booth & Flinn, when the lowest bidder withdrew at the hour for signing the papers, called for the cutting of eighteen feet from Fifth Avenue and the widening of various streets. Bonds were sold yesterday to raise the $780,000 needed, Gordon & Co. of Pittsburgh outbidding A. B. Leach & Co. and Harris, Forbes & Co. of New York.

In addition to the money to be spent by the city, millions will be expended by H. C. Frick, the Thaw estate, and the Mellon interests, owners of abutting properties. The high buildings affected include the Court House and Frick and Carnegie skyscrapers at the top of the hill.

AVIATORS FORM CLUB TO END AIR FOLLIES

Dip of Death and All Thrillers to be Banished from Aeronautics.

BROOKINS TAKES THE LEAD

Flier Who Introduced Perilous Flight Tricks Says Airmen Must Become Safe and Sane.

Walter Brookins, the aviator who introduced such aerial thrillers as the spiral glide, the ocean roll, and the dip-of-death, called together a group of aviators at the Hotel Manhattan yesterday to found a new aviators' club. It is to be known as the Safe and Sane Club.

One of the new club's first steps will be to pledge all of its members not to essay any of the aerial tricks, such as Brookins first became famous for, and for which there is still being taken a steady toll of lives. The members will be further pledged not to permit, wherever they can prevent it, the attempting of follies of flight by other aviators.

The germ for the call for an aviators' meeting and the formation of the club was the death of Calbraith P. Rodgers. Rodgers fell to his death attempting to do one of the Brookins tricks—the steep dip out of the sky ending when rightly performed in a sudden up-swerve just before the planes go crashing against the earth.

It was developed when professional aviators were gaining their first foothold in the business, and there was a general demand on all sides that flying be made into a sport fit for exhibition purposes at country fairs and fenced-in enclosures.

It is now nearly two years shince Brookins performed his last dip and swirled about for the last time in his own plane's length in the sky. In the interval, with more serious falls in his record book than any other surviving aviator, Brookins has settled down to be a steady and businesslike flier.

While his own progress has been toward the putting of a constantly increasing margin of safety between his aerial efforts and the possibilities of his machine, scores of younger and newer fliers have been imitating the daring evolutions that made him famous, and one by one Brookins has seen them come to an untimely end.

Early Airmen Still Alive.

Brookins brought up his own experience with trick flying yesterday as the best reason he knew of why all aviators in the future should leave it strictly alone. He pointed out that while of the early airmen, including the Wrights, Curtiss, Grahame-White, Paulhan, and Drexel are still alive and happy, a group that took up aviation immediately after the pioneers gained their fame has now become nearly extinct.

He said that the older fliers, who survive, resolutely refused to go in for trick air riding, while from Johnstone to Hoxsey, from Moisant to Rodgers, those who had died were almost always the trick riders and the daredevils of the sport.

Howard Gill, a young flier, who recalled the steep-banked riding of Brookins that set the Boston crowds on edge at the first air meet there, called his attention to the frequent warnings given him by Wilbur Wright.

"You know, said Gill, "that Wright always used to tell you after you swung around at so steep an agle that the spectators could see the sky between your planes that you were straining the machine far beyond safe limits. And you would always reply: 'Well, I get away with it, Wilbur, and the crowds fall for it great.'"

"But I heard a story right after that," Brookins replied, "and it changed me all around. The story was about a man who was hiring a coachman. He asked each applicant how close he could drive to a precipice on a road near his place. The first four gave distances away from its edge in inches. The fifth said he would not drive any closer than he absolutely had to—that he never believed in taking an unnecessary chance.

"And I got to thinking that over. And the answer now to every chance I figure on is that I don't take it unless I am absolutely compelled to. Did you ever see a sane chauffeur drive his car 50 miles an hour down a fifty-foot road and try to turn around on that road at that speed? Think of such a stunt; and you'll see just how insane we were for trying those flop-over-and-back-again turns."

Brookins's arguments convinced the other aviators, and all of them decided to enroll in the Safe and Sane Club. It was voted to invite Capt. Baldwin, who will soon return to Japan; Bud Mars, who is touring in the West; Frank Coffyn, who is just getting about again after his automobile accident in Central Park; George Beatty, who is conducting a school for aviators at Nassau Boulevard; the Wrights, and Curtiss to a subsequent meeting, at which officers will be elected.

Popular Respect at Stake.

"This business of break-neck flying has about the same relationship to legitimate aviation," Brookins declared to a TIMES reporter after the meeting adjourned, "as jumping off the Brooklyn Bridge has to legitimate aquatic sports, and looping-the-loop in an automobile has to regular automobiling.

"It is high time that aviators combined to put an end to it. Popular respect for aviation is at stake for one thing, and the interests of the aviators for another, for their future lies in the development of their machines for practical uses and not this hair-raising kind of business.

"There is plenty of room in the sky for sane flying, and sane flying is safer than automobiling any day. For instance, what business has an aviator coming down tail-on to the wind? A sudden puff, and the tail is lifted high in the air, and the nose sent jamming into the ground. Moisant, who surely knew much better, was doing just that when he fell to his death. Coming head on the wind would merely have had a tendency to level up his keel and give him a little longer glide to the earth.

"Some weird author in a current magazine says all airmen are fatalists—that we believe the game will get us sooner or later. And so we are—just as much as the rest of humanity. Most of us prize our necks as much as people in general. We need them in our business, and propose to protect them.

"There is serious work ahead for all of us. In the first place, we know at this moment a great deal more about aeroplanes than we do about the air. I don't see any way of inventing an instrument to give us the data, but we simply have got to learn how to be forewarned against sudden winds, as the yachtsman is forwarned by the rippling of the water far off from his boat.

"With a large number of rich sportsmen ready to take up aviation for pleasure, with the development of the hydro-aeroplane until any New York business man can leave the Battery any day this Summer and speed away at sixty miles an hour to his up-the-Hudson Summer home, it is simply suicidal to the business to keep up this reckless trick riding. And, more than that, we learn to love our friends who fly, and to esteem them after they have won great honors, such as Rodgers had. It is a great burden on the heart to carry a memory of so many who had very brilliant careers that were unnecessarily short."

DIED IN A THEATRE.

Gardenville (N. Y.) Merchant Stricken Suddenly in the Bronx.

Charles Schoeplin, 45 years old, a merchant of Gardenville, N. Y., died yesterday afternoon in the Bronx Theatre in 149th Street, near Melrose Avenue. Schoeplin attended the matinée performance with two friends, George Clark of 1,460 Washington Avenue and Frank Boo of 758 Elton Avenue, the Bronx.

Shortly after the intermission Schoeplin became faint. "Get me a glass of water and I will be all right," he said to Clark.

He was assisted into the men's room, where Police Surgeon Higgins, who was in the house, was summoned to attend him. He died before Dr. Higgins got to him. The body was removed to the Fordham Morgue and the Gardenville (N. Y.) authorities were notified.

FIGHT BARS ON CITY LAND.

W. C. T. U. Protests Against Sale of Liquor in Municipal Building.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, according to Mrs. Helen J. Andruss, President of the New York branch, will protest to the Board of Aldermen against letting space in the new municipal building for the sale of liquor. The organization also plans to fight for the revocation of all licenses to sell liquor on property owned by the city.

The Anti-Saloon League, of which Dr. F. C. Iglehart is Superintendent, plans to organize a system of compulsory insurance, the funds for which are to be obtained from an increase in excise fees. This insurance fund will be used to support a State home for drunkards.

CALL DR. WOELFKIN IN DR. AKED'S PLACE

Fifth Avenue Baptist Church Extends Formal Invitation to Rochester Professor.

EXPECTS HIM TO ACCEPT

His Decision Will Be Announced at the Easter Morning Service—Salary Not Stated.

The congregation of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, which has been without a pastor since the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked a year ago, extended a call last night to the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, Professor of Homiletics in the Rochester Theological Seminary. A formal acceptance of the call, it is expected, will be announced at the Easter morning service.

The call was tendered to Dr. Woelfkin at a business meeting of the congregation following the regular weekly prayer meeting. There was a good representation present, and the vote to extend the call was unanimous. When the meeting adjourned the parishioners remained behind to congratulate each other, and the Rev. Dr. Addison Moore, the acting pastor of the church, and a committee of the trustees and deacons, immediately sent a telegram to Dr. Woelfkin informing him of the congregation's action.

Edward L. Ballard, Secretary of the Board of Trustees, formally put the motion to the congregation. He said that he and the other Trustees regarded Dr. Woelfkin as the "sincerest and safest man" for the place. The eminent theologian, he said, had conferred with a committee of churchmen not long ago, when he was temporarily filling the pulpit at the Fifth Avenue church, and the committee had at that time sought to get an expression from him as to what he thought of taking charge of the Fifth Avenue church. The committee was impressed, Mr. Ballard said, with Dr. Woelkin's insistence on knowing all the responsibilities such a charge would entail. Mrs. Woelfkin, Mr. Ballard said, also impressed the committee most favorably as being as deeply interested in church work as her husband. Another Trustee referred to Dr. Woelfkin as the "quietest mighty man in the denomination to-day." He said that the congregation was looking for a man of this type as opposed to the sensational type of minister.

Dr. Woelfkin is 52 years old. He formerly lived within half a mile of the site of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church. For eleven years he was pastor of the Greene Avenue Baptist Church of Brooklyn. He was regarded as a great spiritual power in the community and did a great work for his church and for Brooklyn in general.

He resigned his pastorate in 1905 when urged by the American Baptist Home Mission Society to enter a broader field of evangelization. He and Mrs. Woelfkin then traveled all over the United States for several years strengthening the Baptist home missions and building up a strong organization. Dr. Woelfkin was lecturing and writing books on homiletics all the time and gained for himself a National reputation.

In 1908 he became Professor of Homiletics at Rochester Theological Seminary. Recently the Rev. Dr. Augustus W. Strong resigned as President of that institution and it was generally believed that Dr. Woelfkin would be chosen to succeed him. The seminary is reluctant to allow Dr. Woelfkin to resign from the Chair of Homiletics.

Rumor has associated Dr. Woelfkin's name with the Fifth Avenue pastorate since last October, when he came to this city as the guest of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and preached at the church. Later he was asked to fill the pulpit for a month.

The Fifth Avenue pulpit was left vacant last Spring by the resignation of Dr. Aked, who accepted a call from the First Congregational Church of San Francisco. Dr. Aked had come here from Pembroke Chapel, Liverpool. He was pastor of the Fifth Avenue Church for four years. His reasons for going West were two—first, because he was disappointed in the failure of his congregation to build a larger church, and, secondly, because of failing health. Dr. Aked preached his first sermon in his San Francisco church last Easter morning.

Gypsy Smith will preach at the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church on Easter Sunday at the morning service, and it was said last night that a formal announcement of Dr. Woelfkin's acceptance would in all probability be announced at the beginning of the service. The action of the congregation in finally deciding on a new pastor, it is believed, will put an end to the negotiations said to have been secretly going on for some time to affiliate the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church with the Calvary Baptist Church on West Fifty-seventh Street. The Rev. Dr. Addison Moore, the trustees said last night, will remain in the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church as associate pastor.

Dr. Woelfkin's salary and his time of acceptance, it was said, is in the hands of a committee made up of the trustees and deacons of the church. It was unofficially stated that the new pastor will probably assume control of his new pastorate early in the Fall, but no one would make mention of the salary which it is proposed to give him. Dr. Aked received $12,000 when he was pastor of the church.

FAIL TO FIND DI FIORE BOY.

Detectives Admit They Are Baffled—Can't Account for His Disappearance.

After a systematic search Detectives Sussillo and Trabucci of the Macdougal Street police station were forced to admit late last night that they were unable to account for the disappearance, nine days ago, of six-year-old Joseph Di Fiore, the son of Cosmo Di Fiore, a baker at 133 West Houston Street. They denied, however, any knowledge of threatening letters to the boy's father, and said that if the boy were being held for ransom no demands had yet been made.

Di Fiore and his wife, Rosa, and two or three relatives, including a brother, Mateo, who were seen at the little bakeshop in West Houston Street yesterday, joined in characterizing as a "bunch of lies" stories published that $10,000 had been demanded for the return of Joseph. They even denied that Cosmo Di Fiore had received threatening letters five years ago when Joseph was a baby.

HAS A SURFEIT OF LOVE.

Chicago Husband Flees from Home to Dodge Affectionate Wife.

CHICAGO, April 5.—Too much display of affection by Mrs. John Reckinger toward her husband brought the couple into the Court of Domestic Relations to-day.

Reckinger told Judge Goodenow that his wife was not content to caress him and listen to his repeated declarations of love at home, but she followed him to his office. Not only did she interfere with his business, but the continued display of affection became very tiresome to him, declared Reckinger. So he left her and their two children. Mrs. Reckinger asked that her husband be forced to return home.

"All I can do," said Judge Goodenow, "is to see that he provides for your support and that of the children. No wife ought to interfere with her husband's business by following him around. On the other hand, a husband ought to jolly his wife as much as possible."

Reckinger was ordered to pay his wife $30 a month. As he left the court room his wife clung to his arm.

WIRELESS MERGER IS NOW ASSURED

Trustees in Bankruptcy and Court Accepts Reorganization Committee's Offer to That End.

CAPITAL TO BE $10,000,000

American Marconi System to be Enlarged and Operated in Conjunction with World-Wide Enterprise.

Saul S. Myers of 60 Wall Street, counsel for the Reorganization Committee of the United Wireless Company, announced yesterday that the last step toward consolidation with the Marconi Telegraph Company of America has been taken. He appeared before Judge Clarence Hale of the United States District Court at Portland, Me., on Thursday and submitted an offer of the Reorganization Committee, of which Arthur P. West, Vice President of the National Surety Company, is Chairman. The offer was accepted by the Trustees and the court. This offer is that the committee pay to the Trustees in bankruptcy $650,000 in cash, $100,000 down, $100,000 on May 8, and the balance upon Dec. 1.

The purchase of the property by the Reorganization Committee is carrying out an arrangement previously made between the committee and the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America. This arrangement, according to Mr. Myers, in a statement made last night, is that the stockholders of the Marconi Company and the stockholders of the United Wireless Telegraph Company will combine their interests by the formation of a new corporation, with an authorized capital of $10,000,000, or by increasing the present capital of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America from $1,511,200 to $10,000,000. The physical assets and patents of the United Company, excluding the claims against Christopher C. Wilson and George H. Parker of Seattle, will be turned over to the new or enlarged company at a valuation of $700,000.

The physical assets and patents of the American Marconi Company will be turned over to the new or enlarged corporation at a valuation of $1,511,200. The Sir Oliver Lodge American patents will be turned over by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, Limited, of London, at a valuation of $788,800. The agreement is that no shares of stock in the new or enlarged company, beyond the shares of $3,000,000 par value, will be issued except for cash, and not for less than par.

In a letter now being sent to the stockholders of the United Company it is stated that one of the inducements for entering into this arrangement was the statement made by the representative of the Marconi interests that the additional $7,000,000 of capital stock of the new or enlarged company has practically been subscribed for in cash, and that the $7,000,000 in cash will be used for the manufacturing of new apparatus and for the establishment of a wireless system to be operated in conjunction with the world-wide Marconi system of wireless telegraphy.

The letter to the stockholders also states that the Reorganization Committee has been able to obtain from the Marconi interests the right to receive, at any time within ninety days, $700,000 in cash instead of shares of stock.

It was necessary, under the bankruptcy law, to give ten days' notice to each of the creditors of the United Company. There were 200 creditors having claims aggregating between $75,000 and $100,000, and without the consent of these creditors the consolidation could not have been effected.

FREE JACKSON FOR KILLING LAVELLE

G. W. Perkins and J. B. Cortelyou on Coroner's Jury Which Holds Shooting Was Justified.

ACTED IN SELF-DEFENSE

Lavelle's Sister, Jackson's Housekeeper, Testifies Slain Man Was Drunk When He Attacked Jackson.

A Coroners' jury, of which George W. Perkins was Foreman and George B. Cortelyou a member, found Benjamin F. Jackson yesterday not guilty of homicide for shooting J. Harry Lavelle in Mr. Jackson's home, 1,229 Simpson Street, the Bronx, on the evening of March 22. Coroner Shongut discharged Mr. Jackson, who had been held in $10,000 bail.

Mr. Perkins, who asked at first to be excused from serving on the jury, showed much interest in the hearing and asked many questions of the witnesses. Just before the jury retired for the eighteen minutes which they required to reach a unanimous verdict Mr. Perkins asked the Coroner what would happen to Mr. Jackson if the jury returned a split verdict, as the Coroner had advised them they might do. Coroner Shongut said that was for him to decide.

Policemen and detectives as well as a woman neighbor, who had hastened to the Jackson home at the time of the shooting, and Mrs. Martha Laheney, a sister of Lavelle, who is Mr. Jackson's housekeeper, retold the story of the shooting. They declared Lavelle had called at the Jackson house, refused to leave when Jackson asked him to, and finally seized Jackson by the throat. It was then, the witnesses declared, that Jackson grabbed a revolver from a chair in the hall, where it had been left as a protection against burglars, and shot Lavelle. Lavelle had been heard by Mrs. Kate McCullom of 1,239 Simpson Street to say that when he left Jackson's house he would "take Jackson's skull with him."

The testimony of various persons was offered to show that Lavelle was drunk when he visited Jackson's home. This was disputed by other witnesses. Thirteen-year-old Estelle Jackson told of having heard Lavelle's threat against her father and of having heard her father say:

"Don't shoot me, Lavelle."

Mrs. Laheney, in deep mourning, testified that her brother had passed the Jackson home in the afternoon, and that he was intoxicated then. She telephoned to Mr. Jackson, who returned early from business, because she said she knew her brother's disposition when in that condition. She broke down and wept while telling this.

Mrs. Laheney and Mrs. Minnie Coryell of 1,414 Vyse Avenue, the Bronx, another sister of Lavelle, told of having heard Lavelle make threats against Jackson. Mrs. Martha Lavelle, the man's mother, an elderly woman, who was much affected by the proceedings, admitted that Lavelle had made threats.

Coroner Shongut charged the jury that Jackson was in his own home when he shot, and that he had tried to persuade Lavelle to leave. He refused to include in his charge at the request of Assistant District Attorney Minton a court decision that in a fight neither combatant has the right to use a weapon unless the first has reached a stage where the user of the weapon was in fear of his life.

PRATT MANOR HOUSE A RUIN.

Furniture Worth $25,000 Destroyed with Building at Desoris, L. I.

The Pratt Manor House, at Desoris, near Glen Cove, L. I., for generations the home of the Pratt family, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Half of the $50,000 loss is in furniture, rugs, and antiques. For the last year the house had been occupied by George B. Pratt of Brooklyn.

The family had been living recently in Brooklyn, but spent week ends at the manor house. The four children, with their nurse, went there yesterday. Painters have been at work recently, and it is believed that spontaneous combustion started a fire among some oiled rags which they had left on the top floor. The house was soon a mass of flames. The children, with their nurse, had no difficulty in escaping. After a long run from Glen Cove the volunteer firemen found that the nearest available water was a mile away. They were unable to fight the flames, but managed to save some of the furnishings.

Mr. Pratt is building a $100,000 mansion not far from the burned building, which was moved about a year ago from its original site to make room for the new home.

College Wins Dr. Pearson.

AMES, Iowa, April 5.—Dr. Raymond A. Pearson of New York, has accepted the presidency of the Iowa State College of Agriculture at Ames.

Dr. Pearson has for the last four years been Commissioner of Agriculture for the State of New York. He has been granted leave of absence for the Summer and will visit several agricultural colleges in Europe.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5.—Dr. Pearson resigned his position at the head of the agricultural department recently and was succeeded by Calvin J. Huson of Penn Yan.

THREAT TO MRS. BELMONT.

Came with a Cable Despatch and a $10 Bill—Evidently from a Crank.

Some person with a peculiar sense of humor or a feeble mind mailed to Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont last Monday a ten-dollar bill in two envelopes. The outside cover was long and yellow, and, as it did not seem to be important, Mrs. Belmont, according to the story she told the police, let it lie when she received it, on Tuesday morning, until she had read the rest of her mail. Then she opened it, and a small white envelope dropped out. This bore a warning to the servants not to open it, and was marked private and personal. Inside of this little envelope was a cable message addressed to "Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, London," a note, and a ten-dollar bill to pay for the cablegram.

So far as could be discovered, the writer of the note made no direct threats. Underneath the note, which was typewritten, the author had drawn roughly a cross and dagger. This is all of the missive the police or Mrs. Belmont would give out:

> Call on the suffragettes to stand together and request that Mrs. Pankhurst be cabled care London police. If the instructions are not carried out some awful thing will happen.

The cable message that Mrs. Belmont was directed to send to Mrs. Pankhurst reads:

> Easter Greetings! A great financier in whom I have the greatest confidence assures me that practical measures are being considered by world's financiers that promise better conditions within a year. Stop inefficient warfare. Remember the heroism of a battalion of women in China.
>
> MRS. BELMONT.

Mrs. Belmont communicated with the police and detectives were sent to investigate. They declared they would suppose the affair a poor attempt at a joke were it not that the $10 bill was genuine. This, they said, persuaded them that the communication was the work of a harmless crank.

There was no excitement in the neighborhood of Mrs. Belmont's white marble home at 477 Madison Avenue when a reporter called there yesterday afternoon. Stories had appeared in the afternoon to the effect that policemen and Secret Service men were on guard there, and that Mrs. Belmont was afraid to go out and the police wouldn't let anybody go in. But the reporter saw no policemen and he proceeded unmolested to the front door and touched the electric button. A dark-skinned servitor, clad in a guady turban, opened the door wide and smiled benignly.

He said that Mrs. Belmont had moved to her country home on Long Island, where she would spend the Summer.

Police Captain O'Connor of the East Fifty-first Street station house, said that he had not been called upon by Headquarters to furnish police protection to Mrs. Belmont.

ART ASPIRANTS IN COURT.

Armadale Social Club's ex-Treasurer Accused of Irregularity.

The Armadale Social Club, which is composed of young men and women of the east side who aspire to become writers, singers, and actors, appeared before Magistrate Appleton, in the Tombs Court, yesterday, to see one of its male members, Louis I. Rudelmann, the ex-Treasurer, answer a summons obtained by Annie Rosafsky, the moving spirit of the club, and four others, who allege that Rudelmann purloined $160.72.

According to the complaint, the money which Rudelmann obtained was the proceeds of a dance and matinée held by the club at Hennington Hall, in Second Street, Dec. 24, 1911. Yesterday Miss Rosafsky explained that each member of the club was taxed 5 cents a week in order that the club might purchase literature, and that it also published a monthly paper called the Armadale Monthly News. The dance was given in order to obtain funds for the paper.

The male members of the club were not in favor of this dance, and immediately after the affair held a meeting at which the money was divided among them by Rudelmann. In explaining things more fully Miss Rosafsky said:

"We were all suffragists till this trouble took place, then we decided we would not be suffragists any more, because the boys can put it all over us. I think the ex-Treasurer will make things straight, but all the other boys treat the matter as a joke, and say that we refuse to go with them and call them loafers."

Magistrate Appleton then stated that he would give Rudelmann a chance to make good the loss, and Rudelmann said that he would if a week were given him.

CAN SEE HEALTH RECORDS.

Municipal Research Bureau Wins Its Point in Court of Appeals.

The Court of Appeals has handed down a decision in Albany upholding the right of the Bureau of Municipal Research to examine certain records of the New York City Health Department. Access to the records was denied by Health Commissioner Lederle. Dr. William H. Allen of the Bureau then applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus, which was denied. His appeal from the Supreme Court order to the Appellate Division was also dismissed, and Dr. Allen then took the matter to the Court of Appeals.

RUNAWAY BOYS OFF TO WEST WITH $110

Made Up of the Handy Household Cash of Three Bronx Families.

ONE IN BOY SCOUT UNIFORM

And One Has a Pistol—Bound for Oklahoma, but the St. Louis Police Will Get Them To-day.

The spirit that made the West wild has not entirely gone out from New York. But it is probable that the three lads, aged 12, 14, and 11, who started yesterday morning for Oklahoma City to shoot Indians with one revolver and one Boy Scout uniform among them, took a great part of that spirit with them.

A fourteen-year-old boy named Robert Rupert called up THE TIMES yesterday and requested the city editor to help find his friend, Herman Partenheimer, who with Cyril Baldwin and Otto Van Luke, all of the Bronx, had gone forth upon adventure and left him alone on Marion Avenue. The young lad was explicit in his descriptions.

"Herman," he said, "lives at 2,793 Marion Avenue, and is 14. Cyril lives with his mother and stepfather at 275 East 199th Street, and is only 11, and Otto lives at 2,754 Briggs Avenue. At 8 o'clock this morning they went down to the Fordham station of the New York Central and bought three tickets to Oklahoma City. It cost them $110, and they got them, too. And now, the mothers are crying their eyes out at home, for Herman took his father's revolver and Cyril had a full soldier's uniform. And they told everybody they were not going to wait until they got 'way out West before they began shooting things up."

So the investigator went up to the Bronx and saw that everything was as young Rupert had said.

The boys had ben inveterate patrons of the motion picture shows in the neighborhood. And close application had taught them, some months ago, that Oklahoma was the very wildest and noblest place on the American continent. So they held a secret conference on an empty lot and swore to save money and bide their time until the opportuuity that comes to all heroes made it possible for them to sally forth. All of the boys were allowed plenty of pocket money. But instead of buying candy they saved, and besides, they knew where the funds were kept with which the family supplies were bought.

At last the call of the wild was too strong for them. With a liberal helping from the families' funds the youngsters got together more than $110 and bought their tickets. As a ruse they went down to the station separately—suitcases in hand. Herman Partenheimer met young Rupert and told him innocently he was going to his father's store, but the other lads did not shrink from remarking casually to the boys on the street that they were bound for Oklahoma.

When Mrs. Abbott returned yesterday from her marketing she found a note from her 11-year-old son, Cyril Baldwin, on the table. It read:

> Dear Mother: I am off for the West. As soon as I am there I will write you about it. Don't worry, for I am big enough to take care of myself.
>
> With lots of love, Your son,
>
> CYRIL BALDWIN.

Mrs. Abbott immediately called her husband, who set out for the station. On the way he asked several boys whether they had seen his son.

"Sure," was the invariable reply, "Cyril's gone out West, and he had his Boy Scout's uniform on, too."

The station master remembered selling the three tickets, and soon the wires were busy, placing and identifying the boys on their westward journey. When, to-day, they land in St. Louis, they will be apprehended and brought back to the prosaic Bronx. But up to their entrance upon that threshold of the West they will have no idea that they have been traced and that their return tickets have been already purchased.

And in the meantime Bobby Rupert sulks at school because he was left behind.

DENY FRAUD CHARGE FOR LITHOGRAPHERS

Their Accusers Knew Miller and Motley Were Going Abroad, Their Lawyers Say.

BOTH ARE WELL KNOWN HERE

Miller, a Yale Graduate, Bought Device from Poor Inventor—Declare Syndicate Wanted to Back Out.

The news of the arrest of Clark A. Miller and Alfred H. Motley, Jr., in London on Wednesday and their commitment the following day to Brixton Gaol without bail to await extradition was received with much surprise by their friends here. The two Americans are accused of having obtained $100,000 from William Ottman, Jr., President of the United States Lithographing Company, through misrepresentations in an offer of the use of their lithographic device.

Both men are well known here. Miller is the grandson of the founder of the American Surety Company of this city. His family lived at New Rochelle for a generation on the old Miller property on Centre Avenue, near Pelham Road. One of his two brothers still lives at New Rochelle and is an officer of one of the banks there.

Miller himself, after inheriting a comfortable sum of money from his grandfather and father about twenty years ago, and graduating from Yale University, traveled about the country as a man of leisure, and in the course of his travels picked up, according to his lawyers, Robert N. Kenyon, Adolph Bloch, and Samuel M. Ward, all of this city, the lithographic device—"step and repeat machine" is the technical name for it—which has got him into trouble.

Miller acquired the invention six or eight years ago, according to one of his counsel, from an obscure inventor, who hadn't even taken the trouble to patent his device, and who for a sum which does not seem to have been considerable assigned all his proprietory rights to Miller on a single sheet of paper without a great deal of formality.

Motley, whom Miller met later, became enthusiastic over the device and gave up his position to help Miller develop it. This was about four years ago, and since that time the two men have employed lawyers and experts to get the device in shape so that it could be successfully marketed. Mr. Bloch has been handling legal work in connection with the patent for the two men for four or five years, and Mr. Kenyon has been doing the same for about two years.

Mr. Kenyon stated emphatically that Miller and Motley were both innocent of Mr. Ottman's charges against them, and that a great injustice had been done them. Mr. Kenyon said that he owned no stock in the concern, but that he had done about $15,000 worth of legal business for them because of his belief in the device.

"I have been patent counsel for the Print Weave Company of 124 White Street, the company which Miller and Motley organized some years ago to market the device, for about two years," Mr. Kenyon told a TIMES reporter yesterday. "I have had charge of making the applications for patents on the device. We have applied for the United States patent, and the device is also covered in foreign countries either by patent or application for patents. I have had to make exhaustive examinations of the previous lithographing processes and machines. Motley and Miller got their device in such shape that in February, 1911, they were able to convince a syndicate of this city's lithographers, composed of William Ottman, Jr.; John Omwake, and J. M. Hutton, to sign a contract agreeing that the Continental Patents Company should be formed and that the Ottman syndicate, of which former United States Senator Foraker's son was at one time a member, should give Miller and Motley $50,000 down, $50,000 when the plant was installed in Mr. Ottman's Elizabethport factory, and other installments of $50,000 a year for the next five years as royalties.

"The contract was signed and the first installment, paid only after Ottman, Omwake, and Hutton, three of the shrewdest and most experienced lithographers in this country, had seen the "step and repeat" machine at work in Miller and Motley's White Street plant.

The next test made here of the device was not satisfactory. It took several hours longer. But this was because we couldn't get the right sort of men to make the test. Ottman and his syndicate had given previous evidences of dissatisfaction. They said that they had wanted the plant to print larger-sized plates. They said we had deceived them about the length of time the process would take.

"I believe that they were beginning to find that their contract to pay us $50,000 a year for five years was a large one and that they wanted to get out of it. I also have heard that they wanted to cast aside our invention for another of somewhat the same kind.

Assistant District Attorney Du Vivier, who handled the case against the two men before the Grand Jury, said yesterday that the Grand Jury's action, in his judgment, had been based on very strong evidence against the two men. There was evidence regarding substitution of plates.

WOMEN TO WATCH AT POLLS.

Judge Owens Grants Request of Chicago Suffrage Workers.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 5.—There won't be any taint to the vote on woman suffrage at the polls on Tuesday. Keen women's eyes are to keep every voting place under the sharpest surveillance.

County Judge Owens to-day granted a request of suffrage workers that women be authorized as official watchers at the polls. From suffrage headquarters in the afternoon were mailed 1,400 cards to women who are closely allied with the cause, notifying them to report for assignments to precincts.

"We expect at least 1,200 women to serve," said Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCuloch.

The order of Judge Owens extends not only to watching at the polls, but to the counting of ballots. It was Judge Owens who recently authorized the primary on suffrage.

CITY BREVITIES.

WILSON ANSWERS STONE.

Governor Voted Whole Democratic Ticket in 1900 and 1908.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 5.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey held a campaign meeting in Springfield at the Arsenal this afternoon. Gov. Wilson visited the old Lincoln homestead in Springfield and the tomb of Lincoln at Oak Ridge Cemetery. He placed a cluster of American Beauty roses upon the sarcophagus and stood for some moments with bared head.

In his address at the Arsenal Gov. Wilson paid tribute to Lincoln, expressed faith in the ability of the American people to govern themselves and declared that in taking the attitude he did in the Senatorial fight in New Jersey he was merely complying with the majority instructions of the people.

The people of Illinois were congratulated on having a preferential Presidential primary law. He declared the day of personally conducted Government by self-appointed trustees was past. He predicted that the Chicago and Baltimore Conventions of this year would be the last of their kind, that henceforth the people of all States would have a more direct voice in the nomination of their Presidential candidates.

Gov. Wilson says charges by Senator Stone that he had not voted for Bryan in 1900 and that he did not vote at all in 1908 were falsehoods "sworn to by gentlemen who are willing to swear to anything." He said he voted the whole Democratic ticket in both those years. "I have never voted anything but the Democratic ticket," he said.

Gov. Wilson at Peoria giving his approval to the initiative and referendum said:

"We are not tired of our institutions but we are tired because some of the branches of Government have ceased to represent us. The initiativ and referendum are intended to restore our control of those institutions and not destroy them."

Gov. Wilson severely criticised those who believe that the masses of the peoplae are not fit to rule.

"I believe that the only cure for bad Government is the same as for us—life o nthe open," he stated. "Our Government would be less corrupt if all the lobbies in the Legislatures of the various States were constructed of glass, so that all might see the men who are trying to influence legislation."

CHICAGO, April 5.—Interest in the direct primary in Illinois to be held next Tuesday, which for several weeks has centred in the contests of numerous candidates for Governor, shifted to-day to the preference vote for candidates for the nomination for President with the arrival on the scene of Gov. Wilson of New Jersey, who began a flying canvass of the State.

He will tour the State in a special train, speaking in fifteen cities, from the rear platform of his car, and returning to Chicago to-morrow evening to address three mass meetings before going East.

Gov. Wilson and Speaker Champ Clark are the only Democratic candidates for President whose names will appear on the preference ballot to be voted for in Illinois on April 9.

Col. Roosevelt will arrive in Chicago to-morrow morning to begin a three-day whirlwind speaking trip through the State over practically the same route taken by Gov. Wilson.

Scores of campaign speakers are on the stump for President Taft in all parts of the State, and the La Follette forces also are active. Two hundred political meetings are scheduled to be held in Chicago before the close of the direct primary campaign next Tuesday.

CUMMINS WINS DELEGATION.

WATERLOO, Iowa, April 5.—Senator A. B. Cummins won the delegation to the National Convention at Chicago in the Third District Convention to-day on the sixty-second ballot. Franklin County's delegation went over to the Progressive side, breaking the deadlock which began yesterday.

When the convention opened the Taft and Cummins forces each mustered 72 votes. The delegates are C. B. Santee and O. P. Morton, uninstructed. Santee and Morton announced themselves as for Cummins first, last, and all the time.

DETROIT, Mich., April 5.—Two delegations of 192 members, one being for President Taft and the other for Col. Roosevelt, will represent Wayne County at the State Republican Convention at Bay City April 11. At the County Convention today the Taft men elected in regular convention a solid delegation. The Roosevelt followers, after a heated contest, called a separate convention and took similar action.

UTAH WILL SUPPORT TAFT.

Special to The New York Times.

SALT LAKE, April 5.—At the meeting of the State Republican Committee tomorrow a resolution will be introduced approving Taft's Administration and favoring his renomination. The resolution is expected to pass. The Republican organization is favorable to Taft, being guided by Senator Smoot and the Federal office holders. Gov. Spry also has declared for the President.

In the State Convention there will be another fight for an uninstructed delegation to Chicago, but the outlook now is that the delegation will be instructed for Taft.

MRS. PARLEGRECCO BAILED.

Through the efforts of Sheriff Julius Harburger, a bondsman was found yesterday for Mrs. Innocenza P. Parlegrecco, imprisoned in Ludlow Street jail. The bondsman was William Greenough of 55 Liberty Street, who made himself liable in $2,000 for the presence in this jurisdiction of Mrs. Parlegrecco pending the payment of $1,000 to Miss Fannie Sammarco. Mrs. Parlegrecco, with her eight months' old nursing baby, was compelled to spend Thursday night in the jail. She was the first woman prisoner in the jail for many months.

When Sheriff Harburger told Mrs. Parlegrecco, who is the mother of four children beside the baby she took to jail, that she was free to go, she knelt and kissed his hands.

RAILROAD MUST PAY FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Verdict of $2,500 for Estate of One of Six Persons Killed at Glendale.

NO SAFETY GATES THERE

Though the Public Service Commission Had Ordered Them—Court Blames the Company.

A Supreme Court jury returned yesterday to Justice Goff a verdict of $2,500 against the Long Island Railroad for the killing of Ida Cohen, 24 years old, of 88 Avenue B, Manhattan, at the grade crossing of the Long Island Railroad at Trotting Course Lane, Glendale, on July 2, 1911.

Miss Cohen was one of five persons killed outright of six driving in a single horse carriage across the tracks. The sixth occupant of the carriage died later in St. Mary's Hospital. The crossing was one of those for which the Public Service Commission had ordered safety gates which the railroad had failed to provide.

Those who died in the accident were Miss Cohen, her brother Jacob, Leah Goldberg of 222 Pulaski Street, Brooklyn, Jacob Goldberg of 164 Norfolk Street, and Elmer Weinberg of 29 Henry Street. Mary Sessler of Glendale, who was driving, died later in the hospital. Richard Creed, conductor of the train, sustained a fracture of the arm, and Henry L. Lefferth, the motorman, was badly cut with broken glass.

A motion to set aside the verdict was made by James I. Kearny, attorney for the railroad and opposed by Abram I. Elkus, who represented Zipe Cohen, Miss Cohen's brother, who sued as administrator of her estate. Mr. Elkus referred to testimony that the train was going fifty miles an hour, three minutes behind time, returning from Rockaway Beach, while the carriage was traveling at the rate of four miles an hour, drawn by a gentle nine-year-old horse driven by Miss Sessler, who was familiar with the animal and with the neighborhood. In sustaining the verdict, Justice Goff said:

"There can be no doubt that the crossing was more than usually dangerous. The highway slopes gently toward the tracks, descending more abruptly about eight or ten feet before it reaches them. In the angle between the right of way and the highway and to the right of the party as they approached the tracks, there is a bluff made by a cut in the road, and another cut made for the railroad.

"The bluff is covered with trees and bushes, so that it was impossible for any of the party to look up the tracks to the right for more than four or five hundred feet until their horse was almost on the tracks. The danger of this crossing imposed a high degree of care on the railroad, which took three measures of precaution. It established a whistling post more than 1,200 feet away to the right. It erected sign posts near the crossing, with the usual warning words, and it maintained a flagman.

"There is evidence that the train whistled at the whistling post. But the evidence is that the flagman gave no warning to the party until it was too late."

The flagman was Louis Ammenforth, who has died since the accident. Of his actions on the occasion of the tragedy Justice Goff said:

"From his shanty he could not have seen the train until it was nearly or quite under the Myrtle Avenue Bridge, nearly 1,200 feet away. If he had started up from his seat in the shanty to give the signal at the time when he first saw the train or heard a crossing whistle, there would have been an interval of only eighteen seconds from the instant he started up to the instant of collision, for the train was making forty-five miles an hour or more.

"Had the railroad company exercised due care, it would have arranged some method of signalling the approach of the train which would have allowed the flagman more time. At the instant when the crossing signal was sounded, if it was sounded at all, the party, traveling about four miles an hour, was about 100 feet from the track. The witnesses for the plaintiff testify that the flagman did not start from his seat to wave the flag until the horse was almost upon the second track, that on which the train was coming.

"This is testified to by the engineer, who said that he was 300 or 400 feet from the crossing when he noticed the flagman, going to the crossing. That would be four or five seconds before the collision. The absence of the flagman is an implied invitation for the driver to cross. The woman who was driving the carriage was familiar with the neighborhood. She knew that a flagman was stationed at the crossing. She had a right to assume that if he was not waving his flag it was safe for her to cross."

TURNED CHILDREN OUT.

Father Now Trying to Get Little Daughter Back on Habeas Corpus.

Mrs. Annie Newman of 467 East 169th Street appeared yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Platzek to explain, on a writ of habeas corpus, why she had kept Sarah Engler, a thirteen-year-old girl, at her house and not permitted the child's father, Charles Engler, or her stepmother, to see her. Mrs. Newman told the court a story of cruel treatment on the part of the father and his fourth wife, her stepmother, which so puzzled the court that he ordered the case adjourned until next Tuesday in his chambers.

The defense of Mrs. Newman, who wishes to retain the child, outlined the life of Newman, whom she accused of having, on the event of his fourth marriage, turned out of doors both Sarah Engler and her brother, Sam Engler. The son is now in the Hawthorne Reformatory School of New York, having been placed there by his father on the charge of stealing a pocketbook containing 60 cents. According to the story of Sam, he stole the pocketbook under his father's directions.

The daughter, Sarah, for whom her father has now sued out a writ of habeas curpus, alleges that she was so severely beaten by her father and her stepmother that she was forced to run away. Justice Platzek returned the child to Mrs. Newman pending the further hearing of the case.

Misses' and Junior Suits and Dresses $15 to $30 Values, at $12.98.

NEARLY A HUNDRED, but for the most part only one of a kind—and for that reason we have them at this very small price. Easter Week has never brought a more remarkable opportunity.

They are the product of one of the most successful makers of youthful apparel in all New York. He has a singular facility in translating French ideas for American wear. His fabrics are fine, his workmanship is admirable, his garments fit with little or no alterations.

The range of values of these Suits and Dresses is from $15 to $30, but most are of the higher values; the average probably being $25.

They are of fine serges, whipcords and mixtures in the fashionable shades of blue, navy and tan, with a number of black, checks, stripes and fancy combinations. The large number of Suits and Dresses of the smart white serge is especially worthy of note.

Ready today at the uniform price of $12.98.

Second Floor. None C. O. D., on Approval or Credited.

Children's Millinery—Special Day And Some Wonderful Women's Hats, $5.

TODAY WILL BE A SPECIAL DAY in the Millinery Store for girls and misses who have left until now the selection of the all-important Easter Hat.

To mark it we have made a special gathering of Hats suitable for girls of all ages, many that will be bought by young women with small features who find in this girlish range Hats better suited to them than those of more mature style.

Every fashionable shape will be represented, all the modish straws, charming ideas in trimming, a charming youthfulness, and an unusual artistry of line and design. Prices from 69c. to $12.

Special Hats for Women, $5.

Recent special purchases and some specially made Hats from our own workrooms combine today to make one of the most notable offerings of women's spring Millinery at the little price of $5 that we remember to have seen in Brooklyn, especially at the very beginning of the season.

There are large and small shapes, of satin straws, pyroxylin, Milan and fancy straws, trimmed with draped silks, feather novelties, fancy silk novelties and the like, representing the range of fashionable colors, and in styles suitable for dress as well as morning wear.

Altogether remarkable value for so little as $5.

Second Floor, Elm Place.

New Waist Tunics, $1.25 to $4.50.

THE EASIEST WAY that the ingenuity of man ever hit upon for transforming a costume, for making an old dress or waist appear like a new creation, is the use of these new Waist Tunics, first shown today in the Neckwear Store.

They are in hip length, square necks and slender lines, made to slip over the head and adjusted at the waist with girdles of black satin ribbon, run under the arms with elastic to give adjustment to any figure. They are made of fine nets, figured and tucked and edged with very effective lace; altogether a most effective bit of femininity.

Shown exclusively at Loeser's in several striking models priced from $1.25 to $4.50 each.

Main Floor, Fulton Street.

We Have Received Another Lot of Those Non-Leakable Guaranteed Fountain Pens, 69c. Instead of $2.

A WEEK AGO LAST MONDAY we had five hundred of these Pens to sell at this price and at three o'clock in the afternoon every Pen was sold and many who came later were disappointed. Since then we have had many inquiries as to when we would have another lot.

Today the good news comes, and as a special Easter offering, in which our customers may not only provide for their own needs, but select for gifts as well, we have secured another lot of several hundred and offer them, regular two-dollar values, for 69c. each.

These Fountain Pens were made to our order, and by means of a safety device in the cap, which screws on the barrel, they are made non-leakable. The pen points are of 14k gold and the barrels are of hard rubber handsomely chased.

We have them in two sizes, the regulation and the half size, or shopping bag style. These Pens may be carried in any position without fear of leakage. 69c. each.

Main Floor.

$4 to $10 Baby Coats—Samples At $2.50, $3.50 and $5.

WE HAVE 250 OF THESE COATS, in the Infants' Store, nearly all of different styles, in sizes to fit children of 2 to 4 years. And we doubt if the day before Easter has ever seen such values.

They are of serges, of gray mixtures, of black-and-white wool checks, of imported pongees, of bedford cords, etc. The most up-to-date and attractive styles; the most favored materials and a grade of workmanship that is rarely to be had under price. None C. O. D. No mail or telephone orders filled.

Second Floor, Bond Street, Infants' Store.

THE NORSEMAN

A Drama in Four Acts

By ELIZABETH ALDEN CURTIS

THE drama of The Norseman adheres as closely as possible to the Icelandic legend of Frithiof and Ingeborg, as it was told in the ancient Frithiof Saga, and will undoubtedly appeal to many who are already familiar with the prose version by William Morris. The play ends on a note of lyric beauty and fulfillment, with the young Frithiof home, at last, from his "great adventuring."

CHURCHES TO OFFER FINE EASTER MUSIC

Elaborate Programmes Arranged for the Morning, Afternoon, and Evening Services.

ORCHIDS LEAD THIS YEAR

They Are the Most Popular Easter Flower—Many Rare Foreign Blooms Being Shown.

Final preparations for Easter were in full swing along Fifth Avenue yesterday. The warm, hazy day brought hundreds into the flower shops. The girls in the millinery shops, having passed through their busiest days, gazed out into the street thinking of their own Easter hats. Here and there groups of women still gathered to gaze at some "creation" posed in solemn and awful state before a vast extent of background and scenery. The traveler along the street met again and again the sign, "Errand Girls Wanted," testifying to the rush to deliver the hats that have been planned, painfully tried on, bought and perhaps paid for during the cold days of the early Spring.

Flowers for this year are orchids, roses, rhododendrons, hydrangeas, and azaleas. The lily, symbolic of Easter, has not been so much in demand. The orchids lead. Mexico, Central America, and the tropical parts of the South American continent have sent to this market hundreds of varieties. To these have been added many hybrid varieties. A special beauty was pointed out yesterday called the Japanese orchid, made by combining two South American plants. It was frail and delicate, with red and spotted blooms, and was for sale—for a wonderful price. And there were the great purple orchids, decorated with purple ribbon a foot wide, and the red and yellow orchids with the right colored ribbons. American beauties were also for sale in great abundance, while the more modest flowers were set off with green and silk until they seemed as gorgeous as the rest.

As for the weather to-morrow the forecaster is none to optimistic. His predictions late last night for Sunday were increasing cloudiness with probable late showers; south to southwest winds.

Music in the Churches.

The churches of the city, great and small, will mark the day with special services. There will be many elaborate musical services. At St. Patrick's Cathedral special music has been played all through the week, and most important will be the pontifical mass to be celebrated at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Pontificial vespers will be said at 4 o'clock. This is the musical programme:

PONTIFICAL MASS.

Processional—Alleluia .... Smart
Proper of the Mass .... Gregorian
Ordinary of the Mass—in G, for soli, chorus, orchestra, and organ .... P. A. Yon
Offertory—Terra Tremuit .... J. J. O'Connor
Postlude—Op. 56 .... Grieg

PONTIFICAL VESPERS.

Psalms of the Day .... Gregorian
Regina Coeli .... Stein
Ego Sum Panis Vinus .... Palestrina
Tantum Ergo .... J. J. O'Connor
Postlude—Christus Resurrexit .... Ravanello

At Trinity Church the high celebration of communion will be at 11 A. M. The principal musical numbers will be:

Kyrie eleision, Credo, Sanctus, Agnus Dei, Gloria in Excelsis, in D ...... Hummel

Another service will be held in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at which these numbers will be rendered:

Processional, Hymn 122, Jesus Lives! .. Gauntlett
Proper Psalms, 113, 114, 118.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G .... Reginald Steggall
Anthem, I. Corinthians, xv., verses 51, 52, 54-57; Colossians iii., verses 1-4 .. D. D. Wood
Chorus, Revelation xix., verses 6, 16; xi., verse 15 .... Handel

Service for Night Workers.

Historic old St. Paul's Chapel, at Broadway and Vesey Street, will have a splendid musical programme at the 2:30 A. M. Easter service for night workers. George Valentine Ellery, the precentor, has obtained Miss Hazel Adele Goetschius, soprano; Miss Janie Murray Fyfe, contralto, and a chorus of women's voices to assist the regular male choir of night workers. Miss Fyfe will sing Granier's Hosanna," and Miss Goetschius and Mr. Ellery will sing Shelley's "Hark, Hark, My Soul!" while the entire chorus will sing the Easter anthem, "Rejoice, O Sons of Earth;" "They Have Taken Away My Lord;" "Rejoice To-Day With Gladness," and "Rejoice, Jerusalem, and Sing." The Rev. William Montague Geer, vicar, will preach the sermon. Herbert D. Hodgson is sub-organist at these night workers' services.

At St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church, City Hall Place and Duane Street, a solemn high mass will be sung at 2:30 A. M. for the night workers. The pastor, Rev. Luke J. Evers, will be celebrant. A special musical programme, with an orcestra, has been arranged.

The Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield will conduct special Easter services at the Old First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue, Eleventh to Twelfth Street. At 11 A. M., there will be a choral service, at which Dr. Duffield will preach upon the theme, "The New Tomb." At 8 P. M. "The Creation" will be sung, and Dr. Duffield will speak upon the topic, "The New World."

At Calvary Baptist Church.

At Calvary Baptist Church, West Fifty-seventh Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, this is the morning programme:

The Day of Resurrection .... Webb
Christ the Lord Is Risen To-day ...... Schecker
Gloria Patri .... Greatorex
Anthem (new;) Sing With All the Sons of Gladness .... Demarest
Jesus Christ Is Risen To-day .... Ancient Hymn
I Know That My Redeemer Liveth; "The Messiah" .... Handel
Mrs. Charles A. Lewis.
Choral Ascription: Hallelujah! the Lord God Omnipotent Reigneth .... Handel

Morning and afternoon services at St. Bartholomew's, 16 East Forty-fourth Street, will be held with this music:

11 A. M.

Prelude, Contemplation .... Dallier
(For violin, harp, and organ.)
Te Deum in F .... Ireland
Jubliate in C .... Stanford
Introit Anthem, "This Is the Day" .... Palestrina
Offertory Anthem, "The Promise That Was Made" .... Bairstow
Sanctus in B .... Gounod

4 P. M.

Cantata and Deus in E flat .... Garrett
Excerpts from 'The Light of the World" .... Sullivan
Offertory Anthem, "Rise Again" ... Henschel
Hallelujah Chorus .... Handel
Postlude, Romanza .... d'Ambrozio
(For violin, harp, and organ.)

Vested choir of forty-five men and women. Miss Grace Kerns, soprano; Mrs. Benedict-Jones, alto; Frederick Weld, bass; Arthur Hyde, organist and choirmaster.

St. Thomas's Programme.

The musical numbers at St. Thomas's Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, will be:

7 A. M.

Anthem—As It Began to Dawn .... Coombs
Sanctus in E flat .... Richards

11 A. M.

Christ Our Passover .... Macfarlane
Te Deum in C .... Jordan
Benedictus in D flat .... Macfarlane
Anthem—Unfold, Ye Portals .... Gounod

4 P. M.

Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in E ...... White
Hallelujah Chorus—"The Messiah" ... Handel

Will C. Macfarlane, organist and choirmaster; Gustav Stahl, soprano; Charles Hackett, tenor; vested choir of fifty voices, organ, trumpets, tympani, and harp.

There will be unveiled to-morrow morning at the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church a new art window in memory of Townsend Wandell, who died in 1908, and who was Treasurer of the church at the time of his death. The window is a tribute from his sister and brother.

The cantata "From Olivet to Calvary" will be sung by the Labor Temple chorus of seventy-five voices at the Labor Temple, Fourteenth Street and Second Avenue, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. There will be a short address by the Rev. H. P. Vaughn on "Emancipation: Physical and Spiritual." In the afternoon at 4 o'clock the Rev. J. E. Williams, Vice President of the University of Nanking, China, will speak on "The Situation in China."

It has just been announced that Miss Amy Townsend has given to Bishop Greer and the Trustees of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine a fund to provide Easter flowers for the high altar. The endowment is in perpetuity and is in memory of Miss Townsend's parents. Bishop Greer will preach at the Easter service on Sunday morning, and in the afternoon there will be a musical programme arranged by Miles Farrow.

DENSE ON CURRENT HISTORY.

Students Misplace Gompers, Booker Washington, Diaz, and La Follette.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—Dr. Frederick Burk, President of the San Francisco Normal School, announces that hereafter the institution under his charge will examine students on questions "that are in the present melting pots of public discussion, and have vital bearing upon life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in the home, society or State," rather than on ancient and mediaeval history.

In a pamphlet sent to high school teachers of the State, he attacks present educational tendencies and prints answers received in a Statewide examination of high school students on current topics. Here are some of them:

"Samuel Gompers—The king of democrats. Member of Congress."

"Booker T. Washington—The assassin of Lincoln."

"Porfirio Diaz—An early Portuguese explorer."

"La Follette—The Governor of California."

"Charles Darwin—One of the plotters against Scotland in the time of Mary, Queen of Scots."

"Are our American schools preparing Roman citizens?" asks Dr. Burk after noting that concerning Cassius, a Roman political insurgent living before Christ, 90 per cent. of the answers were correct. "Do we live B. C. or A. D.?"

THE LEADING BOOKS OF 1912

Emerson Hough's Greatest American Novel

JOHN RAWN

By Emerson Hough

Author of THE MISSISSIPPI BUBBLE 54-40, OR FIGHT, etc.

It is a progressive novel—one of the little voices of the era. You would better read it, for it will teach you something.
—Cleveland Plain Dealer

John Rawn is a novel you cannot side-step if it once gets in your way.
—Boston Globe

Dramatic in treatment, important in theme, and as entertaining throughout as any piece of fiction can possibly be, John Rawn must be given its place among the really notable contributions to current American literature. —Pittsburgh Post

A Real Creation—A Novel Aglow With Life

FRAN

By John Breckenridge Ellis

A young girl arrives at night at the home of the man who is really her father, but who had not known of her existence. By the strength of her secret she forces him to take her into his household because she "wants to belong to somebody."

Once established, she undertakes to set right a situation intense in its possibilities. This girl, Fran, is the charm of an extraordinary book; a girl, whimsical, quaint, and shrewd, with a wonderful smile, the highest courage, and a great longing for home and love.

You can't really describe Fran any more than you can describe your best friend. She comes so close, is so human, that cold analysis is impossible.

Illustrated by W. B. King. Price, $1.25 net

A MAN AND HIS MONEY

By Frederic S. Isham

Author of HALF A CHANCE, UNDER THE ROSE, THE SOCIAL BUCANEER, etc.

The hero is a young man who voluntarily gives up his millions to start again at the bottom. For Horatio Heatherbloom—which, as you may guess, was not really his name—wealth had formed a handicap, so he put it away—and went to work with his hands and his brain.

Mr. Isham, who is nothing if not original, treats this unusual theme in a manner whimsical and romantic.

Exciting adventures come on by sea and shore. And at the end—well, A Man and His Money ends as all good love stories should, and precisely as you would have it.

Illustrated by Max J. Spero Price, $1.25 net

A Breezy George Randolph Chester Novel

FIVE THOUSAND AN HOUR

By George Randolph Chester

Author of GET-RICH-QUICK WALLINGFORD, THE MAKING OF BOBBY BURNIT, etc.

It sounds impossible—but Johnny Gamble does it. Of course, it takes that magician in money-making—George Randolph Chester—to accomplish the feat.

There is a girl named Constance Joy. Johnny meets her and decides that he must have her. But a million dollars is between them. A whole million dollars—but Johnny Gamble is undaunted. How he earns it and his bride is told in Five Thousand An Hour, one of the best and breeziest of the George Randolph Chester stories.

The Brightest, Gayest, Happiest of Novels

HE COMES UP SMILING

By Charles Sherman

Written by a very young heart in which the blood is urgent.
—N. Y. Post

A sprightly romance of love, adventure, and humor.
—Boston Transcript

The title, He Comes Up Smiling, describes the happy frame of mind the reader will be in once he has read this charming story.
—Salt Lake Herald

An airy care-free tale that makes delightful reading.
—Grand Rapids Press

Will become right speedily one of the best sellers.
—Chicago Journal

As welcome as the flowers that bloom in the Spring.
—Pittsburgh Dispatch

Illustrated by Arthur William Brown. Price, $1.25 net.

To open this story is like stepping into a beautiful garden flooded with sunlight and swept by summer breezes. Sally herself is sunshine incarnate.

SALLY SALT

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

Author of THE SILVER BUTTERFLY, THE BEAUTY, etc.

Noble of figure as a goddess, young, comely—strength and health irradiate from her. She is more than merely cheerful and beautiful. She is wise and witty, unselfish and dictatorial, dignified and unconventional, natural and unusual. She goes by contraries and the paradoxes of her character make her a joy. The man she loves matches her in this way. Anthony Streatham is a charming wanderer coming when the fields are ripe for the sickle and then away again at the call of the road. Anthony is all but unique.

Sally Salt is a marked departure from the society studies in Mrs. Woodrow's two preceding novels and a return to the manner of The New Missioner—a return to nature and to human nature untrammeled and in the open.

Illustrated by David Robinson. Price, $1.25 net

Readers who wish to be amused by pure fun will find what they want in Pollyooly.
—N. Y. Sun

A book of the moment, each moment of which is a pure joy.
—N. Y. World

POLLYOOLY

By Edgar Jepson

Author of THE ADMIRABLE TINKER, etc.

To read Pollyooly is to take part in many stirring frolics, to enjoy page after page of hearty, innocent fun.
—Chicago Record-Herald

This thoroughly lovable and unusual mite of humanity is the heroine of as charming a story as has been published in many a day.
—Pittsburgh Post

To banish the blues read Pollyooly. Zest and entertainment increase with the pages and one passes from chuckles to downright laughter.
—Detroit Free Press

A most bewitching little character. Her unusual personality dominates the book.

Pleasures and Palaces
BY JULIET WILBOR TOMPKINS
Being the Home-Making Adventures of MARIE ROSE

MARIE ROSE had never seen the inside of a kitchen; meals came when you pressed a button or commanded a waiter. So when she was beguiled into trying home-life in an apartment, with a housekeeper; and when this perfidious lady failed to arrive as promised—why, Marie Rose found herself staring starvation in the eye. If you wish to be really diverted, come and behold this dangerously attractive young person making a first acquaintance with the unyielding nature of a can of soup when she has never had to distinguish between a can-opener and an ice-pick. Her temporary neighbor, Galen Ward, engineer and miner and camper, was hugely excited when he came to the rescue. And that was the beginning of the story.

The Book of Knowledge
The Children's Encyclopedia
Illustrated with 10,000 Educational Pictures; 350 Magnificent Colored Plates.

A Verdict To Be Trusted

When the growing, active boy will leave his outdoor sports and sit fascinated and absorbed over the wonders of science and the marvel of his own body, and the growing girl will leave her doll and little companions to read by the hour about the worlds in the sky and the peoples in foreign lands, something wonderful has happened! The children have found what they so long have been waiting for—the wisdom of the world in clear and simple language with every important fact made plain by thousands of wonderful pictures. It is education made natural and attractive and accompanied by pure delight. The practical results of the work in the home and school are amazing. Give your child the pleasure of reading the beautiful illustrated booklet FREE. The short articles and extremely interesting pictures will delight him. His verdict is to be trusted.

President John H. Finley, of the College of the City of New York, in his introduction, says: "Suppose a boy of ten were to spend fifteen minutes a day in reading these pages, . . . he would at thirteen know more about the earth and the life on it than the wisest men knew a few generations ago."*

The Mind's Picture Gallery

Mr. Edison claims that the substitution of moving pictures for text-books would make school fascinating to most children. The editors of THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE are in perfect agreement with this principle of teaching by pictures. Ten thousand educational pictures give the child two chances instead of one to remember every important fact. There are pictures of the worlds in the sky, of animals and plants, of wonderful men and women, of 100 important countries. Every step of many interesting processes is shown in such articles as "Boring Through the Alps," "How We Dig Up Sunshine," "How a Light House is Built," "Making Iron and Steel," etc., pictures stored away in the mind's gallery never to be forgotten.

The Psychology of Attention

This important work is based on sound psychology. The average child cannot read more than twenty-five minutes on serious subjects. The articles therefore are short and extremely interesting, and the frequent change of subjects and pictures holds his absorbed attention. In recognizing the mind process of the youth, in properly appealing to him, and in arousing his curiosity and holding his attention, THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE has accomplished a psychological feat.

STOVER AT YALE

By OWEN JOHNSON, author of "The Varmint," etc.

Is the society system in American colleges good or bad? Few people appreciate what an influence it has not only on life in the colleges, but also on the character and attainment of the men graduated into American business and professions. Every college is affected, whether the social organizations be called societies, fraternities or clubs.

In this exciting, vital story, in which the hero of "The Varmint" appears in Yale, we get real college life—not a mirage of sweaters, football games and college widows, but a community of young men with a thousand interests and diverse personalities.

With illustrations by F. R. Gruger. $1.35 net.

The undergraduate struggle is one of excitement and importance, that will profoundly interest any reader entirely aside from college affiliations; for this is not a book for the "collegian" and his relatives solely, but for every one interested in the working in our great universities of the same ferment that permeates American life generally.

FREE SHIPS.

The evolution of an American merchant marine is not a simple matter, and there is no one measure, from subsidies to free ships, that will accomplish it. But there is no doubt that the law forbidding Americans to purchase ships wherever they can be had cheapest and best is a hindrance to that evolution. The action of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York in support of the repeal of this law is wise and timely.

It is true that the purchase is not wholly forbidden. Indeed, Americans own some 1,000,000 tons of foreign built ships, and are making reasonable profits in sailing them, but these ships are not permitted to take out American papers or to fly the American flag. The prohibition is intended to force Americans with a taste for the shipping business to employ American builders, but it does not work, because, for one reason or another, American builders cannot build as cheaply and at the same time as well. The absurdity of the law lies in its absolute ineffectiveness. Since the law does not work, its advocates are constantly urging that subsidies be paid for American-built ships. With one hand they would bar the world's market to the ship buyers, with the other they would take the money from the taxes to hire Americans to buy and run American ships. The former operation is useless, the latter is utterly unjust, and, also, so far, has proved futile.

We are not sure that a great American merchant marine would be so fine a thing as many of its admirers seem to think that it would be. We are entirely sure that it cannot be got by the measures now in force or by subsidies. Whatever advantages it would confer can be had only by free and wholesome competition in building, in buying, and, so far as possible, in operating. The Chamber of Commerce is well advised in investigating the question as thoroughly as it has done, and in taking the action it has taken on the report of its excellent committee. It renders a substantial service to those important commercial and industrial interests of which it is the representative.

SHOWING UP THE FALSE TEACHERS.

It is well that the New York Bar is organizing to defend the independence of the judiciary and the principles of right and justice. Both would be not merely imperiled but destroyed by the adoption of the recall of Judges and the reversal of judicial decisions by popular vote. The demagogues who are preaching the doctrine of the recall know, of course, that no Judge could write an opinion with an independent and impartial mind if he stood in fear of losing his office through displeasing the crowd. The working of the system would be that men of courage and independence, that is, the very fittest men for the judicial station, would refuse to go on the bench.

The members of the Bar who are organizing to fight these dangerous delusions have very wisely pointed out that the recall and the reversal of decisions might work in more ways than one. The proposers of this fundamental change, or, at least, some of them, imagine that it would be used as a weapon against capital, against the employers of labor, against corporations. It is evident, however, that it might with equal effect be employed to destroy the guarantees of life and liberty as well as of property, and it is morally certain that it would be so used. Senator ROOT, in his lucid discussion of the question in The Independent, points out that the recall represents an absolute abandonment of the conception of justice as something above majorities; that it leaves the weak without protection against the strong; that "it denies the vital truth "taught by religion and realized in "the hard experience of mankind, that "human nature needs to distrust its "own impulses and passions, and to "establish for its control the restraining and guiding influence of declared "principles of action." That weighty statement sums up the case, and embodies a perfectly conclusive argument against the destructive doctrines Mr. ROOSEVELT is preaching.

It is time that the Bar gave serious consideration to these delusions. Nobody can foresee and picture forth their blasting effect so well as the experienced practitioner at the Bar. Through organization, members of the Bar can inform the people what the recall and the reversal of decisions really mean, what a menace they are to order and liberty.

ONLY "FISHING RIGHTS."

Marquis SAIONJI, Prime Minister of Japan, at the cabled request of THE NEW YORK TIMES, says that there is "positively no truth" in the statement that Japan has concluded negotiations with Mexico for the establishment of a large Japanese settlement at Magdalena Bay. This is satisfactory assurance that the annoying rumors of the last few days are ill-founded. The Prime Minister's statement, however, mentions the acquisition of fishing rights on the west coast of Mexico, from the territory of Tepic to Oaxaca, presumably the northwestern boundary of Oaxaca, by the Oriental Steamship Company of Japan, transferred later to the Oriental Whaling Company of Japan. The whaling company, the statement says, has, by contract with the Mexican Government, dispatched one of its Directors to the west coast of Mexico, where, with fishing experts and fishermen "numbering about ten," he has been engaged in investigation since some time last Autumn.

From the port of Tepic, which is near the southern boundary of the territory, to Manzanillo the distance is 250 miles. Thence along the coast to Acapulco the distance is 368 miles, and Acapulco is fully 100 miles northwest of the boundary of Oaxaca. The people of Japan eat a great deal of fish. Moreover, fishing rights along a stretch of coast of 718 or more miles would require much time for thorough investigation. It is true, as the Japanese Prime Minister says, that Oaxaca has geographically no connection with Magdalena Bay. The northern part of the territory of Tepic, for that matter, is far from Magdalena Bay, but it is near the mouth of the Gulf of California.

Has Mexico no fishing industries of its own that will need all the fishing rights around Manzanillo, Acapulco, and the port of Tepic? The republic has a population of about 16,000,000, and is growing. The official Japanese statement explains that the Japanese fishing rights are limited to a term of ten years, and they constitute "purely "an individual industrial enterprise on "the part of a Japanese private concern." "Similar fishing rights," we are told, "have been granted heretofore to the citizens or subjects of the "United States, Great Britain, Italy, "&c." Doubtless the inquiry set on foot by Senator LODGE's resolution will place before the American people all needful information touching the fishing rights on the west coast of Mexico, and give us a clear idea of their value.

ELUSIVE CHRISTABEL.

The transformation of Miss CHRISTABEL PANKHURST, one of the most ubiquitous, aggressive, demonstrative personages of her time, always in sight and hearing, into an elusive, silent, invisible state has become an international mystery. Since March 5 the Scotland Yard police have been looking for her, or pretending to; and since that time no authentic trace of CHRISTABEL has been discovered. To be sure, she was seen and recognized on board the Mauretania, westward bound, twenty-one days after she had seemed to vanish in thin air. But the missing DOROTHY ARNOLD has been seen and recognized as surely many times since her disappearance, yet she has never been found. CHRISTABEL has been discovered also in Algiers and Buenos Aires, while some of the observers of suffragette tactics in London are confident that her influence is still directly exerted there.

If the smaller but most effective Miss PANKHURST is really in New York, the international mystery becomes deeper. Why is she silent? Why should she hide? She has shown herself fearless many times, while she has nothing to fear. No British policeman can harm her here, no British law can touch her. She is charged with no extraditable crime. This is, above everything, a land of much talk, and Miss CHRISTABEL is an illustrious talker. She has no equal among American militant suffragists. If she would emerge from hiding, she might inspire her submerged sisters to renewed activity. Yet people who know her insist that she is either here or has been lately.

We are worried about CHRISTABEL. The change is too sudden and violent. Everybody, irrespective of prejudices for or against the cause of "votes for women," will sincerely hope that she is not ill. She is so bright, so vivacious and earnest, she has been so full of animation and determination, that it would be hard to think of her even temporarily afflicted by physical infirmity.

WIRELESS DISPLACING CABLES.

When a Postmaster General addresses Parliament he speaks under such a sense of responsibility that his words have higher meaning than those more casually spoken. Interpreted thus, the remarks of Mr. SAMUEL, explaining why the British Government will make no capital investment in a State-owned transatlantic cable, have a very direct bearing upon the relation of cables to the wireless system. He did not say that the wireless system is to displace cables, consideration for vested interests being a British characteristic. But it is easy to read between the lines. A State-owned cable, he said, must be operated at a deficit of half its takings, because it could not have the support of land lines already pledged to existing cables. Why, he asked, should the Government undertake this annual loss of $125,000 to achieve results capable of realization without any risk at all? The cable companies have reduced rates, and prudently will reduce them further. Besides, the Government has in view a system of wireless telegraphy for facilitating communications between the various dominions of the Empire, "which will not be unremunerative to the Governments "which are partners in the enter-"prise."

This is competition of the fairest and severest sort. The privately owned cables must operate against the Government-owned wireless system on a basis of service for profit. If the proposal were to operate the wireless at a loss to be recouped from taxes the cable companies would have a grievance. But they have no claim to restrict the progress of the art, and might have developed the wireless themselves, instead of leaving it to be developed by the Government. As it is, London is to be linked with the antipodes by a chain of stations running through Egypt, beside the Red Sea, on to Bombay, Singapore, Hongkong, Australasia, and South Africa. This is not a complete girdle around the world, but it must be remembered that there is in operation also a transatlantic system of high efficiency. For example, on Thursday THE TIMES was served with many hundred words of foreign news, by far the largest quantity offered to its readers by any newspaper, and, with trifling exceptions, every word came by wireless.

The adhesion of the United States to the international wireless treaty has been delayed since 1906, and now makes the recognition of this system of transmitting intelligence complete throughout the world, or at least all the world which counts. Mr. MARCONI has announced his system of determining the position of steamships by wireless signals between stations so placed that vessels can tell where they are with reference to the land or to each other, in the same manner that they do by taking sights from ranges to lights ashore. It was an announcement that bore tidings of peaceful nights to those who are terrified by the foghorns, and those other nerveless people who either are dead to fear, or do not know enough of the danger to be feared to be afraid, and yet are unable to sleep with the horrid whistles blowing. Mr. MARCONI is a modest gentleman, but it is hard to see how he manages it against so many impediments. Ordinary people think they have a grievance because telegrams can find them anywhere nowadays. But fancy Mr. MARCONI's difficulty in searching the world through to get out of reach of the signals whose sending was the fruit of his brain. After all, and for all his modesty, why should he undertake such a difficult task when he is as welcome as his signals in every country of the world, one of its leading citizens, carrying its key in his pocket by original right?

A BUSINESS PRESIDENT.

Mr. TAFT, as the campaign for the Presidential nomination grows more heated, renews, with greater earnestness, his urgent plea to Congress to reduce patronage, save money, and increase efficiency. It is a plan that will not appeal to the spoils politicians, but it will have weight with sober men who like to see public business, like private, managed honestly and well.

The message the President has just sent to Congress is very simple and practical, and its recommendations are far reaching. He would banish nearly all that remains of spoils from the two great patronage departments of the Post Office and the Treasury, and the important though not quite so "fat" Department of the Interior. He urges that all the local offices in these departments be placed in the classified service—that is to say, that they be filled by impartial competition, with no reference to politics. In the salaries of Postmasters and Assistant Postmasters alone he estimates that the saving would be $4,500,000 on the present expenditure of nearly $9,000,000. With one Postmaster at a salary 20 per cent. higher than the Assistants now receive, all the work could be done that is now done, and done a great deal better. The increased efficiency would be an added gain. In the three departments the saving in salaries would be, in round numbers, $10,000,000; the value of increased efficiency is not readily measured in figures; but it would be great.

There is another gain, and a solid one, on which the President does not dwell. It lies in getting rid of the demoralization caused by political appointments. The mischief done by these in the service is great, and that done in the community is still greater, especially in the matter of local appointments. It is through these that the party organization is in great part controlled. It is a notable sign, and a good one, that the candidate for the Presidential nomination who is most denounced by the "Progressives" should take the lead in a practical reform of this sort.

INCOME ON DEBTS.

Representative ADAMSON, Chairman of the committee which reported the bill for the physical valuation of railways, gives an inkling of the use he would make of it. He says:

> The anomaly has grown up, gradually and unconsciously, that public carriers are to be allowed to charge an income on what they owe as well as on what they own. Nobody else in the world with whom we are acquainted is allowed that privilege.

To Mr. ADAMSON there is some difference between railway charges for income on invested capital and charges for income on the bonds which provided the capital for investment. It seems to Mr. ADAMSON that the discount on the bonds should not be taken into account in making rates. His way to abolish the discount would seem to be to abolish the bonds by forbidding the railways to earn their interest.

No reformer dislikes the discount on bonds anything like as much as the railways themselves. No railway would like anything better than that by law all their bonds should be accepted by the market at par, and at, say, 3 per cent. interest. Railways are not voluntarily allowing discounts which enlarge their debts, and it is easy to name railroads which are charging these discounts against the fund which otherwise would be available for dividends. The shareholders would prefer that some other way of raising capital should be provided for them than the best one which they can devise to meet the prejudices of those who refuse to part with their money except on terms made acceptable to them. There is not an investor in the United States who would part with one dollar because the terms were acceptable to anybody except himself. Laws to make things as they ought to be in a perfect world are of no influence upon matters of business discretion in the world as it is, with all the exceptions to social justice which so irritate deep thinkers like Representative ADAMSON.

EASTER FLOWERS.

There are flowers everywhere this Eastertide, and while only an uncommonly alert person of statistical skill would be qualified to say whether the trade in flowers and the liking for them are alike greater this Spring than ever before, the ordinary person who walks much abroad will say so, without considering the matter of qualification, and accept his own opinion as a definite statement of fact. The florists' trade reaches its high-water mark at this time of every year. Prices in the expensive shops, where prices are always high enough, may rise somewhat above the Easter standard in midwinter, but the market now is much larger. You may buy your Easter flowers from carts in the street, from innumerable street stands, in every public market, if you do not care to contribute to the rent of palatial shops fitted with marble, silver plate, and glass.

Flowers have been crowding the Easter card out of business. It seems, on the whole, more appropriate to send a growing plant, a bunch of Bermuda lilies, or a box of roses than a printed or painted and gilded card. Roses are always in fashion. The President Taft, a modest flower which keeps its freshness longer than many others, the pink Magna Charta, and the Hermosa are favorites this year. But there seems no end to the floral varieties in market. Violets, English daisies, azaleas, and hydrangeas are on hand in large supply. The churches will take on a gardenlike aspect at the services to-morrow morning. The drawing rooms and dining tables of the well-to-do will glow with color and be filled with fragrance. But the humbler folk will have their flowers, too, and growing plants in pots will decorate the windowsills of many tenements.

Remember the hospitals to-day, especially the wards where the suffering poor are treated. They, also, should have their share of the glory and cheer of Easter.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Verdict in a Cat Case.

An Ohio Judge has just decided, in effect, that if the owner of a cat shoots a dog which is chasing that cat, the owner of the dog suffers wrong and can collect damages. Yet there is in Ohio a law providing that the dog that pursues a "domestic animal" can be shot or otherwise killed without creating a cause of action.

Such a slaughter took place in the village of Euclid, and in the Justice's Court it was decided, apparently on the theory either that dogs have a right to chase cats or that they can't help doing it when opportunity offers, that $25 was due the dog's owner. As a defense, on appeal to the Court of Common Pleas, the law as to domestic animals was cited. It was, however, declared irrelevant, the reason given being that the cat is not a domestic animal.

This decision, we think, is sound. Of course cats do enter houses—when they are hungry or sleepy, or when the weather outside doesn't suit their tastes. Often, too, they remain indoors for a considerable period, and sometimes they betray a coolly courteous interest in the humans who occupy the same domicile. Therefore they can hardly be called wild animals. But really domestic they are not. Their natural ferocity is merely repressed, since to do so is convenient and expedient for themselves, but do something they do not like, or accidentally hurt them a little, and with teeth and claws bared they give instant and conclusive proof of cousinship with the tiger and the leopard, of which they have every characteristic except size.

Dogs have never believed in the domesticity of cats. Most of them will tolerate individual cats, but cats as cats they insist on regarding and treating as game. And dogs know. Their instinct in this as in so many other matters is inerrable, and not one of them would reverse the Ohio Judge's decision.

Lord Lister Teaches a Last Lesson.

It is impossible to read the provisions of Lord LISTER's will without reaching the conclusion that while alive he had been so often and so much irritated by the results of bequests nominally philanthropic but really what may be called monumental, that he determined so to bequeath his own fortune as to make a striking contrast with the usual procedure.

That he certainly did, but in so doing, perhaps, he has made a surer bid for posthumous fame than do the men who cause the erection of huge buildings with their names over the door, and leave these admirably purposed institutions to be precariously and inefficiently maintained on reluctant gifts from men who get no glory from their contributions. Lord LISTER could have had no such intention, however, for his modesty was phenomenal. This is shown by the frequency with which he publicly acknowledged that PASTEUR's discoveries made possible the advances in surgery that followed the use, first of antiseptic, and then of aseptic, methods. Nobody less than he was wont to do "queer" things, and yet his will is distinctly queer, in that it so emphasizes the testator's wish that his name should be in no way associated with his bequests, and even says that the University of Edinburgh, to which he left his medals and diplomas, can, if it chooses, melt up the one and burn the other.

That is going as far one way as vanity ever led men to go the other. He must have known that the university would carefully guard these evidences of his distinction, as adding to its own, but the permission he gave was a needed reproof of those whose ill-advised restrictions upon the use of bequests so often become, with changing conditions, a drag upon progress and obstacles to utility.

Lord LISTER was one of the great men who received full appreciation and adequate reward while still alive. The honors that came to him were innumerable, and he had as much money as a man of his stamp needed—probably quite as much as he wanted. It was not necessary to wait for his death before pronouncing him happy.

Hardly a Promising Experiment.

Just what to do with Anarchists is a problem the solution of which has puzzled many countries. The citizens of San Diego, Cal., found themselves confronted with this problem the other day when they heard that a hundred avowed believers in anarchy were approaching the town, and they solved it, at least for the time being.

A well-armed body of residents marched down the railway track a way, stopped the freight train on which the unwelcome invaders were riding, and made them get out. Next the Anarchs were forced to kneel and kiss the American flag, and then they were invited to walk briskly away from San Diego, while a band, which had been taken along to enliven the occasion, played "The Star-Spangled Banner."

This episode was amusing, it was interesting as a mild reminder of the days of the Vigilantes, but it was, perhaps, rather an illustration of anarchy than a cure for it. The proceeding, in short, was one easy to sympathize with, yet hard to commend. Compulsory osculation is not provocative of affection, for flags or anything else, and lawlessness does not inspire respect for the law, no matter by whom it is displayed.

A Good Law That Doesn't Work.

When the Sullivan pistol law was passed it received general commendation from a large number of people who aspire to be regarded as good citizens. All such people knew that too many pistols were carried, and they also knew that laws much like this one have long been enforced with good effects in several other countries. Experience has shown, however, that the public's inclination to commend legal restrictions on the carrying and possession of firearms was considerably greater than its willingness to observe those restrictions.

Especially obstinate has been the refusal to take out licenses for pistols kept at home for protection against burglars, for most of us have an instinctive feeling that we have a right, both natural and constitutional, to do that, and very few of us are conscientious enough voluntarily to pay an annual fee for the exercise of that right. The police, in their efforts to enforce the law, have on several occasions made trouble for men who were doing what nobody thinks is wrong, while criminals seem to carry and use deadly weapons as much as ever.

The courts as well as public sentiment have viewed the Sullivan law as ill-designed to produce good effects, and their decisions have weakened it till now a ruling as to the meaning of "concealed," made by Justice GERARD, is thought by some to have dealt a death blow to the statute. That is obviously an exaggeration, but it is evident enough that to get the expected benefits from regulation of the sale and possession of arms the lawmakers will have to try again.

NEW THEORY OF SCURVY.

Due Rather to Toxins in Food Than Absence of Acids.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You state that "scurvy, a dreadful though almost forgotten disease," is "due to living on food from which the vegetable acids are lacking." This theory, propounded by Ralfe and many others, is meeting with the fate of most other theories unsupported by actual experimentation. The idea of scurvy as an infection, first actively propounded by Babes, the distinguished French pathologist, is that which offers the best explanation. No specific microbe has been recognized as a cause, and it is not probable that any single disease germ is responsible. As a matter of fact, it is nearly certain that scurvy represents a gastro-intestinal poisoning due to the absorption of putrid food or of food undergoing putrefaction after being taken.

The observations of F. G. Jackson, the distinguished polar explorer, who spent nearly three years in Franz Josef Land, present facts of the utmost interest in connection with scurvy. In brief, he found that the men on shore, plentifully supplied with fresh walrus and bear meat, but using no lime juice, entirely escaped the disease. The men on board his ship, which wintered close at hand, being subject to the British maritime laws, received regular rations of lime juice and the food prescribed by these laws. Much of this, of course, consisted of preserved meats. Several bad cases of scurvy developed among them. Nor does it appear that actually putrid meat is always responsible, for the mere tainting of meat prior to preservation, by which bacterial growth is checked, while admitting of the presence of ptomaines, appears quite sufficient to cause scurvy after prolonged use. Jackson gives a number of observations which lack of space prevents my quoting, but Prof. Vaughan Harley of London, basing himself upon Jackson's experience, actually produced the symptoms of scurvy in monkeys. The use of lime juice and other vegetable substances in the cure and prevention of scurvy is doubtless of value, but in all probability merely because they prevent intestinal putrefaction.

A Botanist's Congratulations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to congratulate you on the splendid photographs of John Muir and John Burroughs appearing in THE TIMES to-day. This is the kind of thing that is eminently "fit to print."

I also wish to thank you for your interest and efforts in preventing the passage of a bill of $100,000 to attempt to prevent the spread of the chestnut canker in New York State. It is quite evident that the publicity given to this scheme by your paper dissuaded the promoters from pushing the measure.

BATTLESHIPS AND CANAL.

Hamilton Holt Takes Issue with Admiral Mahan's Contention.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Admiral Mahan in this morning's TIMES is worried over the action of the House of Representatives in deciding not to make appropriations this year for the customary two new battleships. His chief argument is that this alleged "false economy" will result in a condition of "National exposure caused by our building and owning the Panama Canal."

This is startling. I seem to recollect that a different argument was used when the United States was hesitating about digging the canal. Then the chief plea of our naval friends was that the canal in our hands would double the efficiency of the fleet. Now it is apparently a reason for building more ships.

Admiral Mahan suggests other reasons why more battleships are needed. He sees a possible Orientalizing of the Pacific slope and the abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine. At the present moment the Chinese are excluded by law from this country. We need have no concern from China. We have also a gentleman's agreement with Japan by which no more Japanese laborers come to our shores. Indeed, the tide of immigration is already turning backward, and now the Japanese immigration in Hawaii and the mainland is decreasing by over 3,000 a year.

I have just returned from a trip to Japan, where I tried to find out all I could about the foreign policy of Japan, with especial reference to the United States. I have not the shadow of a doubt but that Japan will do anything we ask of her to avoid trouble, provided she can do it with dignity. I could give you many concrete reasons for this if space permitted. As to the Monroe Doctrine, there Admiral Mahan is perhaps on firmer ground. He may have some use for a big navy if he has any reason to believe that England, Germany, France, or Japan (the other nations of the world can be left out of account) want land in Latin America bad enough to fight us and Latin America for it, whether we have two more battleships a year or not.

I know of nothing, however, to indicate that such is the purpose, secret or avowed, of any of these powers. The burden of proof would seem to be on the Admiral. HAMILTON HOLT.

THE PRODUCT OF THE COW.

Assemblyman Crane Maintains That New York's Cream Test Is Too Strict.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The article on the Wheeler Milk bill in today's "Topics of the Times" interested me much.

The cow has always been a friend of mine since my very early youth, when she became, as it were, my foster-mother. Lacking educational advantages, she is unfamiliar with the agricultural law of this State, and is unacquainted with the artificial compound which the law calls milk. She does not know exactly how to produce 12 per centum of milk solids and 3 per centum of fats. But in spite of her shortcomings she placidly chews her cud and goes on producing milk naturally.

Her owner, the milkman, believing that milk is milk, the same as "pigs is pigs," adds nothing to this natural milk, takes nothing from it, but sells it as the cow produces it; and because of the unintelligence of his cow, and his own inability to make a chemical analysis, is subject to the penalties of the criminal law, though his intentions were good and he is feeding his own babies on the same "poison" he sells to his customers. (See People vs. Beaman, 102 A. D. 151, and other cases.)

The Wheeler bill sought to provide that if the milkman did only this he should not be guilty of a crime. The strongest objection to the bill is that it might make more difficult the conviction of dishonest milkmen. On this ground, the Governor's veto might well be sustained, though it is well that there has not been adopted a general principle that we should punish those innocent of wrongful intent in order that the guilty and dishonest may not escape.

I write this only because it seemed to me that the reader of your article would gain the false impression that this bill authorized the actual adulteration of milk.

Mississippi's "Fertile" Floods.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You say, "There must be reasons why we cannot imitate the wise ones of the East, but the reasons are not quite obvious." I think I can give some of the reasons why people of the Mississippi Valley are not anxious to have the "Father of Waters" spread his "incalculable wealth" over their plantations. The "wealth" deposited is just as apt to be a sand bar as not. Then the planter must remove to the "hills" all cattle and stock; feed and pasture them there in idleness at great expense. Nor can he bring them back after the water recedes until the grass has been washed by a hard rain, for all vegetation which has been under water is death to stock until it is thoroughly washed off by rain. There are other heavy expenses caused by these floods.

The Times's Polar Stories.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I want to commend the enterprise of your newspaper on the subject of polar explorations. It has been with the keenest interest that I have read all of your excellent stories and comments for the past three years. There is no doubt that the assistance that you have given to honorable explorers has increased geographical and scientific knowledge. This is much better than sensational exploitations, and is making your paper thousands of firm friends all over the country.

Putting the Others to Sleep.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

How evident it must be to those who read more than one morning newspaper—and there are many—that the policy of THE NEW YORK TIMES in printing "All the News That's Fit to Print" is rapidly "putting to sleep" all of the other great daily newspapers of New York. The public is appreciating your foresight, energy, and enterprise. PUBLISHER.

The Times's College News.

From Brown and White, Lehigh University.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, in its Sunday edition, publishes exclusively two pages of most interesting current college news confined entirely to non-athletic undergraduate activities and events in the life of all the more important educational institutions of the East. There is no better way by which one may so conveniently and satisfactorily learn what his college neighbors are doing than by reading the Sunday edition of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

A number of the big dailies at different times have tried to institute a purely undergraduate section, devoted entirely to undergraduate activities, in their Sunday editions, but for some reason or other have failed to continue it for any length of time. So far as can be learned, THE NEW YORK TIMES is the first paper to so thoroughly and extensively cover this interesting field.

APRIL IN TOWN.

Somehow the Broadway ladies seem Like jonquils and I swear
The April brings a maze of things
  To please me, in Times Square.

The wind blows briskly and their skirts
  Swish, crinkling, as they go—
They've sappiness and happiness
  Because they love life so.

At yonder corner stands a Greek,
  Curls matted to his brow;
He offers us the laudamus
  The fields are singing now.

The sidewalk roses, violets,
  The lilies and the one
Long, lovely breath at Winter's death
  Are good, believe me, son!

MACDOWELL CLUB'S ART EXHIBITION

Helen M. Turner's "Mountain Laurel" and Matilda Browne's "Reginald" Among Best Works.

PAINTINGS BY F. C. RANSOM

His Rural Life Subjects Show at Snedecor Galleries — Tamburini's Fine Portrait of Cardinal Farley.

The nine artists, who are exhibiting until April 16 at the MacDowell Club Gallery, show some indication of following a custom only too prevalent among modern painters. Having made up their mind to exhibit they seem to have chosen from among their works enough to fill a good-sized patch of wall space without the special incentive of having done something they believed very good indeed, something that demanded by its excellence the right of public exhibition. Some of our best painters do still feel that fastidious shrinking from showing anything less than their best in public exhibition, but the number is diminishing we fancy.

If Margaret Longstreth had shown only her "Balloons," which are chiefly pinwheels, by the way, she would have misled us as to her gift. The nude figure in "Violet and Red" by no means upholds the standard set by "Balloons"—a clever and individual use of the material provided by the passing show. Helen Mabie also is so fine in her feeling for the arabesque made by loaded apple boughs in bloom that one dislikes to see her represented by studies so slight in emotional force as "Spring Showers" and "The End of the Storm." Her "Wind Clouds" would have been more successful had she modeled her rough pigment with a closer consideration for the exigencies of light and shade. Pigment used with this freedom is apt to play unpleasant tricks by casting unexplained shadows on the canvas unless the painter is enough of a sculptor to treat it as simple material for effects of light and shade in the legitimate sculpturesque manner. The beauty of the apple boughs in high relief depends largely upon the flatness of the surface they offer to the light and the absence of confusing accents.

Helen M. Turner's "Mountain Laurel" is worthy of a place in any exhibition, and so for that matter are her "Portrait of a Young Woman," and the portrait of an old house, which she calls "Sunlight and Shadows," but why should she call No. 59 "An Arrangement of Dark and Light"? It looked to us simply like an arrangement of white and blue color, without regard to the "notan" of tone relations. Matilda Browne is stronger in her portraiture of animals than in her landscape backgrounds, where we miss adequate discrimination of the planes. Her "Reginald" is admirably characterized, and "Calves" is a true expression of the dolce far niente mood of a Summer day. It has the special virtue of showing the casual observer how pleasant above all things it is to be a calf.

Other exhibitors are Irene Brown, whose "John" is an agreeable study of little boyhood in the C. W. Hawthorne vein, perhaps, but well seen; Sarah Henry, Alice Larkin, Bertha D. Sanders, and Beatrice Stevens.

Sir W. Van Horne's Acquisitions.

Sir William Van Horne is reported to have bought two portraits by Frans Hals recently discovered. They are the likenesses of a man and woman, and Dr. Hofstede de Groot has commented upon them without having as yet identified the sitters. An inscription places the date at 1637, and states that the man was 37 years old at the time of painting and his wife one year younger. Dr. de Groot thinks that the woman has the closest analogy with the portrait of Feyna van Steekiste, now in the Rijks Museum, while the man recalls some figures in the big Amsterdam corporation piece, also painted in 1637. The pictures are on view at the Van Slochem Gallery.

A Portrait of Cardinal Farley.

At the Scott and Fowles Gallery is a striking portrait of Cardinal Farley, painted by Amaldo Tamburini of Florence, and painted from life. The red of the Cardinal's cape is particularly fine in color, having been painted over a white ground, which was allowed to dry before glazing with the red, quite after the ancient manner. The madders of the curtain in the background are not, however, so happy, and may suffer with the progress of time.

McMillan Collection on View.

At the National Arts Club is a loan exhibition of paintings, embroideries, and textiles from the collection of Emerson McMillan. The paintings comprise three portraits by Sir Peter Lely, two by Nicholas de Largilliere, one by Sir Thomas Lawrence, a marine by Thomas Moran, deeply imbued with the influence of Turner; landscapes by Wyant, Harpignies, Julian Rix, and George Inness, and the well-known "Orpheus and Eurydice," by Corot. There are portraits also by John Riley, Carle Andre Van Loo, and Jean Baptiste Santerre, the last extremely beautiful in color scheme, violets, yellows, and a dull rose color blending in an exquisite harmony.

The textiles for the most part are extremely fresh and vivid in color. Especially interesting is an old English coverlet embroidered in applique of silk velvet and needlework, in panels of animals, birds, and human figures. A hanging of black and gold thread brocade, with a design of Sanskrit inscription woven, of Tibetan work, is also an extremely effective and dignified piece, attractive in its richness of effect gained by stern economy of color. The exhibition will continue until April 21.

Rural Subjects.

An engaging little exhibition at the Snedecor Galleries of paintings by Fletcher C. Ransom reminds us that the season approaches when every man of country origin wants to go fishing. The subjects are drawn from rural life and are treated as illustration, but the painter knows his old farm region, and shows in various inconspicuous details a familiarity with the quaint irregularities of ungroomed dooryards that will appeal to those who also know. "The First Grandchild" is excessively sentimental in the matter of human tableau, but if we disregard the figures, how just is the notation of sunlight falling across the flat top of the privet hedge, and bathing the old white house in the background with a mild radiance. The exhibition is open until April 11.

The Brooklyn Museum has hung as a loan the painting of a "Farm House in Winter" by Bolton Brown, which was purchased by Mrs. E. G. Warner from the collection of Mr. Brown's work recently sold at the Pratt Institute. This picture is one of the subtlest and most successful applications of the painter's theory of color relations.

Asphyxiated, Jets Burning.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Correspondents of THE TIMES who doubt that persons can be asphyxiated in an apartment where gas jets are burning share a common and dangerous misapprehension as to the gaseous products of combustion of gas, oil, or any fuel. Many persons fail to realize that these products, whether accompanied by smoke and offensive odor or not, are almost as dangerous as coal gas itself; in fact when irritating fumes or bad odors which serve as a warning are absent they should be regarded as more dreadfully insidious. The more important poisonous gases are odorless. Practically it is safe to assume that poisonous gases are evolved in proportion to the amount of heat generated, and they should not be allowed to accumulate in the room. A warning to this effect should be attached to gas, oil, and coke or briquette stoves which are recommended for use in rooms having no chimney connection, because they give no odor or smoke. The atmosphere of a closed room may easily in this way be rendered incapable of sustaining life without extinguishing fire. CHEMIST.

BERMUDA SEASON'S CLIMAX IS PASSED

Every Steamer for New York Is Crowded with Americans Homeward Bound for Easter.

MANY MOONLIGHT PARTIES

Mrs. Charles Spalding of Chicago Takes Guests in Motor Boat to Supper and Dance on Isle of White.

Special Correspondence THE NEW YORK TIMES

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 1.—Though Bermuda is by no means depopulated of American visitors, there is no doubt that the climax of the 1912 season has been passed, and every steamer now leaving for New York is packed to its capacity with well-tanned Americans who desire to reach New York or their homes in other cities for Easter Sunday. To counterbalance this exodus, however, the incoming steamers are arriving about two-thirds filled, and without doubt the new arrivals have the advantage of seeing Bermuda under the most favorable conditions, for April and May are the best months, climatically, of the year.

Moonlight parties have been in vogue the last week, the young people appreciating that no stage setting could be more perfect than the waters of Hamilton and Grassy Bay when the moon is full. One of the largest of these many excursions was a motor boat party, followed by a supper and dance in the Casino on the Isle of White, given by Mrs. Charles Spalding of Chicago Friday last. The guests included Mrs. J. Hill Whiting, Mrs. W. W. Gurley, Mrs. John S. Miller, Miss Jeannette Miller, Mrs. Helen K. Gurley, Miss Jean Whiting, Miss Bertrand Spalding, Mr. Knowles, and Mr. King, all of Chicago; Miss Helen Lippincott and Miss Cresswell of Philadelphia; Miss Beardsley of Utica, George H. Angell and E. L. Ford of Detroit, Joseph Fletcher of Providence, Kenneth Trimingham and Eldon Trimingham of Bermuda, and Allan Hulbert of Pittsfield.

The steam yacht North Star, belonging to Cornelius Vanderbilt, reached Bermuda from England last week to await the arrival a few days later of her owner. Mr. Vanderbilt arrived from New York on Friday on the Bermudian with a party consisting of Newberry D. Thorne, Eugene L. Robinson, James A. Burden, Jr., Thomas A. Keck, and Dr. Brown, all members of the New York Yacht Club, who were to be his guests on a trip to Panama via St. Kitts and St. Thomas, returning to the States via New Orleans, where Mr. Vanderbilt's private car will take them North. The North Star weighed anchor Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Badeau, widow of the late Gen. Adam Badeau, who was on Gen. Grant's staff in the civil war, gave a large reception at the Hamilton on Tuesday afternoon. After refreshments music was furnished by Miss Julia Manierre of Chicago, who rendered several attractive vocal selections, assisted by the pianist and violinist of French's orchestra. Many Americans and Bermudians were present, among them being the American Consul and Mrs. Greene, the American Vice Consul and Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett and her sister, Mrs. Jordan; Mr. and Mrs. William McClure and Mme. Von Brandes of New York, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Vail of Morristown, Dr. and Mrs. Caspar Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roberts, Mrs. Wreath, Mr. and Mrs. d'Invillers and Miss d'Invillers, all of Philadelphia; Mrs. Jones and Miss Mary Jones of Hudson, N. Y.; Miss Olney of Rome, Miss Harriet Van Dolsen of Paris, Mrs. S. S. Ingham, Mrs. C. V. Ingham, Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Middleton, the Misses Middleton, Mrs. Nina Abbott, Miss Muriel Abbott, Mrs. James Tucker, and the Misses Tucker, all of Bermuda.

Miss Dorothy McAlpin and her cousin, Miss Gladys McAlpin of New York, were hostesses at a tea given at the Little Green Door on Friday afternoon. Among those present were Miss Mildred Poor, Miss Norma Bidwell, E. S. Van Tassel, and Harry Young of New York, Miss Ruby Sewall of Kansas City, Miss Bertrand Spalding, Mr. Knowles, and J. A. King of Chicago, E. L. Ford of Detroit, and Joseph Fletcher of Providence. On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Alvin E. Bliss of Boston gave a large lawn party at the Belmont for Miss Ella H. Clement of Ocean Grove, N. J.

There were a number of dinners at the Princess on Thursday last preceding the weekly ball at that hotel. Lieut. Col. A. M. Smith of Toronto gave a dinner of twenty covers in the grill, the guests including Major and Mrs. Bottomley, Mr. and Mrs. Heath, Capt. and Mrs. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Pearson, Mrs. J. H. Whiting, Miss Butt, Miss Kissel, Miss Black, Miss Spalding, Miss Whiting, Mr. Ford, Mr. Hulbert, and Mr. Wood. Major and Mrs. Atkinson of Bermuda entertained at a dinner of twelve covers, the guests being Capt. and Mrs. Nugent, Capt. and Mrs. Kenrick, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Denny, Alexander Tucker, Miss Tucker, Lieut. Col. Hall, and T. S. Bradlee. Other dinners included those of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Trott of Bermuda, who entertained a party of twelve, Oren Root of New York who had a dinner of six covers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells of Brewsters, N. Y., who also entertained for six, and Mr. and Mrs. Joel Rathborn of New York who had a party of five.

On Saturday night there was a musical in the ballroom of the Belmont, followed by a dance. The large lawn was attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns. On account of a severe squall which struck the island about sunset on Monday last it was necessary to give up the Military Band concert on the terrace of the Hamilton. An informal dance was held in the ballroom, however, on this evening in addition to the regular Tuesday and Saturday night hops.

J. H. Stark of Boston gave two coaching parties last week in the tally-ho Trix, on one occasion the drive being made to St. George's and return, and on the other to Somerset and his Majesty's dockyard on Ireland Island.

Mrs. Lorillard Spencer of Newport arrived on the Arcadian Monday, and will stay while in Bermuda at the Belmont in Warwick.

Recent arrivals from New York at the Hamilton include Mrs. E. L. Mackenzie, Miss Julia Mackenzie, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bradley, F. S. McDonald, Mrs. M. Paris, Miss Loretta Paris, Mrs. M. Mayell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meany, Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Swope, Miss Helen Bond, Dr. E. A. Spilsbury, Mrs. Robert T. Hare Powell, Robert T. Hare Powell, Jr., Charles La Tour, Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Vleck, Jr., and family of Montclair, D. S. Alpaugh and Miss Bessie Alpaugh of Plainfield, Miss Jane Bradley, who is with Miss Frances Merchant of Scarsdale, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Keep and Miss Katharine Keep of Lockport, N. Y.

Among the late arrivals at the Princess from New York are Mrs. C. Ledyard Blair and the Misses Blair, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Jeffares, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Browning, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Outerbridge, Mrs. Richard M. Hurd, Miss Mary Hurd, Miss Eleanor Hurd, Robert L. Stillson, Jr., Mrs. R. H. Nicholls, Miss R. O. Nicholls, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Hanam, P. L. Willis, D. L. McCoy, F. B. Canfield 3d, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rathbone, Miss Rathbone, Miss Anna T. Rathbone, Miss Anderson, Mrs. Franklin Farrel, Miss L. E. Farrel, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Farrel, Jr., of Ansonia, Conn.; Prof. and Mrs. L. V. Pirsson and Mrs. E. T. McLaughlin of New Haven.

Arriving on the Arcadian are the following guests at the Belmont: Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Imbrie, Miss I. Imbrie, Mrs. Ambrose Packard, all of Englewood, N. J.

BRINGING MISS NICOLL HERE.

Daughter of De Lancey Nicoll to be Removed in a Private Car.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., April 5.—Miss Josephine Nicoll, daughter of De Lancey Nicoll, who has been seriously ill for more than two months at the St. James Hotel, will be removed to New York to-morrow in the private car of Samuel B. Rea, First Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Though much improved, Miss Nicoll is still far from being well. Her heart action is said to be imperfect, and the greatest care will have to be exercised in removing her. Mrs. Nicoll said to-day: "I have made arrangements to have my daughter take a long rest up the Hudson. She will go there about May 1 and will remain until July 1. After that, if her condition is not improved, I shall take her to Europe."

LAURETTE TAYLOR IN HIDING.

Actress Leaves "Bird of Paradise" After Receiving Threatening Letters.

Laurette Taylor, who has been playing the leading role of Luana in "The Bird of Paradise" at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, has been frightened into leaving the company and disappearing from her managers and most of her friends. Several weeks ago Miss Taylor received a letter at the theatre that threatened her with death by an infernal machine. On the same day another prominent actor and several men in professional life received similar letters. Miss Taylor became disturbed. The matter was reported to the police and detectives were put on the case.

A few days later a second letter was received. This one, in addition to threatening her life, demanded money. Several detectives were placed in the audience, and one of them accompanied Miss Taylor from the theatre to her apartments at 127 West 56th Street after each performance.

Last Monday night a third letter was received. According to Ed Giroux, of her management, it was found under the door of her apartments and proved the last straw. She finished out the performance Monday night. Tuesday night she did not appear at the theatre and her understudy, Blanche Hall, played the role of Luana. Since then Miss Taylor's whereabouts have been unknown to her managers.

PLAY CENSOR IS COMING.

H. C. Brookfield Will See His Play, "Dear Old Charlie," Acted Here.

H. C. Brookfield, the English play censor, is to come to New York this Spring to look into theatrical conditions here and incidentally to see how New York accepts his play, "Dear Old Charlie," that Charles Hawtrey will be playing at Maxine Elliott's Theatre at that time. On the occasion of Mr. Brokfield's appointment as play censor last Winter there was considerable discussion in London as to what he would have done with his own play had he held the position when it was produced.

Mr. Brookfield will remain in America only two weeks and will spend all of the time in New York.

"Parsifal" Again on Good Friday.

What might almost be called, so frequently has it occurred, the annual Good Friday performance of "Parsifal" took place yesterday at the Metropolitan Opera House before one of the largest audiences which this music drama has yet drawn there. The cast included Mme. Fremstad, Messrs. Jörn, Amato, Hinshaw, Witherspoon, and Goritz. The solo flower maidens were Mmes. Sparkes, Van Dyck, Alten, Fornia, Mattfeld, and Wakefield. Mme. Wickham was the voice in the temple scene. All of these singers had appeared in previous performances of "Parsifal" at this theatre, so that comment is not necessary. Mr. Hertz conducted.

Young Davidsons in 'If I Were King.'

At the Hebrew Technical School for Girls, Fifteenth Street and Second Avenue, on Saturday night, April 13, "If I were King," a four-act romantic drama, from Justin H. McCarthy's novel of the same name, will be presented. The production will be given by the Young Davidsons of the Thomas Davidson Society, the cast consisting of amateurs.

Actors' Fund Benefits in Other Cities.

Daniel Frohman, President of the Actors' Fund of America, will leave for Chicago Sunday to organize there a benefit performance for the fund, to be given at the Auditorium Theatre on April 19. He will then go to Boston to take charge of the benefit that is to be given at the Boston Theatre on April 25. Another benefit for the fund will be held in Philadelphia early in May.

PEARY SURE SCOTT'S PARTY GOT TO POLE

He Outlines New Problems That Must Be Solved in Antarctic and Arctic, Too.

HE RECEIVES A MEDAL

South Pole Attainment Celebration Held on Eve of Third Anniversary of His Own Discovery.

Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary and his two "boys," George Borup and Donald B. MacMillan, who are now going to turn their north pole experience with him to account by making the Crocker Land expedition for the American Museum of Natural History and other geographical societies this Summer, divided the honors last night at a big south pole attainment celebration in the Natural History Museum at West Seventy-seventh Street and Central Park West.

To-day is the third anniversary of Peary's north pole discovery, and this event was also celebrated at last night's meeting, a medal being presented to Admiral Peary by Zenas Crane and Herbert Bridgman from the Peary Arctic Club.

Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of the Museum, presided at the meeting, and, in addition to speeches by Admiral Peary and Borup and MacMillan, there were addresses in which the courage and determination of both the veteran and the two young explorers were highly praised by Vice President John Greenough of the American Geographical Society, James E. Gore of the National Geographic Society, and Henry G. Bryant of the Geographical Society of Philadelphia.

Mr. Osborn briefly described recent polar expeditions and the Museum's part in them. He was followed by Admiral Peary, who told the big audience that there was no doubt in his mind that the south pole had been doubly attained.

"Amundsen's journey has shown what was practically known before from Shackleton's expedition, that the south pole is located in a great elevated snow plateau about 11,000 feet above the sea level," Admiral Peary said. "Amundsen's determination of the head of the Ross Sea ice barrier is of interest in connection with the theory of some geographers that Antarctica was divided into two principal masses, separated by a trough filled with barrier ice, extending from Ross Sea to Weddell Sea. Amundsen's journey appears to negative this theory.

"Amundsen's journey also demonstrated conclusively, as have recent journeys in the north polar regions, that the Eskimo dog is the one and only motive power for polar expeditions.

"Amundsen's speeds are interesting. His outward average was fifteen and a half miles a march. His return average was more than twenty-two miles. He speaks of covering fifty kilometers, (a little more than thirty-one miles), in a single march.

"All five of the recent antarctic expeditions have one feature in common, namely, that the ship lands the main expeditionary party at its base on the antarctic continent, returning the same season to some northern port to Winter, and then going out the next season to pick up the party, rather than have the ship remain frozen in at the base throughout the year.

"The contrast between fundamental physical conditions at the north pole and the south pole is most striking. The north pole is located in a deep polar sea basin. The south pole is located in a great elevated snow plateau of unusual altitude.

"From this striking contrast in physical conditions arises and results the great advantage which south polar exploration has over north polar, namely, that it can be carried on over a permanent fixed surface remaining the same from year to year, instead of over the treacherous and unstable surface of an ice-covered ocean.

"Up to the present time, with the exception of the Ross Sea route developed by the British dirctly south from New Zealand, no work has been done in the antarctic by a powerful steamer fitted for ice work. There are still more attractive possibilities for a ship of the Roosevelt class in Weddell Sea, in the bight between Kaiser Wilhelm II. Land and Kemp Land, between the meridians of 60 and 85 degrees east longitude, and between King Edward VII. Land and Alexander I. Land, between 80 and 140 degrees west longitude.

"With the attainment of the south pole effected, there remains now to be accomplished in the antarctic regions another traverse from the opposite side of Antarctica to the pole, which, with the journeys of Amundsen and Scott, will give us a continuous traverse section of the antarctic continent, and then the filling in of the remaining unknown interior and circumference of that great region. The German expedition under Lieut. Filchner and the Australian expedition under Dr. Mawson may be counted upon to make extensive inroads upon this terra incognita.

"But there will still be ample room and work left for an antarctic expedition from the United States, which I earnestly hope may materialize as a matter of National duty, privilege, prestige, and morale.

"Turning to the north polar regions with the attainment of the pole effected, there remain two very interesting problems to be solved, namely the exploration of Crocker Land and the penetration of that remaining large unknown area lying between the north pole and Bering Strait, and, second, the crossing of Greenland at its widest part near the seventy-eighth parallel from Whale Sound to Cape Bismarck.

"As I think of the possibilities of the first, I can hardly restrain my enthusiasm.

"As for the second, the crossing of Greenland at its widest part, it may interest you to know that this journey, as regards distance, character of surface, altitude that is practically certain to be attained, temperature, season in which the work will be done, will be nearly or quite a precise duplicate of Amundsen's journey from Bay of Whales to the south pole.

"To be more explicit, the distance from Etah to the east coast of Greeland is the same as from the Bay of Whales to the south pole. The altitude of the Greenland inland ice cap in this latitude will undoubtedly be as much as 11,000 feet, and perhaps more. The journey will be undertaken in the arctic Spring and Summer, as Amundsen's was in the antarctic Spring and Summer; the character of the surface and the meteorological conditions will be identical."

George Borup, describing the Crocker Land expedition, which he and MacMillan are going to make, told the audience that he and his fellow-explorer intended to reach Sydney about the middle of July next Summer and would start north by way of Cape Thomas Hubbard and Crocker Land.

"We shall send our ship home, and we may separate from each other," said Borup. "We will collect specimens and fossils and go as far north as we can. Our ship will return for us after two years."

The medal which was presented to Admiral Peary is a five-pointed star of sections made from the great Ahnighito meteorite which the Admiral in 1897 brought from its resting place near Cape York. It was set in gold and was inscribed with the dates of the five achievements which Peary has accomplished with the Peary Arctic Club's help.

NEIGHBORS TO WED.

Lieut. Col. Cheever and Mrs. Kelly Were Divorced by the Same Judge.

Divorced by the same Judge in Leavenworth, Kan., last year, Lieut. Col. Benjamin H. Cheever, U. S. A., retired, of 14 Morningside Avenue, and Mrs. Cora Chapman Kelly, who lives next door to him in No. 16, will be married to-morrow by the Rev. James Kane. Both were at the City Hall yesterday and obtained a marriage license.

Lieut. Col. Cheever gave his age as 55 and Mrs. Kelly's as 44 years. In his application he stated that he was divorced by Elizabeth M. Cheever in Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 13, 1911, by Judge Wendoff. The plaintiff was awarded the family homestead, three life insurance policies, horses, carriages, and $110 monthly.

Mrs. Kelly gave her father's name as Wilson C. Chapman, and noted in her application that she had obtained a divorce from Eugene A. Kelly in Leavenworth, Kan., May 9, 1911, also before Judge Wendoff. The plaintiff received a settlement of $10,000.

Lieut. Col. Cheever's army record shows that he was appointed from the District of Columbia, his birthplace. He was made a Second Lieutenant, assigned to the Sixth Cavalry Aug. 15, 1876, and was awarded a medal of honor for conspicuous merit in the Indian war of 1891.

R. C. OGDEN RE-ELECTED.

Again Made President of the Southern Educational Conference.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 5.—Robert C. Ogden of New York was re-elected President of the Southern Educational Conference to-night. Walter H. Page of New York was elected Vice President to succeed Wickliffe Rose of Washington.

William A. Blair was re-elected Treasurer. P. H. Claxton, Executive Secretary, resigned because of his many duties as United States Commissioner of Education, and the Executive Committee was authorized to select a successor whose name will not be announced for several weeks.

Among the speakers on the programme to-night were W. D. Weatherford of the National Committee of the Y. M. C. A. and Lawrence Abbott and Dr. Oswald Garrison Villard of New York, all of whom spoke on "The Education of the Negro in the South."

DINE WELLINGTON KOO.

His Fellow-Students at Columbia Bid Him Farewell.

Vi-Kynin Wellington Koo, the Columbia student, who leaves for China to-day to become the secretary of President Yuan Shi-Kai, was the guest of his fellow-students at a farewell dinner at the Columbia Club last night. Behind Mr. Koo's chair hung the war flag of China, and the table decorations were small silk flags of the republic, with the light blue and white of Columbia running through the centre.

Prof. Hirtle of the Department of Chinese at Columbia, and Mr. Koo were the principal speakers. After telling how much he thought of Americans in general and of Columbia men in particular, Mr. Koo ended his remarks by extending to his fellow-Columbia students an invitation to call upon him in Peking, assuring them of a royal welcome. Mr. Koo will sail to-day for England by the President Grant. From London he will travel direct to Peking by way of St. Petersburg and Siberia.

AS A MAN IS, SAYS VAUGHAN,

Not What He Has or Does, Counts with God.

Father Bernard Vaughan, the English Jesuit, who has been delivering a series of conferences during Lent at St. Patrick's Cathedral, preached yesterday at the devotions of "The Three Hours of the Passion" in the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola, in Park Avenue, at Eighty-fourth Street. In closing his sermon he said:

"Have the pluck to put in a good word for God. Be childlike in your love for God's ever blessed mother. Even should you feel all is lost, yet put your trust in God. Create in your soul a growing thirst for God.

"Before God man is not what he has or what he does, but what he is. Learn now that what to be and soon you will learn what to do, and why and how to do it.

TO HOLD CELTIC FEIS.

Gaelic Society's Annual Song Night at Carnegie Hall To-morrow Evening.

The Gaelic Society of this city will hold its thirty-fourth Feis at Carnegie Hall to-morrow night at 8 o'clock. A Feis is a musical convention, and was first established in Ireland and Wales centuries ago. At these conventions, or Feisanna, harpers, pipers, poets and singers competed, and prizes were given, and by this means the genius of the individual was for the first time brought to the public attention.

The Gaelic Society has arranged a programme exclusively of Irish music. The Irish musical instruments will be employed and the songs will be rendered in the native Irish.

Hoffmann-Runk Wedding on Monday

The wedding of Miss Isabella B. Runk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Runk of 10 West Seventy-seventh Street, to William J. Hoffmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffmann of 25 West Eighty-first Street, will take place on Monday at 6 o'clock in St. James's Lutheran Church, the Rev. Dr. J. B. Remensnyder officiating. The church ceremony will be followed by a dinner at the Hotel Savoy, to which the relatives and intimate friends have been invited.

NO MORE CONGESTION IN SUPREME COURT

Justices Have Stopped Unwarranted Delays and Cases Are Put on Trial Promptly.

NEW SYSTEM GOES IN FORCE

Under It Opposing Lawyers May Stipulate Dates for Trial and Confusion on Call Calendar Days Will End.

The calendars of Special Terms, Parts III., IV., V., VI., and VIII., have not been as clear since the consolidation of the courts of New York County in 1896 as they are to-day, according to the report made yesterday by Special Deputy Clerk James B. F. Smith. Mr. Smith declared that the new system of handling the call calendar which goes into effect immediately will still further hasten the distribution of cases.

By the new system the call calendar in Special Term will continue to be the clearing house for the assignment of cases to trial, and the Justices presiding there will still be able to sift the reasons for the delay of causes and peremptorily order them to trial when the delays are not justified. The new system, on the other hand, will enable counsel by stipulation to agree upon dates for trial. It will also provide that lawyers who for any reason desire delay may present affidavits in advance of the call of the calendar to Mr. Smith, the clerk, for the consideration of the Justices. This will do away with the necessity of the jostling crowds in court rooms on call calendar days, to which members of the bar have taken great exception. The division of the calendar into morning and afternoon cases will also help to diminish congestion.

Mr. Smith's report shows that in the March term 323 cases were presented to Justice Page, who heard 29 contested trials and gave judgment in 27 of them, took testimony in 37 uncontested matrimonial cases, settled 55 general calendar cases, disposed of 17 settled and abated cases, and heard arguments on 16 demurrers. He heard 134 motions in addition to passing on 1,825 cases on the call calendar in the twenty days of his term. In the March term 233 new issues were added to the Special Term calendar, which contained 1,188 causes at the opening of the term; 274 of these were disposed of by trial or otherwise, leaving 914 cases awaiting trial at the opening of the April term. Of these 505 were marked ready for trial in April.

In Part IV. of Special Term Justice Delany in twenty days heard 10 contested cases and disposed of 33 cases from the call calendar, and in Part V. Justice Gerard in the same number of days had 20 trials, 19 undefended matrimonial cases, 2 cases settled on the general calendar, and 60 cases called. In Part VI. Justice Pendleton sat fifteen days, hearing 11 trials, dismissing 1 complaint, and having 2 cases settled, besides calling 80 other cases on the calendar. In Part VIII. Justice Brady sat twenty days, heard 20 contested trials, 8 undefended matrimonial cases, dismissed 1 complaint, and settled 2 cases.

The last issue reached on the regular call of the calendar was joined Jan. 5 and tried March 28 before Justice Delany.

TRAMP RIDES ON VELVET.

Wins Parlor Car Journey by Giving Timely Fire Alarm.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 5.—Joseph Foley of New York, whom ill-luck had made a tramp, saw flames burst through the roof of a building in Oak Park to-day as he was riding by in a box car. He jumped off the train in time to give an alarm that probably saved the lives of a number of girls. For his reward he received a railroad ticket to St. Louis, where his mother is dying, and enough money to help him when he arrives in that city.

Incidentally Foley discovered after the fire was out that the train he thought was carrying him South was really carrying him to Omaha. If he had not jumped off the train to give the fire alarm he would have been taken 500 miles out of his way. The building was that of the Morton & Morton Millinery Company, and the girls employed there were unaware of their danger.

An insurance adjuster reached the building as the firemen were leaving, and Foley was pointed out as the man who had given the alarm.

Foley told his story, and when he came to the part aout his mother the insurance man went down into his pocket and produced a roll of bills. He slipped off a few and handed them to the hobo.

"Now," he said, "come along with me and I'll see that you ride to St. Louis on velvet and eat your meals in the dining car."

HUNT FOR SEA ELEPHANTS.

Government Is Asked for Permission to Stop Slaughter.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 5.—Capt. Bartholdt of the Revenue Cutter Service wired Washington to-day for authority to stop the power schooner Flyer, owned by C. B. Linton, which has sailed on the first leg of a cruise which has for its purpose the capture of the only herd of sea elephants known to be in existence. There are ten sea elephants in the band. They have a value of about $5,000 each and rendezvous on an island believed to be about 300 miles south of San Diego.

The existence of the sea elephants was discovered by a party of scientists representing the New York Zoological Society last year. At that time two of the sea elephants were killed and five captured alive. These five were brought to San Diego, carefully crated, and shiped to the New York Zoo. The Government scientists in the New York party would not give any information as to the island where the remaining ten sea elephants of the herd were left, but it is said on good authority that Capt. Linton and his party have since obtained this information.

Meredith Howland.

Meredith Howland, son of the late Gardiner G. Howland of New York, died on Thursday at Cannes, France. He was born in 1833 and married Adelaide Torrance, a granddaughter of Commodore Vanderbilt. His brother, Gardiner G. Howland, 2d, was for many years the manager of The New York Herald. The first of the name was a wealthy merchant of New York, and descended from a wealthy New England family.

Chief Crazy Snake Dies in Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 5.—Crazy Snake, the Indian responsible for the last uprising in Oklahoma, died to-day, according to a report received from Vinita. The old chief's end came near Old Hickory, the stamping ground of the Creeks in 1908. The Indian had always contended that his tribe was robbed of its land by the whites.

WILLIAM DICK DEAD AT 89.

Sugar Refinery Pioneer Left Fortune Estimated at $30,000,000.

William Dick, one of the largest stockholders of the American Sugar Refining Company, died yesterday at the age of 89 years, at his residence, 156 South Ninth Street, Williamsburg. He retired from business five years ago, and had been failing rapidly for several months.

Mr. Dick came to this country when he was twenty-two years old from Hanover, Germany. He was an orphan and almost penniless. Saving the money he earned working as a grocery clerk, he was able in a few years to set up in business for himself in a small grocery store on Cherry Hill. In 1858 he started a small sugar refinery with Louis Eintjen at Pike and Cherry Streets. In 1895 the firm of Dick & Meyer was formed and a larger refinery built at the foot of South Seventh Street, Williamsburg. This was the first one of the group which afterward made up the Sugar Trust. It remained for several years the largest sugar refinery in the world. The firm of Dick & Meyer continued till Mr. Dick decided to retire from active business life. Then he sold out to the American Sugar Refinery Company, receiving payment in stock of that concern.

Mr. Dick was until 1907 President of the Manufacturers' National Bank. He was also Vice President of the Nassau Trust Companay and a Trustee of the German Savings Institution. His fortune is estimated at $30,000,000. Upon his retirement from business he devoted much of his time to philanthropic work, especially interesting himself in hospitals.

Mr. Dck leaves a son, J. Henry Dick, Vice President of the Manufacturers' National Bank, whose daughter, Doris A. Dick, was married to Henry Havemeyer two years ago.

SENATOR TAYLOR BURIED.

Thousands of Tennesseans Hear Funeral Oration in Knoxville.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 5.—The people of Tennessee buried their "Fiddlin' Bob" (Senator Robert Love Taylor) in Old Gray Cemetery here to-day. This morning his body was brought here from Nashville, and at 11 o'clock thousands of Tennesseans gathered in the city's auditorium for the funeral services.

The Rev. Dr. W. S. Neighbors, President of Sullin's College, at Bristol, a lifelong friend of the Senator, delivered the funeral oration.

Business was suspended in Knoxville during the ceremonies. Hundreds of persons made long drives over the East Tennessee mountains in all sorts of conveyances to come here for the funeral.

This afternoon the Congressional delegation returned to Washington.

France X. Monnier, Sculptor, Dead.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich, April 5.—France X. Monnier, the sculptor who came to America just prior to the civil war to decorate the interior of the Commodore Vanderbilt mansion, is dead here, aged eighty-one years. He had been a resident of Detroit for over half a century. Mr. Monnier was born in Belfort, France. He spent a year and a half on the sculptural decorations and carvings in the Vanderbilt house and then returned to France and married. He first saw Michigan on his wedding trip and stayed here.

SHOWS GREAT LOSSES IN SUBWAY PROPOSAL

City Club Makes It Appear Enough Passengers Can't Be Carried to Meet Fixed Charges.

CITY DEFICIT $425,281,851

That Is, if Debt Is Funded Until 1964, but the Best Figures Make City Loss $62,008,220.

Serious objections to the possible financial outcome of the proposed dual subway system have been raised by the City Club in detailed memoranda it has sent to the Board of Estimate. It has analyzed the proposal and has arrived at figures to maintain these conclusions:

1. In order to make sufficient money to pay the interest and sinking fund on the city's investment in the new lines the Interborough system will have to carry a more congested trunk traffic than it does to-day.

2. The effect of the third tracking of the elevated railways and the construction of the B. R. T.'s Broadway line will be that in its first year the enlarged Interborough system will carry only about 75 per cent. of the traffic on which the city and company have been reckoning.

3. The city will have to face annual deficits in the operation of the new system which will amount in 1964, the end of the period of the new lease, to more than $60,000,000. The Interborough will also have to face deficits up to 1923, which will then amount to $26,714,625, but this will be finally extinguished by the profits of the company in 1934, provided that it does not fund its debt.

If it does so, the subway will never earn enough to pay the interest on the bonds issued to meet this deficiency, and the city at the end of the lease will have to pay them off at the estimated cost of $86,000,000. If the city, on its part, funds its deficits at 4½ per cent., it will have in 1964 paid out for them no less than $339,062,273, and this, added to the payment of the funded deficits of the Interborough, would bring the cost of the new subway up to $425,281,851.

4. The leveling of the Interborough's leases will result in the company receiving from $35,000,000 to $49,000,000 more from the Subway than it would do if the present leases were left unaltered.

The present Subway, the City Club estimates, has two feeder lines, that is, the northern ends of both the Broadway and the Bronx lines. These contain 23.7 per cent. of the trackage of the entire system, but carry only 15.2 per cent. of the passengers. So the trunk portion of the present Subway must carry 84.8 per cent. of the traffic.

But of the new system 58.04 per cent. must be considered feeder lines, and if they carry the same proportion of the traffic as the present feeders do, they can take care of in a year 221,256,272 passengers. This would leave to the trunk lines, in order to bring the total number of fares up to a paying point, 497,505,206 passengers. But this means carrying over every mile of the trunk lines each year 5,158,167 passengers, whereas at the present time they only carry 1,323,479 passengers, and they consider that pasengers are jammed in tightly enough.

To make things worse, the City Club adds that these calculations are based on the supposition that the outlying districts, now to be supplied with subways and elevated railroads, have as dense a population as those outlying districts now reachable by the Subway. But it will certainly be a number of years before the population is really so dense, and it must also be reckoned that it is impossible to carry more passengers on the trunk lines than at present. So the club declares a deficit is inevitable.

Takes a Gloomy Look Ahead.

The city, the club contends, has made two important errors in its calculations. It overestimated the probable first year's traffic and it has gone on the assumption that the enlarged subway can carry at its fullest congestion 820,000,000 passengers a year.

Such a number as 820,000,000 passengers the club admits would not mean for a system of 206 miles any greater congestion than that which exists to-day. But, as a large proportion of these 206 miles are feeder lines, it would imply a traffic per mile on the trunk lines of 6,000,000 passengers a year, which it would be impossible physically to carry.

The saturation point of the trunk lines the club places at 712,000,000 a year, and this, according to its calculation in its second memorandum, will not be reached till 1926. Even this will mean that the city has in 1926 an annual deficit of $182,300, and in the years before that it will be very much greater. On the other hand, the first year in which the company comes out ahead is 1924, and if it begins to pay off its accrued deficits out of its annual profits its deficit will be liquidated in 1934.

At the end of the lease in 1964 the city's accumulated deficit will amount to $62,008,220, always provided that neither it nor the company fund their deficits and pay interest thereon. Supposing the company did, as it apparently can, according to the proposed agreement, its deficit in 1934, instead of being paid off, will amount to $22,020,629. But the system, it is figured, can never earn enough money to pay interest on that, and by the conclusion of the lease the deficit and accrued interest will amount to $86,219,578, which the city must pay in addition to its own deficit of $62,008,220.

The club admits that probably the city would meet its own annual deficits by taxation, but it suggests that it might decide to fund them at 4½ per cent., and this would mean that in 1964 the citizens would have paid for such deficits $339,062,273, which added to the funded deficit of the company would amount to $425,281,851.

Levelling Leases a Loss to City.

The last matter taken up by the City Club is the real meaning of the levelling of the leases of the present Subway. Contract 1 for all the present Subway north of Ann Street expires in 1954, and has, therefore, forty-two years to run, but has a right of twenty-five years' renewal. Contract 2 for all south of Ann Street expires in 1943, and has, therefore, thirty-one years to run, but also has a right of renewal of twenty-five years.

The proposal to level these leases so that they should both end simultaneously in forty-nine years from the opening of the new subway puts off the date on which the city can exact from the Interborough a new arrangement in the case of Contract 1 eleven years, and of Contract 2 twenty-two years.

During this forty-nine years it is proposed that the company shall receive from the city annually $6,335,000. The City Club reckons that, according to the figures for last year's operation of Contracts 1 and 2, the company made a net profit of $6,050,000, of which $4,573,500 should be allowed to the line under Contract 1 and $1,761,500 to the line under Contract 2.

It is reasonable to suppose, the club goes on, that under the present contracts when the periods of renewal come around the city would refuse to permit the Interborough to make more than 6 per cent. on its actual investment in the subway. This on an investment of $36,000,000 in Contract 1 would mean $2,160,000, and on an investment of $12,000,000 in Contract 2 would mean $720,000. Now, the difference in favor of the company between these amounts and those which would be paid by the city under the proposed new contract would be in case of Contract 1 $2,413,000, and in the case of Contract 2 $1,041,000.

The company will get the advantage of this generosity in the case of Contract 1 for eleven years, and will thus receive a bonus of $26,548,000, and in the case of Contract 2 for twenty-two years, and this will amount to a bonus of $22,913,000, which together amount to $49,461,500.

The City Club then estimates the present value of this sum and states that it amounts at the present time to $7,500,000 at 4¼ per cent., and it asks whether this seems to be a reasonable price for the city to pay for levelling of the leases. In considering the answer to this question it reminds the Board of Estimate that Contract 2, for the line from Ann Street to Brooklyn, expires eleven years before Contract 1, for the northern end of the line. This is by far the more valuable portion of the Subway, and it could be easily connected with the proposed new subway line near the Post Office or the proposed Nassau Street line.

The club admits that it is a good thing to get rid of the renewal period and to have both leases expire at the same time, but it suggests that these advantages may be costly at a price amounting to $49,000,000.

ROOSEVELT TRAIN IN DANGER.

Engineer Stops on Seeing Unsafe Track Till It Is Repaired.

PITTSBURGH, April 5.—Col. Roosevelt passed through Pittsburgh to-night on his train one hour and a half late on his way to Chicago to throw himself into the fight for the Illinois delegation to the Republican National Convention. He is scheduled to arrive in Chicago at 8:15 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Colonel spent most of the day in preparing the speech which he is to deliver at Springfield, Ill., to-morrow night. This is to be the principal speech of his campaign in Illinois, the result of which, it is expected, will have a material bearing upon the outcome of the campaign.

Only one speech of any length was on Col. Roosevelt's programme to-day. It was at Martinsburg, West Va., where the Colonel arrived at noon from Parkersburg, West Va. A large crowd in the public square heard the former President's appeal for support at the County Convention to be held to-morrow in Martinsburg. In the run from Parkersburg the train was held up for two hours by an accident to a train ahead which had made the track unsafe. The engineer of the train to which the Roosevelt car was attached observed the condition of the track and held the train until temporary repairs were made.

It was Col. Roosevelt's intention to rest as much as possible to-day and make no speeches from the train, but at a few points the crowds at the station were so insistent that he spoke for a few minutes. His first speech of this nature was at Keyser, West Va. At Cumberland, Md., he made a speech on the way to Martinsburg, and again, a few hours later, when he passed through on the return trip. At Connellsville, Penn., McKeesport, and Braddock large crowds were waiting for him.

"You don't help people to get forward and up through the professional politicians," he said at Connellsville. "What the professional politician is concerned with is holding his job. Therefore I want the real rule of the people."

Before reaching Chicago in the morning Col. Roosevelt's private car will be switched from the Baltimore & Ohio tracks to the Illinois Central, and he will enter the city at the Illinois Central Station. Soon after his arrival he is to start out on a special train over the Illinois Central for the swing through Illinois. Speeches have been arranged for to-morrow at Rockford, Freeport, and Springfield, in addition to which the Colonel probably will talk for a few minutes wherever crowds gather at the stations. He is to remain in Springfield over Sunday, and on Monday will speak at Clinton, Decatur, Monticello, Champaign, and Danville.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Col. Roosevelt's return trip through Pennsylvania next week will not include a visit to Reading, Pottsville, Wilkesbarre, and Scranton, because of the labor trouble in the anthracite fields.

Col. Roosevelt will spend next Tuesday in Pittsburgh and will leave there Wednesday morning, going across the State by way of Harrisburg to Philadelphia, where he speaks on Wednesday night. Many train stops will be made through the State.

G. R. Manchester of New York, former Secretary of the New York Republican County Committee, arrived at the Washington Roosevelt headquarters to-day and will permanently assist Senator Dixon in the National campaign work here.

HEYBURN ASSAILS THE PRESS

Only Prints Jests and Sensations About Congress, He Says.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Senator Heyburn of Idaho made a debate on the bill to recodify the printing laws to-day the occasion for an attack upon newspapers. The Senator was pressing an amendment which, however, was not voted upon, to reduce the subscription price of the Congressional Record in an effort to popularize its circulation.

Senator Heyburn asserted that the modern newspaper printed only jests and sensations about Congress, and added that if the people were compelled to depend upon newspapers for their education the Government could not long continue.

"If the Congressional Record should be suppressed," he cried, "Munchausen's record of travels would be mild in comparison with the newspaper accounts of the proceedings of Congress."

The Senator added that newspaper men who made use of courtesies extended by the Senate treated Congress as a joke. He felt confident that under his proposal of a reduced subscription price the Congressional Record would have a circulation of 2,000,000.

LUMBER MEN SEEK A PROMPT VERDICT

Petition President to Publish Findings of Investigation Made by Nagel.

SAY AGITATION HURT TRADE

Secretary Nagel Replies That Report Is Not Complete and He Cannot Decide the Trust Question.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The National Lumber Manufacturers' Association has demanded of President Taft and the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor the publication of the findings of the department in the investigation of the lumber business. The letter reads in part:

> Prices of lumber at the mills advanced during the seven years from 1899 to 1906 about 38 per cent. This corresponded with the advance in other commodities which enter so greatly into the cost of lumber, and in part to the increased values of stumpage.
>
> Prices to the consumer in some sections of the country remote from lumber-producing sections advanced probably in still greater proportion, due in part to the exhaustion of near supplies, making necessary the payment of greatly increased transportation charges.
>
> Notwithstanding these sufficient reasons it is charged, and seems to have been commonly believed, that the increase in prices at the mills was due to the existence of controlling combinations or agreements commonly known as trusts, and that the Lumber Trust was and is an oppressive entity.

The petition then says that responsive to public charges Congress adopted resolutions for an investigation of the lumber business. Attention is particularly called to the fact that the resolutions required that the investigation should be conducted with the particular object of ascertaining the existence of any combination, conspiracy, trust, agreement, or contract in restraint of commerce.

The petition says further that while the effect of these resolutions was injurious to the lumber industry, the investigation was welcomed by lumber producers, and that every assistance to the investigation was given.

"With this active and hearty co-operation of the lumber industry it was felt that the inquiry should produce early results," says the petition. "On the contrary it was not until Feb. 13, 1911, more than four years after the passage of the resolution, that any report whatever was made by the Commissioner of Corporations, who had charge of this investigation under the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor."

The petition closes with an urgent request that the charges against the lumber manufacturers of the United States be as promptly brought to a conclusion as seem likely to be those against lumber dealers who have been brought into court.

Secretary Nagel, in transmitting to the President an answer to the lumber men's complaint, says the report of the Bureau of Corporations was not only important and relevent to the issue involved in the resolutions of Congress, but that the amount of standing timber and the concentration of its ownership were absolutely essential to the discussion of the questions involved. The Secretary says the bureau found a wholly unexpected and a very remarkable degree of concentration of standing timber.

The Secretary says the Bureau of Corporations has, considering the magnitude of the task, supplied necessary facts as rapidly as possible; that it is now carrying on also an investigation into competitive methods, a report on which will be presented as soon as possible.

Secretary Nagel says, in reply to the demand for a verdict, that it would be wholly impracticable for the bureau and entirely out of its jurisdiction to render a verdict on the existence of the so-called Lumber Trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade; that the question is strictly a legal one. Any attempt on the part of the Bureau of Corporations, says the Secretary, to make such a finding of guilty or not guilty, would be an absurdity in itself, and would establish a most embarrassing precedent.

GUGGENHEIMS HEARD BY TAFT

Capitalists Anxious for Legislation to Open Alaska's Resources.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—President Taft gave a hearing late to-day on Alaska and its prospects for development to Senator Guggenheim of Colorado, his brother, Daniel, and experts of the Guggenheim company. Secretary Fisher was present and Vice President Sherman was an interested listener.

The Guggenheims were anxious to know, it was said, what legislation might be expected which would permit the development of Alaska's natural resources. They control the Copper River Railroad, planned to tap the Bering coalfields. For this road there is now practically no traffic, and the opening of the coal district would insure big tonnage. They were reported interested also in Secretary Fisher's plan to build a Government railroad, which would not, however, compete with the Copper River Road.

Neither the President nor Secretary Fisher would predict action by Congress on pending measures, although the President has frequently suggested the need of providing a leasing plan that will allow the opening of the coalfields.

Falcon Joslin of Fairbanks, representing the Alaskan Affairs Committee of the American Mining Congress, spoke before the House Territories Committee today for a bill to authorize the President to build a 1,000-mile railroad in Alaska over any route which would best develop the Territorial resources. The measure calls for a commission headed by an army engineer.

The same committee has a bill providing for a commission to investigate a project for a railroad from Resurrection Bay to the Yukon Valley, and another, indorsed by Secretary Fisher, to give the President discretion to build such a railroad with the equipment and supplies of the Panama Canal work.

SINGLE TAX ATTRACTS ORIENT

Dr. Sen's Advocacy Due to Missionaries, Says Henry George, Jr.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Representative Henry George, Jr., has been in correspondence with reformers in China, and the news that Dr. Sun Yat-Sen had begun an active campaign to institute the single tax in China was no surprise to him.

When Mr. George, who maintains a correspondence with single tax leaders in all parts of the world, was asked what he knew about Dr. Sun's declaration, he replied:

"I have known, by private correspondence for some time, that Dr. Sun had not only read 'Progress and Poverty,' my father's book, but was an ardent believer in its teachings.

"Fortunately for the pressure upon his time, Dr. Sun found a translation of the book that suited him well. It was made by Dr. Macklin, an American missionary, who for years has been carrying the Bible in one hand and 'Progress and Poverty' in the other, preaching the Gospel from the one and equal rights for all of God's children to God's earth out of the other.

"Dr. Sun seized upon this Macklin translation and stimulated its circulation among the thinkers of the Chinese revolution.

"It is a curious fact that in this movement toward the single tax China is following the lead of Japan. Dr. Macklin had a missionary cousin named Garst in Japan. Dr. Garst was as enthusiastic over 'Progress and Poverty' as Macklin, and talked to the young Japanese in and out of the missionary movement.

"One of the men who was directly, or indirectly at least, reached by Garst was Baron Saketani, who, through the Japanese-Russian war and until quite recently was Minister of Finance. Baron Saketani openly advocated the taxation of land values in preference to any other kind of tax for revenue purposes, and introduced a bill in the Japanese Diet with this end in view. The big landlords, together with the big army and the big navy advocates, were too strong for him, however, and before he could initiate this movement he was compelled to give up his portfolio in the Cabinet.

"From the movement initiated in Japan and China larger things will grow in the future. Japan can raise enough revenue from her land alone to meet all the expenses of Government without taxing any improvements, personal property, incomes, or inheritances, and without any tariff excise or other sort of taxation.

"It will be seen, therefore, that the American missionaries carried a great economic idea into the Far East, and while they taught the Gospel they also taught the Oriental peoples how better to get a living.

"It will be a very remarkable thing in the history of the world if the United States of America shall be so slow in her economic progress that China and Japan shall show her the way to economic freedom.

"Dr. Sun has shown an extraordinary understanding of the Chinese revolution in addressing himself to the establishment not only of a people's government, based upon the people's rule, but by going deeper and addressing himself to the business of every Chinaman relative to the question of earning his daily bread. By attempting to lift the load of taxation from the backs of the hundreds of millions of Chinese laborers and concentrating the whole tax burden on the back of landlordism, he is, at one stroke, liberating production and burdening landlordism. He encourages production and discourages land concentration."

DESTROYERS SET A RECORD.

Send Torpedoes to Bull's Eye in Night Target Practice.

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 5.—A new world's record in night torpedo firing was made last night in this harbor by the United States destroyers Trappe and Monaghan. Every torpedo sent from the tubes of these vessels struck the bull's-eye.

The entire group of five vessels made an average of 70 per cent. of hits, which is above the average for even daylight firing under favorable weather conditions. Last night's conditions were not good.

The fleet of torpedo boats, composed of four groups, has been here for a week engaged in firing with both torpedoes and guns.

GIANTS BAT FREELY AGAINST ORIOLES

"Red" Murray Again Leads Champions in Victory Over Baltimore Team.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 5.—The Giants got more good batting and base running practice at the expense of the Baltimore team to-day, winning easily by a score of 13 to 3. The Orioles handled the ball as if it were hot lead and booted and muffed it for eight large errors. Manager McGraw gave his extra players a chance to warm up, making several substitutions. George Wiltse started in the box for New York, and did well for six innings, holding Baltimore to four hits. Fullenweider succeeded him, and he was clouted for three runs in the eighth.

"Lefty" Russell, who cost Connie Mack $12,000 last season, started the game for Baltimore, and he was easy picking for the Giants. Smith succeeded him in the fifth inning, and was slammed just as hard. Murray again whaled the ball, this afternoon getting three hits, while Crandall, Doyle, and Herzog punished it for two each. Murray's batting has been the sensation of the barn-storming trip. If these batting symptoms continue to develop, Murray's no-hit record in the world series will be buried and forgotten.

The Giants took a three-run lead at the start. The work of the Orioles was loose and ragged. With one out Russell walked Doyle and Snodgrass singled. Corcoran's wild throw scored Doyle, and Russell's wild pitch sent Snodgrass in. Merkle was safe when Maisel fumbled the ball, and Fred scored from first on Herzog's double to left. Baltimore's errors, which nicely dove-tailed with the Giants' hitting, let the runs drift in one at a time. "Red" Murray opened the third inning with a double to left and Herzog's single sent him home.

The Giants had the bases crowded in the fourth. An error put Wiltse on first, and he was forced by Devore. Doyle singled and Burns walked. Murray's single scored Devore. Doyle tried to gallop home, and Burns sought third base, but both were nipped in the procedure.

The Orioles were held scoreless while Wiltse was on the mound. He did not show much steam, but he had the Baltimore batsmen swinging wide at his slow curves. Pfeiffer Fullenweider went in to pitch for the Giants in the last half of the sixth inning. He showed that he can bat a little by tapping out a two-bagger in the seventh. Baltimore landed on him in the eighth inning and gathered three runs.

In that chapter the recruit walked Maisel. Gettman singled to left and was forced by Corcoran. Maisel scored while Unglaub was being tossed out, and Corcoran scored on Schmidt's single and took second on the throw-in. Walsh slammed a double to right, scoring Schmidt.

Russell was succeeded by Smith in the fifth inning, and in the sixth the Giants had him standing on his head. Hits, when they counted most were Oriole errors, then gave the Giants four runs. The line-up:

Brooklyn, 17; Portsmouth, 10.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, April 5.—After the easy time the Brooklyn Club had yesterday with the local team, shutting them out, 7 to 0, they took things easy during the early part of the game to-day, after they had piled up a seven-run lead. In the fifth inning, however, Knetzer, who pitched the entire game, slowed up, allowing the Portsmouths to pile up seven runs by some really good hitting. In the following inning they gathered in three more, putting them in the lead. After this the National Leaguers got busy with their bats and took the lead again, finally winning, 17 to 10.

Manager Dahlen, thinking he would make the game more interesting, loaned the locals Pitcher Dent, who was hit for seven runs during his stay of four rounds on the mound. Every Superba got one or more hits, Hummel, who played second, leading with a home run drive over the left field fence, the second time this has been accomplished, and also driving out a pair of singles. Northen, Wheat, Tooley, and Phelps all got a brace of safe hits.

Brooklyn will play at Wheeling to-morrow and Sunday, leaving there Sunday night for Washington, where they play Monday and Tuesday, closing the Spring exhibition games. The scores by innings:

Brooklyn	2	0	4	1	1	0	4	2	3	—17	17	2
Portsmouth	0	0	0	7	3	0	0	0	0	—10	12	4

Batteries—Knetzer, Phelps, and Dent; Burr, Wineberg, and Beers. Umpire—Mr. Yeager. Time of game—Two hours and fifteen minutes. Attendance—300.

Phillies Get a Severe Beating.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—The World's Champions shut out the Philadelphia Nationals here to-day in the fourth game of the Spring series. The score was 14 to 0. Each team has now won two games. The Nationals got one hit, a single by Knabe off Houck, who pitched five innings. The Americans batted Schultz and Rasmussen hard. The score:

										R.	H.	E.
Nationals	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—0	1	0

Batteries—Shultz, Rasmussen, and Killifer; Houck, Brown, and Lapp. Umpires—Messrs. Connolly and Rigler.

McIntyre Reports to White Sox.

CHICAGO, April 5.—Missing since the close of last season, Matty McIntyre, outfielder for the Chicago American League Club, reported here to-day. Explaining his absence, he said that he had been playing baseball in Cuba during the Winter, and thought that Manager Callahan knew of his whereabouts. No word had been received from the hard-hitting outfielder since last year. He denied that he was a holdout, and announced that he would sign a contract to-morrow.

O'Connor Recruiting Ball Club.

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—Jack O'Connor, former manager of the St. Louis American League team, spent last night and to-day gathering a squad of "free agents" which he will take to Cleveland, where he is to manage the Cleveland team of the United States League. He said no effort would be made to obtain the services of players who are under contract with other leagues and that the 1912 Cleveland team would be composed of semi-professional players and free agents.

Fordham Plays Stevens To-day.

The baseball team of Stevens Institute of Hoboken, N. J., will play the Fordham University nine at Fordham Field this afternoon. Coach Egan will send his star battery, Kehoe and McCarthy, into the game for the first time this season. After the game the team starts on its Easter trip, playing Mount St. Joseph's at Baltimore on April 8, Georgetown at Washington on April 9, the Naval Academy at Annapolis on April 10, and Princeton at Princeton on April 13.

Mitchell, Reds' Captain, Injured.

CINCINNATI, April 5.—Mike Mitchell, right fielder and captain of the Cincinnati Reds, was badly injured here this afternoon by being hit on the head with a pitched ball in the exhibition game against Toledo of the American Association.

Manager Hank O'Day of the Reds to-day asked for waivers on Almeida, the Cuban infielder, who showed up strongly at third base and as a hitter last year. Almeida has incurred the displeasure of the new manager because of his failure to report for Spring practice.

Breen to Play with Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, April 5.—Jimmy Breen, utility player of last year's Milwaukee American Association baseball team, signed a contract to-day for this season, Brooklyn having waived its draft of the Milwaukee player.

GIANTS AT HOME TO-DAY.

First Game of Season at Polo Grounds with Jersey City Skeeters.

The Giants will open the preliminary baseball season at the Polo Grounds this afternoon with the Jersey City Club of the International League. The game will begin at 3 o'clock, and the exhibition games next Monday with Newark and Wednesday with Yale will begin at 3:30 o'clock. The Skeeters are better seasoned than any of the major league ball clubs, because they have been training in Bermuda, where they had two weeks of hot weather.

The Giants returned early this morning from Baltimore, and Manager McGraw said that his players were in fairly good shape, considering the bad weather they had encountered at the training camp in Marlin, Texas. McGraw says that the Texas people told him it was the worst Spring they had experienced in twenty years, and before he left they tried to assure him that there would not be another Spring like it for at least twenty years. The Giant manager is well satisfied with the way his players showed in the games in Washington and Baltimore. While the club is not so near top form as it was when it returned from Texas last season, the men have had a lot of practice and will swing into the regular season next week in fairly good shape.

Jeff Tesreau, who was with Toronto last season, looks like a valuable addition to the pitching staff, according to those who have seen him work. He is big and strong and has acquired control through the coaching of Wilbert Robinson, who has paid particular attention to him. Fullenweider and Peirce also look good, but it is probbale that only one of the three will be kept on the squad. Shafer is sure to remain as a utility infielder, and Burns or McCormick may be used as extra outfielders.

The Giants' second squad, in charge of Arthur Devlin, is not expected in New York until Monday. It is barnstorming through the South, and will be here in time for Monday's game, when some of its members will get a chance in the tussle with Newark. Although McGraw has a number of promising youngsters on his staff this season, he will not make any important changes in the Giants' line-up, and will go after another pennant with about the same club which captured the silk last year.

The arrangements for the opening of the season at American League Park with the Boston Red Sox have been completed, and if the weather is fine it will be a gala occasion. There will be the usual decorations and music and the ceremony of tossing out the ball. New Yorkers will get a large portion of baseball on Thursday, for, with the opening of the Giants at Brooklyn and the Yankees at the Hilltop, the opening day crowds are likely to exceed those of former years.

EASY GAME FOR YANKEES.

Springfield Club Not in Class with New York Americans.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, April 5.—Pitted against a Class B league team, the Yankees' game to-day was not as difficult as they have had, the New Yorks winning from Springfield by the score of 5 to 1 in a contest with no particular feature excepting a home run by Harry Wolter and nine innings of pitching by "Slim" Caldwell. It was the first home run for the Yankees and the first time one of their boxmen has been in a full game. It was a windy day, and, with the field made slow by recent snows, the New Yorks were disposed to take matters easy.

Caldwell went through the nine innings like a breeze, striking out nine men. However, as the home team has had only two days of practice, the victory was not especially inspiring. Cree woke up with the bat and jarred the orb for a brace of two-baggers, and as the New Yorks leaned against the ball much more frequently than the home team, they would have had more hits but for the slow infield.

Gilbert, a left hander, made trouble for the Yankees, and they did not do any heavy hitting until the fifth inning, scoring in the second, however, on an error, a steal, and a line punch for two bases by Street. A double play cut them off in the fourth, Gardner sending a liner far out to left field and Dolan, who had left second, being doubled on the throw-in.

The Yankees began to bunch hits in the fifth innnig. Wolter hit over the right-field fence, and Daniels followed with a two-bagger to the centre-field fence. A double by Cree, singles by Dolan and Street, and a fielder's choice gave the Yankees two counts in the sixth, and Cree's two-bagger and an error accounted for their fifth trip to the terminal. The home team managed to bunch two singles on Caldwell in the third inning, but even then would not have reached the plate if Caldwell had not kindly inserted a wild pitch into the thick of the batting maelstrom. The Yankees fielded steadily, but had no difficult chances. Fine catches in centre field by Red Farrell robbed Wolter and Daniels of a hit each. The score:

SHERWOOD MAGEE HURT.

Phillies' Great Outfielder Breaks Bone in Wrist in Batting Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., April 5.—The Philadelphia National League Club has experienced its first hard luck this season, it being announced this afternoon that Left Fielder Sherwood Magee would be out of the game for a month with a broken bone in one of his wrists.

During batting practice yesterday Magee was hit on the wrist by Pitcher Shultz, but did not bother about it, although he suffered considerable pain. This morning it was worse, and Magee went to the hospital, where an X-ray examination was made. The picture clearly showed a broken bone in the wrist, and the injured member was placed in splints.

Fortunately, the club has a good substitute in Cravath, the slugging left fielder, and the newcomer will be played in left field until Magee returns.

Brooklyn Youngsters' Game Canceled

DAYTON, Ohio, April 5.—The game scheduled for to-day between the Brooklyn Club's second team and the local Central League team was called off on account of the unfinished condition of the ball park.

EASTERN COLLEGES WIN IN THE SOUTH

Columbia, Yale, and Princeton Nines Victors in Baseball Battles.

Special to The New York Times.

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 5.—Moran, the crack southpaw of Washington and Lee University, who has signed with the Detroit Americans, suffered his first banishment from the box in his career to-day when Columbia bumped him hard in the third inning, finally winning a seesaw game, 5 to 4.

Moran's trouble started on a bad throw to second base to break up a sacrifice. Webster, in centre, let the ball pass, and two runs scored, followed by a single, a sacrifice, and Lommel's triple. Tompkins, who succeeded Moran, allowed two hits and an outfield sacrifice in the sixth, which brought the winning run over. Peeples hit a clean homer over left in the fourth with a man on base. Rothwell pitched well in the pinches, but he was hit hard when hits did not count much. The score:

YALE WINS FAST GAME.

Cornell Gets Only Two Hits and One Run Off Brinsmead, Elis' Pitcher.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5.—Yale's ball club defeated Cornell here to-day at American League Park, 4 to 1, in a fast game. Brinsmead, the old Eli star, held the Ithaca collegians down to a pair of scattered hits, while Nisbet, who opposed him, was hit when bingles were needed.

Keller, the Cornell third sacker, and Bills and Blossom played the feature fielding game of the battle, the former making several star catches and throws, while Blossom led both teams with the stick, getting a pair of doubles and a single out of three times at the bat. The score:

VIRGINIA LOSES IN NINTH.

Pitcher Rixey Weakens and Princeton Pulls Out Unexpected Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 5.—Princeton defeated Virginia to-day, 6 to 3. Up to the ninth inning it was the prettiest game ever witnessed on Lambeth Field. Only two scratch hits, both made by Pendleton, had been made off Rixey up to the last half of the ninth, and it looked like Virginia's game. In this disastrous session, with the score Virginia, 3; Princeton, 2, and Pendleton, the first man up, the Southerners were a bit nervous, but when Rixey struck out the star shortstop every one thought the game safe. Rixey passed the second man, and the next two got singles, filling the bases. He fanned Reed, but passed Berger, forcing in the tying run. Parker tripled and won the game. The score:

Loyola School Baseball Schedule.

Manager Benziger of the Loyola School baseball team has arranged the following schedule: April 10, Barnard School at home; 12, Browning School at home; 17, open date; 20, Carteret School at Orange, N. J.; 27, Hume School at New Rochelle; May 1, Columbia Grammar School at home; 3, Barnard School at home; 8, Hackley School at Tarrytown; 11, Collegiate School at home; 15, Irving School at home; 17, Browning School at home; 22, Loyola Alumni at home; 25, De La Salle at home; 29, Columbia Grammar School at home; June 1, Carlton Academy at Summit, N. J. This year's team will be built around four veteran players. Capt. J. Keresey will play left field, Mendez goes to third base after covering first for the past three seasons, G. Duffy covers first base, and William Butler of last year's team is to be the leading pitcher. All the other players are former substitutes or recruits.

Two Ties in Stamford Shooting.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., April 5.—Two events were contested at the Stamford Rod and Gun Club traps to-day, 100 birds handicap and 50 birds handicap. The first resulted in a tie between R. J. Sanderson and Ralph Keeler. In the shoot-off Keeler won. The fifty-bird event was a triple tie between William Elder, Ralph Keeler, and R. J. Sanderson. The latter won the shoot-off. The scores:

100 Birds, Handicap.—Ralph Keeler, 16, 94; R. J. Sanderson, 20, 94; Dr. J. H. Staub, 0, 89; William Elder, 12, 89; E. L. Hatch, 0, 88; M. B. Foster, 16, 84; W. W. Herrick, 0, 83; R. A. Gillespie, 0, 81; A. S. Pitt, 8, 75; V. S. Allien, 8, 75.

Fifty Birds, Handicap.—William Elder, 6, 49; Ralph Keeler, 8, 49; R. J. Sanderson, 10, 49; M. B. Foster, 8, 47; E. L. Hatch, 0, 47; Dr. J. H. Staub, 0, 47; R. A. Gillespie, 0, 44; W. W. Herrick, 0, 43; A. S. Pitt, 4, 40; V. S. Allien, 4, 40.

Price's Handicap Helps to Win.

William Price defeated Sam Esterbrook in the continuation of the amateur handicap three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at Keeney's Academy in Brooklyn last night by the score of 32 to 34 in sixty-two innings. Esterbrook had to make 37 points in order to win the contest. High runs: Price, 3; Esterbrook, 4.

GEORGIAN COURT POLO.

Blues Defeat Whites in Practice Match on George Gould's Grounds.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 5.—Under a hot sun, slightly tempered by a cooling breeze, the poloists continued their practice this afternoon on the Georgian Court grounds. The Blues defeated the Reds by 9 goals to 8.

The game was witnessed by George J. Gould, who stood bareheaded on the side lines for eight periods and posed for the camera men. Mrs. Gould and J. De Noyes occupied positions in the grand stand. There were about 1,000 people present.

In the first period H. P. Whitney exhibited some clever play, which was loudly applauded. Larry Waterbury scored the first goal for the Whites with a magnificent backhanded shot. The Blues had then an inning, and in the two succeeding periods completely outgeneraled their opponents, the first three periods resulting in Blues 7, Whites 6. Stevenson, Loew, Stoddart, and Goodwin were the goalgetters for the Blues and Waterbury and Whitney for the Whites.

A cut-in game of three periods followed. In the last half some good polo was witnessed, Whitney being prominent among the White Shirts and Stevenson for the Blues. Four goals were registered for the White team and two for the Blue. Line-up:

Whites—No. 1, G. B. Thomas; No. 2, W. R. Grace; No. 3, H. P. Whitney; back, L. Waterbury.

Blues—No. 1, L. G. Stoddard; No. 2, W. L. Goodwin; No. 3, W. G. Loew; back, M. Stevenson.

Referee—S. Lee.

TOPPING TO PLAY TRAVIS.

Greenwich Golfer Will Be Garden City Crack's Opponent To-day.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 5.—Harold J. Topping of the Greenwich Country Club defeated Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater, the title holder and the French champion, on the nineteenth green in to-day's semi-final round of the twelfth annual United North and South amateur golf championship. The medal scores were approximately 76 for Evans and 79 for Topping, who spent some of his time in the traps for which the No. 2 course is famous.

In the lower half of the championship bracket Walter Travis of Garden City, at the top of his game, won from Parker W. Whittemore of Brookline, 6 up and 5 to play. He plays Topping to-morrow.

In the consolation between James D. Standish, Jr., of Detroit and W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, Standish took the match by 4 up and 3 to play. In the upper half of the bracket Dr. C. M. Gardner of Agawam defaulted to E. A. Scofield, Jr., of Weeburn.

HODGSON'S FAST SWIMMING.

Canadian Establishes Two New Records in 440 and 40-Yard Events.

MONTREAL, April 5.—George Hodgson established two Canadian swimming records to-night when preliminary heats in the 100 and 40 yards events and the 440 yard event were swum off at the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association tank in the first night's program of the Canadian meeting. The finals of the forty and the 100 yards will be swum to-morrow.

Hodgson won the double furlong event with ease, finishing laps ahead in the remarkable time of 5.25 2-5 seconds. He also won his heat in the 100 yards in the easy time of one minute, eight seconds.

The only entrant for the events from outside the city is F. McAleenan, the young diver from New York who has entered for the diving events to-morrow night.

Alfredo De Oro Defeated Again.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—James Maturo of Denver defeated Alfredo De Oro of New York in to-night's pocket billiard match, by the score of 150 to 136. Maturo will play Edward Ralph of Hightstown, N. J., for the National championship trophy to-morrow. Maturo started the scoring with a run of 33. They were tied at 113 in the seventeenth inning and again in the twenty-first with 126 each.

Frank Sherman of Washington won easily in the afternoon pocket billiards match from Thomas Wilson of Hackensack, N. J., by a score of 150 to 82. Wilson failed to show the form he displayed in previous games, and his highest run was 8. Sherman's high run was 20. Eighteen frames were played, Wilson making 8 scratches and Sherman 7.

Sherman's victory assures him of fourth place in the tournament, and Wilson is tied with Weston of Chicago for fifth place.

Triple Tie in Harlem Tourney.

Sylvester L. Levy defeated Charles Cerf by a score of 150 to 128 in the Harlem Class B amateur 18.2 balk line tournament at the Morningside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, last night, and in consequence there is a triple tie for the premier honors. Levy, Cerf, and M. J. Doyle have each lost one game and won three. The play-off will begin Monday night. Levy made a high run of 32 and Cerf's best contribution was 16. Fifty-four innings were played.

Harris Loses at Three Cushions.

Dr. Arthur Harris of Chicago sustained his first defeat of the season at the hands of Sam Garfunkle of New York in the second game of the three-game series of the National Three-Cushion Billiard League at Doyle's Academy last night. Harris put up a hard struggle, so that at the end of the contest, the local player had only a one-point lead, the score being 50 to 49 in sixty-one innings. Garfunkle made the high run of seven points.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

The usual programme of three ten-round bouts and two six-rounders will be put on at the Fairmont A. C. to-night. The main event will bring together Young Shugrue, the Jersey City lightweight, against Kid Ghetto of New York. In the other ten-round bouts Kid Herman will face Johnny Roth and Knockout Smith will hook up with Young Sklenar.

The star bout of to-night's show at the Olympic A. C., will be between Knockout Sweeney of the west side and Danny Ridge of the east side.

Frankie Pass and Hughey Rodden, Brooklyn featherweights, will clash in a return bout at the Gowanus A. C. of Brooklyn to-night. These boys came together at the same club a few weeks ago and put up such a sensational battle that they were rematched for to-night.

Young Shepard of Brooklyn and Mike Malia of Boston will hook up in the star bout at the National A. C. of Brooklyn to-night. In the ten-round semi-final Johnny Keyes of New York and Dutch Brandt of Brooklyn, two 105-pound boxers, will battle for honors.

Marty Brown, the east side lightweight, and Jimmy Flynn of Long Island City will be the headliners in to-night's show at the Queensborough A. C. of Long Island City. The programme contains thirty-six rounds of boxing besides the main event.

The Long Acre A. A. will hold its final show in the West Twenty-ninth Street Clubhouse to-night. The principals in the main bout will be Eddie McDonald of New York and Kid Farmer of New Jersey. In the future the club will be located in the Eldorado Casino, Fifty-second Street and Seventh Avenue. Billy Neumann will continue to act as managing director.

Freddie Hicks has been engaged as an opponent for Bob Moha of Milwaukee in Tuesday night's show at the Madison A. C. Jimmy Howard was first matched with Moha, but he was unable to go on because of an injury to his hand, sustained in his first workout for the match. Hicks is training hard and is confident that he can give Moha a much better fight than either Sailor Burke or Jim Smith.

SOLDIER FOILSMEN LEAD TOURNAMENT

West Point Wins Twenty Bouts at Fencing at Hotel Astor—Cornell Second.

The expert foilsmen of West Point took the lead in the ninth annual tournament of the Intercollegiate Fencing Association in the belvedere of the Hotel Astor last night, winning 20 bouts and losing only one in the first night's play at foils. Next to the skillful soldiers the Cornell fencing team showed best with 15 victories and 6 defeats. These two teams, which will probably figure in the final tussle for the championship, had but three bouts against each other last night, and the Army was victorious in all of them.

The tournament includes a round robin of 135 bouts, and 63 of them were fenced last night. The tournament will continue this afternoon and the finals will be fenced in the grand ballroom of the Astor to-morrow night and will be followed by the association's annual ball. Teams of three fencers each were entered from the Army, Navy, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Columbia, and Cornell.

The list of entries and officials is as follows:

Cornell—R. L. James, F. B. O'Connor, H. W. Sibert.

Columbia—M. A. Jagendorf, N. A. Clough, J. H. Northrop.

Annapolis—M. W. Larimer, Harold Dodd, E. W. Broadbent.

Harvard—M. M. Boyd, H. H. Loomis, G. B. Wilbur, 2d.

Pennsylvania—H. Dalsheimer, C. R. McPherson, H. C. Van Buskirk.

West Point—W. H. Wilbur, J. H. Hinemon, H. A. Raynor.

The officials were: Master of Ceremonies, Dr. Graeme M. Hammond; Directors, Anton Rieth, Charles Tathem, William L. Bowman; Judges, John Allaire, Harry Wendel, J. B. B. Parker, D. S. Roos, Paul Meylan, Sherman Hall, J. S. McLoughlin, H. G. Knox, and Lieut. A. A. Dickinson.

The foil play of the Army fencers last night was noticeably superior to that of their opponents. J. H. Hinemon and H. A. Raynor went through the bouts with a clean slate. Hinemon's fencing was very graceful and effective, and all his victories were clean cut. Wilbur was the only one of the soldiers to be defeated. He lost a hotly contested bout to M. W. Larimer of the Navy early in the tournament.

Larimer of the Navy and James of Cornell were close behind the soldiers for individual honors, and each of them lost only a single bout. James was defeated by Wilbur of the Army, and Larimer's only defeat was at the hands of James. Larimer was defeated for the individual championship last year in an extra time bout by Roos of Cornell after the two had tied in the tournament.

The Cornell team, present holders of the championship, are not out of the running by any means, and their work last night was very promising to their supporters in the gallery. The Ithacans fared badly when they met the Army fencers, but the rivals will meet again before the tournament is finished.

Columbia and Harvard are tied for third place with six wins and fifteen defeats each, while Pennsylvania is about out of the running, winning but four bouts during the evening.

The summaries:

STARS IN TO-NIGHT'S GAMES.

Military Athletic League to Wind Up Indoor Season.

The entries for the Military Athletic League championships, to be held this evening at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, give promise of a brilliant wind-up to a most successful indoor season.

The Thirteenth Regiment of Brooklyn looks like a sure winner with a team composed of such champions as Rosenberger, W. Ross, Frank Riley, Jimmy Sullivan, Abel Kiviat, Willie Kramer, and Eddie Goodwin, this year's sensational flat floor bicycle rider.

Another high marker will be the Fourteenth Regiment, with the greatest of all middle distance runners in Mel Sheppard, who is considered to be invincible at a half mile. He will have as running mates I. J. Lovell in the sprints and hurdles and W. Raleigh in the 300 yards and half mile.

The Twenty-third Regiment will have Northridge, Richmond, De Grouchy, and Willie Berker. The team that many overlook and will need watching will be the Seventy-first Regiment, with Roy Dorland, A. V. Parks, Miles McHugh, and Eddie Sweeney, and Jim McCahill in the sack event, and Billy Dries in the bicycle race.

The Twenty-second Regiment will be represented by Charley Clark, Joe Crockett, and Hal Heiland in the sprints, big Jim McEntee in the middle distance races, and Jack Frank, the Brown University star, in the weight events.

Reports from Philadelphia say they have several surprises in store for the local guardsmen, but they will have to be exceptionally good to cut much of a figure with Clark, Heiland, Sheppard, Kiviat, or Willie Kramer, who have won championships against the pick of the world during the past five years.

A. A. U. Wrestling Championships.

The annual wrestling championships of the Amateur Athletic Union will be held next week under the auspices of the National Turn Verein, Newark, at the clubhouse, 211-219 Bruce Street. The preliminaries will be held Thursday night and the finals Saturday night. The weights for the seven classes will be as follows: Bantamweight, 105 pounds and under; featherweight, 115 pounds and under; special weight, 125 pounds and under; lightweight, 135 pounds and under; welterweight, 145 pounds and under; middleweight, 158 pounds and under; heavyweight, over 158 pounds. Diamond-studded gold medals and ruby-studded silver medals will be awarded to the winner and runner-up in each class. A silver loving cup is offered to the club scoring the greatest number of points. The rules of the A. A. U. will govern the contests and the committee reserves the right to reject any entry. Entries close with James E. Sullivan, Chairman, care of National Turn Verein Hall, Newark, on Monday, April 8.

Boxing Receipts for Olympic Fund.

It is anticipated that the Olympic fund will receive quite an uplift following the holding of the boxing championships of the State of New York, which have been awarded to the Irish-American A. C. by the Boxing Championship Committee of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. The bouts will be held in the clubhouse, 110 East Fifty-ninth Street, April 29 and May 1, and the entire receipts will be turned over to the committee in charge of the fund which is to be gathered for the purpose of sending the United States athletes to the games in Stockholm this Summer. The tournament will include bouts in all classes, from bantamweight to heavyweight, and it is promised that all of the metropolitan, and several National, champions will appear to battle for the honors.

Will Handicap by Weight.

The handicapping of trotters and pacers, tried in an experimental way at Grand Rapids last year, will be extensively used at the matinees to be held in Cleveland this year. Harry K. Devereux, President of the Cleveland Driving Club, believes that this system, if properly worked out, will do a great deal toward producing better contests and help equalize horses with different records, and thus not only increase the earning capacity of the fast ones, but bring them together in a race with the low-record horses.

Western Athletes at Stockholm.

Ten athletes from the Chicago Athletic Association and a total of twenty-five from the Central West are likely to be picked for the Olympic games at Stockholm, according to the estimates made by the Directors of the Chicago Athletic Association.

Notes of the Athletes.

Entries for the games of the Paulist A. C., to be held next Saturday night in the Twelfth Regiment Armory, close to-day with Andrew F. Tully, 159 West Sixty-first Street. The Amateur Athletic Union events to be decided are 60-yard dash, handicap; 600 yard run, handicap; two-mile run, handicap, and a one-mile run for novices.

The Maplewood A. C. of Brooklyn will hold a 10,000-meter road race April 28, starting from the clubhouse, 319 Dean Street, Brooklyn. Fifteen prizes will be awarded, and Amateur Athletic Union rules will govern the running of the event.

Novel Book for Yachtsmen.

A special book about yachts and yachtsmen is now being compiled in this city under the special patronage of Commodore C. Ledyard Blair, ex-Commodore Frederick G. Bourne, Secretary Cormack, J. Pierpont Morgan, John Jacob Astor, and other members of the New York Yacht Club. It is to be commemorative of the annual regatta, which is scheduled for June 15, and will contain etchings of the yachts and yacht owners identified with both the New York Yacht Club and the Royal Thames Yacht Club of London. Each plate will have the autograph signature and a caricature of the members represented, including a vignette of his yacht, his individual pennant and the club burgee in colors. A set of verses will deal with each subject. Design of the ooze leather binding is to consist of the New York Yacht Club colors, red and blue, embossed with the club name and crest in gold. It will be entitled, "Yachtsmen of the World."

New Record in Alaska Dog Race.

NOME, Alaska, April 5.—By covering the first eighty-five miles of the All-Alaska Sweepstakes, the famous dog race of the north, in nine hours, A. A. (Scotty) Allen, who won last year's race, established a new record for the distance. The race started from here yesterday. Allen is driving the team of malamutes owned by Mrs. C. E. Darling of Berkeley, Cal. Allen took the lead soon after leaving Nome. At Council, the first eighty-five miles of the 412 miles' race, Charles Johnson, driving for Fox Ramsay, was second; Alexander Holmsen, driving John Johnson's team of Siberian wolf hounds, was third, and Blatchford, driving for A. G. Oliver, was fourth.

Rosenthal Wins in Chess.

Resuming play in their supplementary match to decide the tie between them in the annual championship tournament of the New York State Chess Association, J. Rosenthal and G. E. Northrup contested their second game at the rooms of the Manhattan Chess Club in Carnegie Hall yesterday. Rosenthal, with the white pieces in a Queen's pawn game, won after thirty-five moves. In playing for a combination, whereby he hoped to gain two pieces for a rook, Northrup overlooked a flaw in it. With a score of 1½ to ½ in his favor Rosenthal needs only to win the third game to make sure of the State championship.

AUTO RECIPROCITY LAW IN EFFECT NOW

Police Officials of New York and New Jersey Recognize New Statute.

When Gov. Wilson of New Jersey officially approved the automobile reciprocity bill last Tuesday, it was the general belief among automobilists residing in New York as well as in New Jersey, that they could travel from one State to the other without fear of any interference on the part of the police.

That inter-State freedom was not, however, a reality, was soon ascertained by a number of motorists who were promptly held up by the police on both sides of the Hudson River, with the surprising statements that they had not as yet been "officially advised" that the New Jersey law had become effective, permitting residents of New York to drive their cars over the Jersey roads for a period of fifteen days, which automatically allowed Jersey motorists to enter New York State through the application of the non-resident provision of the Callan automobile law.

The attention of the Touring Club of America was immediately called to the situation, and arrangements made for the filing of certified copies of the New Jersey statute at Police Headquarters, with the effect that the Police Commissioner issued telephone instructions to the Captains of each precinct that hereafter no cars bearing 1912 New Jersey licenses should be interfered with, in so far as their displaying the State registration numbers of that State was concerned.

This energetic action will enable thousands of automobile owners to celebrate the establishing of friendly relations between the two neighboring commonwealths by exchanging Easter vacation visits with their automobile friends, with whom they are at last upon common ground, at least from an automobile tourist viewpoint.

Notwithstanding published reports to the contrary, chauffeurs who are duly licensed in New York State can drive in New Jersey, as J. B. R. Smith, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles of that State, has notified the Touring Club that "chauffeurs from other States driving cars that have been exempted under Section 7, of the supplement, are also exempted from the provisions of the law regarding drivers' licenses." The Section 7 referred to, pertains to the non-resident provision which permits owners from other States to tour in New Jersey for a period of fifteen days, provided, that similar exemptions and privileges are granted to motorists from New Jersey.

Another new amendment to the motor vehicle law prohibits the use of the muffler cut-out in New Jersey, a provision which has been advocated by the Touring Club of America and which has now been adopted in several States and many municipalities. This section provides "that devices known as muffler cut-outs shall not be used within the limits of any city, town, or borough, or within 200 feet of any horse-drawn vehicle upon the public highways."

Still another amendment which will meet with general approval provides that "motor vehicle tires may be fitted with chains when roads, streets, and highways are slippery because of rain, snow, ice, oil, or manner of construction: provided, however, that no chains shall be used at any time on the improved highways when the same are dry, or their condition does not make such use necessary for the safety of life or property."

SAVANNAH WITHDRAWS.

Dallas and Milwaukee Likely to Get Vanderbilt and Grand Prize Races.

Milwaukee and Dallas will have no opposition from Savannah for the Vanderbilt Cup and Grand Prize races. The Savannah Automobile Club yesterday officially notified the Motor Cups Holding Company that the club will not compete for the Vanderbilt and Grand Prize races for 1912.

This action was not unexpected, as it was announced two months ago that Savannah would not again stage the two big road auto classics unless the manufacturers furnished assurances of a good field of starters. As this promise was not forthcoming, the Southern club has decided not to re-enter the road-racing game this year.

Dallas and Milwaukee are now leading for the two big races, although Los Angeles would like to hold one or both. From present indications the salvation of the motor-car racing game lies in the Southwest and West.

A report was received in New York last night from Milwaukee announcing that the Motor Cups Holding Company had awarded the Vanderbilt Cup race to Milwaukee. This report could not be verified. Chairman William Schimpf of the A. A. A. Contest Board said that although he knew that Milwaukee was an applicant for the classic race he had not been advised that the award was actually made. He explained that Milwaukee would have to satisfy the Motor Cups Holding Company of its ability to fill the requirements of the race, and after so doing an application for a sanction would have to be filed with the Contest Board.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 5.—The 1913 Vanderbilt Cup race will be held in Milwaukee, according to a telegram received to-night from W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., if this city offers sufficient policing for the course proposed for the race. The local automobile association will meet to-morrow to make certain that the demand of the race promoters for proper protection of the course can be met and will accept the race to-morrow. The date is not set, but will be between August 15 and October 15.

Auto Reciprocity with Jersey.

Auto reciprocity with New Jersey went into effect yesterday, when Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo issued the following announcement: "The Legislature of the State of New Jersey having exempted automobiles registered in other States from registration in New Jersey, for a period of fifteen days, under the [illegible] licenses."

PERE MARQUETTE IS IN RECEIVERS' HANDS

J. P. Morgan & Co. Blame Refusal of Michigan to Allow Bond Issue of $4,000,000.

LIABILITIES ARE $69,689,000

Newman Erb's Plans Frustrated by Gov. Osborn and Saginaw Board of Trade.

DETROIT, Mich., April 5.—The passing of the Père Marquette Railroad Company into receivers' hands to-day was not unexpected, after the action of the State Railroad Commission yesterday in refusing to authorize a four-million-dollar bond issue requested by the company to meet maturities due April 1 and other requirements. Gov. Osborn personally appeared before the commission and opposed the issue. He urged that J. P. Morgan or other heavy stockholders come to the relief of the company.

Newman Erb of New York, Chairman of the Executive Committee, and one of the receivers, issued a statement to-night, in part as fololws:

> There is practically no floating debt. The present bonded obligations of the Pere Marquette Railroad are below the average of similar railroads, and its stock capitalization is considerably below such average. It is the belief of the management, the Board of Directors, and the banking interests of the road that the request made to the State Railroad Commission, if granted, would have enabled the company to tide over its difficulties. The commission apparently took a different view. Many friends of the management believe the Pere Marquette Railroad was made a football in the game of politics.

Mr. Erb stated that there would be no change in the management of the railroad, but that the receivers must acquaint themselves with existing conditions before a definite policy can be decided upon.

The receivers appointed by Judge Angell are Frank W. Blair of Detroit, Dudley E. Waters of Grand Rapids, and Newman Erb of New York.

The action was taken upon a petition filed by the American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company of New Jersey. The railroad company operates in all about 2,320 miles of railroad. Of this 1,840 miles are in Michigan, the rest is in Ohio, Illinois, and Ontario, Canada.

The bonds, mortgages, and other liabilities of the company aggregate $69,689,000. It was stated in the application of the road for the $4,000,000 bond issue that the funds were absolutely necessary to take care of outstanding indebtedness, as no resources for that purpose were on hand.

The receivers are authorized to take immediate charge of the road's affairs and carry on the management of the system with as little change as possible.

The complaint asking for a receiver blames the recent document calling attention to the road's financial condition, drawn up by the Saginaw Board of Trade, as partially responsible for the present trouble of the railroad corporation.

BOSTON, April 5.—The Pere Marquette Railroad, which went into the hands of a receiver to-day, was partly financed originally by New England capital. For a number of years the Chairman of the Board of Directors was former Congressman William W. Crapo of New Bedford.

At the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., who have been the owners of the dominant interest in the Pere Marquette since March, 1911, the blame for the receivership was put entirely on the refusal of the Michigan State authorities to permit the road to issue bonds. The bankers issued this statement yesterday:

> Owing to final refusal of the Michigan State Railroad Commission to permit the company to carry out arrangements which it had made for borrowing money to meet maturing obligations, it became necessary that receivers should be appointed so that the interests of all creditors might be protected.
>
> We are not informed of the reasons which led to the refusal of the commission to permit the consummation of the arrangements which had been made but it is hoped that the receivership will be only a temporary measure.

It is but little more than four years since the Père Marquette system was freed from a previous receivership and reorganized. In December, 1907, the present company was formed and took over all of the properties and liabilities of the former company and as part of the reorganization plan the stockholders subscribed to $5,000,000 6 per cent. five-year debentures which supplied funds for paying off the floating debt. The road had formerly been controlled by the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, which itself went into the hands of a receiver at the same time as the Père Marquette. Judson Harmon, now Governor of Ohio and aspirant for the Presidential candidacy, was the receiver.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton sold its holdings of $11,000,000 common stock of the Père Marquette to J. P. Morgan & Co., and the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton passed into the control of the Baltimore & Ohio.

Newman Erb, after the death of Edwin Hawley a few months ago, which left him freer to extend his railroads interests, assumed responsibility for the development of the property, and became Chairman of the Executive Committee. It was as part of his plans for the rehabilitation of the property that the $4,000,000 bond issue which the Michigan Railroad Commissioners refused to sanction, was proposed.

Last year the road ran heavily behind, the returns for the fiscal year ended June 30 last, showing a deficit of $1,814,000, and this poor showing has been continued. In January the income account showed operating expenses in excess of gross earnings, the ratio of operating expenses being 105 per cent. of gross.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ROUTE.

Seeks an Outlet Through Buffalo to New York City.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 5.—An outlet through Buffalo to New York, either via the Lackawanna or the Erie, with a bridge over the Niagara River at Niagara Falls, in conjunction with the International Railway Company, is the plan of Sir William Mackenzie of Toronto, head of the Canadian Northern, who is in Buffalo to-day with a party of capitalists and officials interested in the steam and electric system in which the Canadian Northern is the principal factor.

The plan, it is announced, includes the extension of the Canadian Northern, which now stops at Toronto, to Hamilton and thence to Niagara Falls, Ontario, where the international boundary would be crossed.

These figures exclude Panama Canal and public debt transactions.

At the beginning of business to-day the condition of the United States Treasury was: Working balance in Treasury offices, $69,311,569; in banks and Philippine Treasury, $82,031,115.

The total balance in general fund was $131,288,359.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grains Firm—Provisions React on Moderate Holiday Trade.

The grain markets were firm, wheat advancing on unfavorable crop reports and further covering of shorts. Corn advanced on small receipts and strong cash markets.

Oats were firmer with corn, but quiet.

Provisions, after opening up, reacted with general realizing.

WHEAT.

Trading in wheat was of good volume early, the market showing ½ to ⅝c. advance. Later the trade was of smaller volume, but prices closed at a net gain for the day. The advance in the market was due in part to unfavorable reports as to the appearance of the crop. The Ohio State report was received early, and showed a condition of 61, compared with 84 a year ago, and the report stated that much would be plowed up. Of the last wheat crop, only 16 per cent. was in farmers' hands April 1, against 19 per cent. last year. The reports from other Ohio Valley States have recently shown some damage, according to the private advices. There were also some private reports of unfavorable conditions in Northern Kansas. The report of a Southwestern milling paper stated that advices were somewhat uncertain, but there were numerous assertions of Winter killing in late-sown wheat. Early-sown wheat was reported in satisfactory condition, with best advices from the hard Winter wheat States. Kansas and Nebraska, it was claimed, showed promise of record yields. So many of the Western wheat markets were closed that the statistics were without much value. Exports of wheat for the past week, as reported by Bradstreet's, were 3,422,000 buhsels, against 2,496,000 the previous week and 2,143,000 last year. Foreign markets were closed, and no export business developed. Cash quotations were nominal; No. 2 red was quoted 108⅝ free on board; No. 2 hard Winter, 113⅝, at opening of navigation; No. 1 Northern, 118½; No. 1 Manitoba, 112⅞.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN sold at new high levels, closing near the best of the day. The advance was on small receipts and small country offerings. The estimated cars for to-morrow at Chicago were only 73, and it was stated that outside markets were bidding in Illinois points from 1 to 3c per bushel higher, relatively, than Chicago. Bidding by outside markets was also reported at Iowa points at prices above the Western contract market. Weather conditions were favorable, but this had no effect. Bradstreet's exports were 384,000 bushels, against 753,000 bushels the previous week and 1,616,000 bushels last year. Cash corn was firm, with No. 2, 80½c, free on board; No. 3, 79½c, in elevator, export; steamer, 79c.

OATS were firm, with rather quiet trading. Prices were influenced by the strength in other grain and the firmness in cash corn. Weather conditions were the best that they have been any time this Spring for work all over the West and Northwest. Cash oats were steady, with standards and No. 3 white quoted at 60½c, in elevator; No. 2 white, 60¾c.

PROVISIONS.

Trading in hog products was active early and prices very steady, but at the advance selling was quite active and prices reacted rather sharply. Live hogs were somewhat easier. Receipts at all points for the day were 62,000.

With the exception of the grain markets at New York, Chicago, Toledo, and Kansas City, the speculative exchanges of the world were generally closed.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The oil trade was officially adjourned for the day, but some business was done "on the curb" with July 6.20 @ 6.23; September 6.30 @ 6.35; October 6.30 @ 6.32, prices closing a little off from the top. The advance was on small transactions, due to the fact that few brokers had orders which they could execute in an unofficial market, although there were orders for many thousand barrels at the quotations made.

CONDITIONS OF TRADE.

Commenting on general business conditions, Dun's Review says:

> The growth of business confidence, which is so plainly in evidence, may be greater than the growth in business activity, but the latter steadily increases, and is, moreover, supported by substantial contributions to the soundness of general conditions. The better sentiment prevailing in most of the markets is clearly revealed in the reports which come from the different sections of the country and notably from the leading centres of the West and South. It is accentuated by constantly improving conditions making for good crops, by the steady expansion in the principal trades, and by the removal one by one of causes of uncertainty. The most recent statistics again confirm the advancing movement. Bank clearings outside New York this week increased 6.8 per cent. over 1911, and 7.2 per cent. over 1910, while in New York there were gains of 15.7 and 12.8 per cent., respectively, the activity of the speculative market swelling the total. Railroad gross earnings in March gained 5.6 per cent. New business in both pig iron and finished products is steadily growing. The betterment in the dry goods and woolen trades is maintained, with advancing prices in certain standard fabrics. Sales of print cloths have been large. Leather continues more active and stronger. Winter wheat prospects, especially in the Southwest, improve.

Bradstreet's says:

> While good and bad conditions conspire to give an irregular appearance to trade, there is an undeniably better feeling in evidence in the larger lines of wholesale and retail trade, except in the sections immediately affected by unfavorable happenings. Good features are the arrival of fairly settled Spring weather at many points, the appearance of hitherto belated Easter demand at retail, further improvement in iron and steel, and the settlement of many labor disputes in the textile and other trades by the granting of higher wages.
>
> Accompanying features are strength in many commodities, especially lumber, raw cotton and wool, provisions and the cereals, which are all firm or higher on the week, though not in every case as the result of the outworking of favorable influences. A survey of the entire situation leaves much to be desired, it is true, but it might be observed that political and tariff uncertainties are not so prominently instanced as disturbing elements. There is still hope that with favorable weather flood damage may be kept down measurably; there are evidences of possible agreement in most of the labor troubles under discussion, and it is conceded that with good weather much progress may be made in agricultural lines, though it is doubtful whether full areas hitherto contemplated will be sown to leading staple crops.

GETS LABOR PLEA TO STEEL STOCKHOLDERS

Cabot Wins Fight to Have Conditions in Trust Mills Laid Before Dividend Takers.

A SHAREHOLDER HIMSELF

An Article Telling of Overworked Men, with Cabot Appeal, and a Letter from Judge Gary Sent Out.

Charles M. Cabot of Boston, a stockholder of the United States Steel Corporation, has been endeavoring to improve the conditions under which steel workers labor, believing that they need improving. He did what he could alone, and then, not advancing with that rate of speed which he thought the good work demanded, determined to solicit the assistance of the other 14,999 stockholders. He asked the officials of the corporation for a list of these stockholders and for more than a year kept on asking for it, but he didn't get it because the officials thought the letter he intended mailing to his fellow-stockholders was unfair.

Finally consent was obtained to mail a statement prepared by John A. Fitch, author of Vol. IV. of the Pittsburgh Survey, "The Steel Workers." This statement reads:

"There are a dozen or more industries or occupations in America in which men work twelve hours a day and seven days a week. I think that if the public knew just what such a schedule of work means it would not allow it to continue. I am writing about the steel industry instead of the paper, cement, or any other industry in which thousands of men work twelve hours a day and seven days a week, for the reason that steel is the one I know something about. In 1907-8 I spent eleven months in Pittsburgh, and then because I wanted to know whether Pittsburgh was worse than the rest of the country, I spent eight months in 1910-11 visiting other big steel centres in the United States. I visited Johnstown, where 18,000 men are working in the famous flood-ravaged valley; Steelton, close to Pennsylvania's capital; and Bethlehem, the old Moravian town now turned over to industry. I went to Lackawanna, Buffalo's new industrial suburb; to Gary, the wonder city; to South Chicago, home of 12,000 iron and steel workers; to Pueblo, a refreshing oasis in the Colorado desert; and to Birmingham, the industrial capital of the new South. But in every town and in every mill I found men working twelve hours a day and seven days a week. Not all of the men worked that way. In some places it was worse than in others, but everywhere it was the regular schedule for a large number of men.

Working More Than Twelve Hours.

"A twelve-hour man, you would naturally think, would be relieved by a man on the shift at the end of his twelve hours. He generally is; but I have talked in the last year with twelve-hour steel workers who have been obliged to work thirty-six hours at a stretch because the other man did not relieve them. Such cases occurred not in any emergency, not because of a break-down, but in the regular routine of events. It is all very simple. Jones goes to work in the morning and works until night—twelve hours. Smith should then take his place, but Smith's wife is sick and he does not come out. The mill needs a man in a certain position and Jones stays and works the night shift. The next morning his own day shift begins again, so he works that, too, before he goes home, making a total of thirty-six hours on duty. An employe of the Lackawanna Steel Company had exactly the experience described, and in October, 1910, worked fifty-six out of the seventy-two hours between Saturday morning and Tuesday morning, a period during which a bricklayer, a plumber, or a compositor would have worked twelve hours, four of them on Saturday and eight on Monday.

"There are three methods by which protection can be afforded—the collective demand of the organized worker, action by the stockholder, or legislation by the State. The steel companies have made the first impossible. It remains apparently for the stockholders to determine which of the other two methods is to be employed. For one of them must be."

Accompanying this statement by Mr. Fitch is a letter from Mr. Cabot and a statement addressed to the stockholders of the corporation and signed by Elbert H. Gary, Chairman. In his letter Mr. Cabot says that he is sending Mr. Fitch's statement to 15,000 stockholders, and that the decision of the corporation to abolish the seven-day week is a forward movement which the stockholders can heartily approve, and which came as a result of a vigorous campaign on the part of certain executive officials after a previous Sunday rest order had been a dead letter for three years. Mr. Cabot's letter also says:

Mr. Gary's statement explains that Mr. Cabot is a small stockholder in the corporation, and that he had requested a list of all of the stockholders in order that he might send them an article, which he had caused to be published concerning labor conditions in the steel mills. This demand was resisted, Judge Gary says, because the article was considered sensational and misleading, and that Mr. Cabot then moved at the annual meeting of stockholders for the appointment of a committee to investigate the condition of labor at the mills. This resolution was unanimously adopted, and the committee is now at work and will report as soon as a thorough investigation can be made.

Corporation Inherited Conditions.

Mr. Gary explains that Mr. Cabot is permitted to send out Mr. Fitch's article notwithstanding the fact that he is so ardent in support of changes that he writes rather as an advocate than a judge. Some doubt is also expressed as to whether Mr. Fitch's experience with the steel industry is sufficient to qualify him to solve problems which the long and earnest consideration given them by the corporation has not yet produced a solution. Then Mr. Gary's statement says:

"We are trying to improve conditions as fast as practicable. Hours of labor in the steel mills of this country grew up with this industry; they were not established by us, and we cannot change them all at once. Year by year conditions have been improved until we believe that our employes are, on the whole, as well treated as those in any other industry, and much better treated than ever before in the steel and iron industry. The heaviest work has been done away with, and all work has been lightened by the introduction of machinery.

"Seven-day labor no longer exists in our mills, except under special circumstances, and with it the twenty-four-hour turn has been practically abolished. While perhaps half of the men employed in blast furnaces and rolling mills have a twelve-hour day, more or less modified by periods of rest, only 25 per cent. of all the employes of the Steel Corporation work twelve hours a day, and the twelve-hour day is confined almost entirely to those departments where operations are continuous. In most of those departments it does not seem practicable as yet to substitute eight hours of labor for twelve. The men do not wish a change which will reduce their wages one-third, and business conditions do not permit an increase in wages. We are spending annually for improvement of conditions among our workmen very great sums, which otherwise would be available for dividends."

SILK ASSOCIATIONS MERGE.

National Ribbon Manufactures Now in Division E of the S. A. A.

At a meeting of the newly organized National Association of Ribbon Manufacturers held yesterday in the rooms of the Silk Association of America, 487 Broadway, the suggestion that the association affiliate with Division E of the latter organization was favorably acted on. The National Association controlled 6,500 looms with an aggregate yearly output valued close to $24,000,000. Many members of the association also were connected with Division E of the parent body, and it is generally believed that promotion of good-fellowship and elimination of trade abuses will be obtained more quickly and with greater satisfaction by affiliation than by independent action.

After the two associations were combined Henry Soth of Joseph Soth & Co., 20 Greene Street, was elected Chairman of Division E.

ADVERSE TO STEEL BILL.

Senate Finance Committee Denounce It—Date Fixed for Debate.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—An agreement to take up the House Iron and Steel Tariff Revision bill the week after next was reached in the Senate to-day. Senator Penrose presented the Finance Committee's adverse report on the bill, and in response to questions he and Senator Simmons, speaking for the majority and the minority, respectively said they would co-operate to begin the consideration of the measure at the earliest possible day. Senator Simmons said the Democratic members of the Finance Committee would file minority reports.

Among numerous other reasons given by the Committee for its opposition to the Democratic bill is cited the absence of a report from the tariff board on metals.

The report says that the House Ways and Means Committee's estimate that there would be $25,000,000 of increased importations annually, if correct, would mean that foreign iron and steel products would displace American manufacturers in the domestic markets. It added that even with the increased importations relied upon by the Ways and Means Committee, there would be a deficit in revenues of more than $1,400,000.

R. L. Johnstone Had Sued Flint & Co. for More Than Half a Million.

Robert L. Johnstone, a chicle broker of Montclair, N. J., obtained a judgment for $282,212.50 in Part VII. in the Brooklyn Supreme Court yesterday against Flint & Co., who financed the organization of the so-called independent Chewing Gum Trust. The suit was started before Justice Scudder on March 12. The jury retired late Thursday afternoon, and after two hours' deliberation handed in a sealed verdict, which was not opened until yesterday morning.

Johnstone sued for $578,000. He contended that he made an agreement with Flint & Co. whereby they were to finance a chewing gum combine of six companies which he proposed to merge. This was in 1907, and Johnstone said his agreement with Flint & Co. called for one-half share of the profits.

On the witness stand Johnstone testified that after the new chewing gum corporation was formed he was ignored.

Samuel Untermyer was the trial counsel for Johnstone. He was assisted by Charles J. McDermott, Vice President of the Brooklyn Bar Association, and Henry C. Turner. The Flints were represented by Stephen C. Baldwin. After the verdict was announced Mr. Baldwin moved to set it aside, and Samuel Untermyer asked the court for an extra allowance for costs. Both motions will be argued before Justice Scudder next Friday.

RISE IN COTTON EXPORTS.

February Trade Increases 50 Per Cent.—High Mark Likely for Year.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Exports of cotton manufactures from the United States in February were 50 per cent. larger than in February, 1911, the total value being practically $5,000,000, as against $3,250,000. In the eight months ending with February, the total exports were $32,020,941, against $26,000,000 for the corresponding period last year, exceeding the total for the same period in any previous year, except 1906, when $36,972,549 worth was exported. This is taken to indicate that exports of cotton manufactures for the full fiscal year, ending ninety days hence, will be greater than for any year, except 1905 and 1906, when exceptionally high records were made as a result of an abnormal demand from Manchuria.

Higher prices are largely responsible for the increase this year. The total quantity of cloth exported the past eight months was 305,000,000 yards, valued at $20,250,000, while in the first eight months of 1906 the total was 521,000,000 yards, valued at $31,000,000.

Gain in exports of cotton cloths was particularly marked in the case of China. That country took 13,000,000 yards of American cotton cloth in February, as compared with 4,000,000 yards in February a year ago. Exports to the Philippines also more than doubled.

DURBAR'S EFFECT ON TIES.

It Suggested Oriental Designs Now in Demand in the Trade.

Oriental designs and colors will be freely shown in the tie silk offerings for Fall. Indian and Persian colorings in various designs and weaves dominate the collections, and the vogue for them is said to have been awakened by the Durbar at Delhi.

It is expected that the coming season will be one of the best in years by manufacturers of tie silks, because of the growing popularity of wing collars among men. This type of collar more or less requires the use of wide four-in-hands, and the vogue for it is expected to reduce the great call for knitted silk scarfs in evidence at the present time. For several seasons the general use of knitted scarfs has made serious inroads into the tie silk industry, and this, together with the keen competition among manufacturers, has been the source of considerable speculation in the trade as to just what the future holds in store for it. Until the present season the yardage of piece silks cut up by makers of neckwear has decreased steady for some time, but present indications are that cut silk ties will be extensively revived this Fall.

Farmers' Tobacco Co. Formed.

HELD A LOVE FEAST TO FIX BRICK PRICES

Senator Rose Presided at Meeting of Dealers and Manufacturers, Witness Says.

HOW LAW WAS RESPECTED

Trust Abandoned Its Output Allotments on Advice of Counsel, De Noyelles Explains.

Magistrate Freschi, sitting in the Criminal Court Building, held an all-day hearing yesterday in the investigation being conducted by Assistant District Attorney Ellison to ascertain whether there is ground for action against the Greater New York Brick Company, the so-called Brick Trust, for restraint of trade. Nine witnesses were examined.

Senator John B. Rose, President of the brick company, was in court during the entire hearing, but was not asked to testify. He heard his name uttered a thousand time, and the tenor of the testimony was that the brick industry of this city centres about Senator Rose; that Senator Rose determines the prices of brick, and that Senator Rose pays his employes very high salaries.

Frank De Noyelles, the brick expert from Haverstraw, who is Secretary of the Greater New York Brick Company, appeared as a witness for the third time. He brought with him the figures which he had forgotten last week, and not only showed a thorough knowledge of the brickmaking industry in New York State, but in New Jersey as well. The Greater New York Brick Company, he said, could not possibly be a monopoly, because 515,000,000 bricks come into the New York market every year from New Jersey and are handled by sales agents other than the Greater New York Brick Company. He said that the number of Hudson River, or so-called common, brick annually consigned to this company by manufacturers who are stockholders of the company is approximately 1,100,000,000, and that 300,000,000 additional bricks are sold through this company by manufacturers who are not stockholders. There are idle brick plants along the Hudson River, he declared, which if they were in operation could produce 80,000,000 bricks annually. In addition to the competition from the New Jersey manufacturers there are the Connecticut brickmakers to consider also, he explained.

Lectured on the Sherman Law.

Mr. De Noyelles admitted attending meetings where the main topic of conversation concerned the bricks which each of the 105 Hudson River companies making up the Greater New York Brick Company should make, but he could not recall the basis of allotment.

Whatever had been decided along that line, he said, had been abandoned later on the advice of counsel, Frank M. Patterson, who one day gave the brickmakers a lecture on the Sherman anti-trust law. At present, he averred, there is absolutely no limitation on the output of any manufacturer in the association.

Assistant District Attorney Ellison wanted to know why it was that all the 105 plants closed last year on Sept. 23, when the closing times in the past had been different for every plant. Mr. De Noyelles explained that there was nothing strange about that. He said that all the plants closed within four to seven days of each other every year. At the same time he admitted that there might have been some talk among the manufacturers about closing at the same time, but insisted that there certainly was no arrangement or agreement.

John C. McNamara, who was for thirty years a brick commission merchant, in business for himself, said that he became a salesman for the Greater New York Brick Company on invitation from Senator Rose. He gave up his business, he said, purely on the inducement of a good salary. He could not remember when he went to see Senator Rose in the company's offices at 103 Park Avenue, nor what his conversation with the Senator was, but Mr. Ellison was able to refresh him considerably, and reminded him that an executive meeting of the company was in session at the time, and that he was invited to attend the meeting. Then he recalled that he was offered $3,500 a year to see brick for the Greater New York Brick Company.

"Did you accept cheerfully?" he was asked by Mr. Ellison.

"No, I turned them down," replied Mr. McNamara.

"Six thousand dollars."

John J. King, also a $6,000 salesman, who was formerly a commission merchant, in business for himself, and who said that he used to make much more money, said that he was not under contract with the Greater New York Brick Company, and that he could do just about what he liked. He could not remember, either, what he and Senator Rose talked about when he was induced to work for the company, but admitted that he felt certain enough about his prospects to take a trip immediately to Atlantic City.

"I wouldn't care if they fired me tomorrow," he said.

"Be careful," remarked Mr. Ellison, "for you know Senator Rose is in the courtroom, and might take you up on it."

He Lunches With the Senator.

Then the morning hearing was adjourned, and Mr. King took luncheon with Senator Rose.

Francis Holmes and William Pitts, other salesmen of the Greater New York Brick Company, who were formerly commission merchants at large, further testified as to meetings at which Senator Rose was the predominating figure. Mr. Ellison asked whether it was not the price of brick which furnished the main topic of conversation and discussion. The witnesses opined that that might have been the case, but neither could remember definitely just what was said about prices.

John D. Bell, President of the John Bell Company, dealers in masons' supplies, told about his relation with the company under attack. Mr. Bell represents the second middleman, so to speak, between the manufacturer and the builder. He buys from the commission men or salesmen and sells to the contractors. At present, he said, he buys about 150,000,000 a year, exclusively from the Greater New York Brick Company. He said that he and about thirty other dealers had been invited to a meeting, attended also by fifteen brick manufacturers and presided over by Senator Rose. The Senator, he said, was willing to confer with the dealers of the city as to a suitable price for bricks.

"And what did you think of such a proposition?" Mr. Ellison asked him.

"Well," he replied, "I thought it was very courteous of the Greater New York Company to take the dealers into consideration. We wanted a price of $5.50 and Senator Rose wanted $5.75, and we disagreed, but a few days later the Senator accepted our figure. Then I, as Chairman of the Committee of Dealers, communicated the price to practically all the dealers of New York County. This was continued from time to time, Mr. Rose always notifying me of changes in price about the 15th of each month. It is true that the price went up about 25 cents each month. Senator Rose merely set the maximum and minimum price for the best and worst brick and the prices of intermediate grades were, of course, determined by a closer inspection of the cargoes."

Continued meetings will be held in the Criminal Court Building on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week. Mr. Ellison said that he will not allow Senator Rose to testify.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The syndicate, consisting of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Lee, Higginson & Co., and Kissell, Kinnicutt & Co., which offered the $5,500,000 Illinois Steel Company 4½ per cent. debenture gold bonds, announced yesterday that the bonds had been sold, the issue having been largely oversubscribed.

The committee, of which Otto T. Bannard is Chairman, representing holders of the Manhattan Trust Company's certificates for Sedalia Light and Traction Company first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds has prepared a plan of reorganization, which has been deposited with the New York Trust Company as depositary of the bonds. Bondholders who have not deposited yet may still participate in this plan if they deposit their bonds with the New York Trust Company on or before April 19.

RAILWAYS CO. PLEA GRANTED.

Public Service Permits Rehearing of Special Fund Order.

The Public Service Commission agreed yesterday to grant to the New York Railways Company a rehearing on its order that it pay each year into a special fund, before paying interest on the adjustment mortgage bonds or dividends on its stock, $108,000, with 4 per cent. on all previous payments to this fund, so that at the conclusion of the period of the mortgage a sum of $16,500,000 would have accumulated. This order was made to provide a fund to amortize the excess of the amount of bonds issued over the value at which the commission estimated the company's property.

In asking for a rehearing the company maintained that its capitalization had been fixed pursuant to law, and that the commission had no right to limit the operation of that law. Moreover, it denies that there is a discrepancy of $16,500,000 between the value of its property and the amount of its mortgage, for it contends that the commission did not take into account the value of its franchises in estimating the value of its property.

The commission has also ordered the company to expend each year 20 per cent. of its gross operating receipts in maintaining its property. The company declared that this was unreasonable, as it was maintaining its property properly, and 20 per cent. of the gross operating revenue was not a fair measure of the amount to be set aside for depreciation. The company alleged that the orders of the commission were unconstitutional in depriving it of its property without due process of law, and preventing its shareholders from receiving a proper return on their capital.

HUGE COST BARS NORTH RIVER BRIDGE

For That Reason the Proposal to Extend Expired Franchise Is Opposed.

TUNNELS WOULD COST LESS

Congressman Calder Told That Capital Doesn't Appear Anxious to Build Bridges.

The applications of the North River and the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies for another extension of ten years, which is being considered by the Committee on Inter-State and Foreign Commerce of the House of Representatives, has aroused much interest in the two States that are mainly interested. Few persons thought that any further attempt would be made to keep the two companies alive because of the enormous expense of building a bridge to span the Hudson. It has been estimated that at least $70,000,000 would be needed to complete the work, and the impossibility of figuring a fair return on such a large investment has limited interest in the project as a private enterprise.

This estimate of the cost was made yesterday by McDougall Hawkes, who is the Chairman of the New York Inter-State Bridge Commission. The other members of the commission are Alexander J. Shamberg, Emanuel W. Bloomingdale, George R. Dyer, Arthur J. O'Keeffe, and Frederick P. Flanagan. The members of the New Jersey commission are Victor L. Mason, Chairman; Frederick N. Eberhard, F. R. Long, W. H. Noyes, and Elias D. Smith. Mr. Hawkes said yesterday:

"There were two private companies anxious to build a bridge over the North River. One, known as the Lindenthal Company, wanted to have the approach in this city at Twenty-third Street, and the other, the New York and New Jersey Company, wanted to cross at Fifty-ninth Street. But the cost was so great that the scheme did not appear feasible. Then bills were passed by the Legislatures of the two States for the appointment of commissions to investigate the cost for a bridge crossing from a number of points up to 179th Street. The estimated cost of a bridge from either Twenty-third Street or Fifty-ninth Street is about $70,000,000."

But Dr. Gustav Lindenthal, President of the North River Bridge Company, says the cost will be about $40,000,000. The statement of Dr. Lindenthal that the need of the proposed bridge is greater now than it ever was determined the House committee to make inquiries of officials in this city as to this need. Representative William M. Calder of Brooklyn wrote to Controller Prendergast for information covering this point, and, yesterday the Controller prepared a memorandum and sent it to Mr. Calder. Mr. Prendergast's memorandum says:

"It appears that all rights granted to these companies (the New York and New Jersey Companies and the North River Bridge Company) expired on Jan. 1, 1912, and that the effect of these bills would be to revive these rights with an extension of ten years for the time of the completion of the structures, but with no provision whatever as to when work will be commenced and the rate of progress. The House bill relating to the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies does not even require the resubmission of the old plans, but the Senate bill referring to the same companies does require new drawings showing the location and plans which must be approved by the Secretary of War before construction can be commenced. In this respect the Senate bill is far better than the House bill.

"The Senate bill relating to the North River bridge requires that the location and all plans for construction shall be submited to the Secretary of War before any work shall be done.

"The acts of Congress authorizing these two bridges, and which would be revived, call for structures having a clear height of 150 feet in the middle of the river. That formerly was considered sufficient, but the height of masts has greatly increased, especially since the general use of wireless telegraphy, and these masts are now made in single pieces. It is said that the top of the masts of the Olympic are over 200 feet above the water line.

"If, therefore, commerce is not to be interfered with, these bridges across the North River should have a height of more than 200 feet. This would so enormously increase the length and cost of their approaches that it is doubtful if construction would be undertaken. Further than this, it has been demonstrated since the original acts were passed that tunnels can be driven under the river far more expeditiously and economically than bridges can be built over it. Why, therefore, revive the existence of two bridge companies which already have expired by the limitation of the acts creating them?

"There is no evidence at the present time of capital being ready to engage in such an undertaking, and if at any time in the future there appears to be a reasonable prospect of the construction of a bridge across the Hudson River a new act, with such safeguards and provisions as now appear desirable, undoubtedly could be obtained if there is a genuine need of such a structure."

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Lower Duty on Linen Damasks Is Denied—Storage Charges Stand.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday took adverse action in protests filed by Sears, Roebuck & Co. and other importers regarding the classification of linen damask in the piece. Duty was exacted at the rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem under the provision in the Tariff act of 1909 for "manufactures of linen." The merchandise weighs under 4½ ounces per square yard, and was claimed to be dutiable at 30 or 35 per cent. under the provision for "plain woven fabrics." Judge Cooper overrules the claims as being without merit.

Semon Bache & Co. failed to recover certain customs charges imposed by Collector Loeb for the storage of glass imports. It was alleged by the importers that the charges were excessive. This is denied by Judge Hay in his decision for the tribunal. R. F. Lang and several other importers failed to substantiate their claims for lower duty on various lines of merchandise entered at this port. Judge Waite holds that there is nothing in the official record to warrant a disturbance of the Collector's assessment.

Morimura Brothers and others brought in Oriental novelties and objected to the rates of duty levied on the articles. As no evidence was introduced by the importers, the protests are denied by the board. Iron drums imported by W. F. Sykes were in some instances given lower duty. Colby & Co., making a somewhat similar claim, were overruled.

261 Business Failures This Week.

Bradstreet's reports 261 business failures in the United States during the week, against 253 for the previous week and 236, 240, 227, and 258 for the corresponding weeks of 1911 to 1908. The Middle States had 75, New England 34, Southern 53, Western 52, Northwestern 20, and Far Western 27. Canada had 20 against 27 for the preceding week. About 89 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had capital of $5,000 or less, and 8 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Sites Purchased for Two Twelve-Story Lofts in Midtown Zone—Judge Gray Buys the Amidon Apartment—Old Astor Leasehold on First Avenue Sold—Many Suburban Deals.

Continued activity in the loft market was a feature of the realty operations yesterday, and as a result of two good deals two more twelve-story structures will be started within a short time. In Twenty-second Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, the two old buildings at 132 and 134 were sold to the Victoria Building and Contracting Company, (Lordi & Respiris,) by Mayer S. Auerbach. The plot is 39.7 by 98.9, and a building loan of $96,000 has been made to the new owners by Mr. Auerbach. Several lofts which have proved good investments have been erected in that block within the last two or three years.

In Thirtieth Street the Karnack Realty Company, Alexander Allen, President, enlarged its holdings by purchasing 149 West Thirtieth Street from William Goldstone, a five-story building, on lot 25 by 96.9. The buyers own the adjoining plot, 145 and 147, acquired a short time ago. With their latest purchase the building company has a plot fronting 75 feet, and the entire plot will be improved with a high-class commercial structure.

The rumored sale of 6 West Thirty-second Street was denied by the owner, Charles E. Rhinelander. The adjoining property at 8 and 10 West Thirty-second Street was said to be included in the reported sale.

Judge Gray Buys the Amidon.

Judge John Clinton Gray of the Appellate Division has purchased the Amidon apartment house on the northwest corner of Broadway and Eighty-third Street, occupying a plot 70.7 on Broadway and 135.4 on the street. It was purchased from Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum for a consideration said to be slightly over $400,000. The Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company were the brokers.

The sellers acquired the property less than two weeks ago, and its quick resale reveals the taking of an exceptionally neat profit in a very few days. When the Mandelbaums bought the property from Georgianna M. Ward Amidon through Mark Rafalsky & Co., they also acquired the adjoining vacant plot on the remainder of the Eighty-third Street block front, forming the northeast corner of West End Avenue, and also the adjoining dwelling at 490 West End Avenue from another owner. The West End Avenue parcel was at once resold to Leopold Kahn and others for an apartment house improvement, the consideration being about $350,000. The Mandelbaums stated at the time that they would retain the Amidon apartment, a seven-story structure, improving it and placing stores on the ground floor, but a good offer induced them to sell. Their profits on this west side transaction are said to represent considerably over $100,000, an excellent real estate operation within so short a time.

Old Astor Leasehold Sold.

One of the old Astor leaseholds in the lower east side, a lot 21 by 87.11, at 72 First Avenue, has been sold to Aaron J. Bloomberg, the owner of the tenement standing on the property. The Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company were the brokers.

Investor Buys Greenwich St. Corner.

The two four-story and basement business buildings at the southeast corner of Park Place and Greenwich Street, known as 82 and 84 Park Place and 238 Greenwich Street, have been sold to an investor by George H. Stege of Brooklyn. The buyer paid cash for the property, which is tenanted by the Western Union Telegraph Company and other tenants, some of which have been there for close to twenty years. The telegraph company has taken a long lease on the corner.

Mr. Stege recently purchased and resold the adjoining building, 236 Greenwich Street, to Charles E. Rhinelander. Camman, Voorhees & Floyd, in conjunction with J. N. Kalley & Son, negotiated the transaction.

Reported Deal on West 54th St.

The Barney estate is reported to have sold the group of four three-story stables at 139 to 145 West Fifty-fourth Street, covering a plot 100 by 100.5, about 175 feet east of Seventh Avenue, and adjoining the new twelve-story Laurelton Hotel. The latter was recently purchased by H. M. Swetland and leased to J. G. Boggs, proprietor of the Hotel Longacre.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Dr. Robert G. Reese has purchased from the Sanford estate, 50 West Fifty-second Street, a five-story American basement dwelling on a lot 20 by 100.5. The property, which is located between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, has been held at $85,000.

Robert Goelet Buys Corner.

The southwest corner of Broadway and Ninetieth Street, consisting of a vacant plot, 100.8 on Broadway by 162.6 feet on Ninetieth Street, has been sold by Robert E. Dowling to Robert Goelet. It was a portion of the old Evans block, and was held at $550,000. Lewis B. Preston negotiated the sale.

Bronx Sales.

The Mott Avenue Realty Company has purchased from the Henry Morgenthau Company the block front on Intervale Avenue between Fox and Beck Streets, consisting of about six lots. The buyers will improve the site at once with two five-story apartments with stores.

In part payment the buyers gave 600 East 141st Street, a five-story apartment house with stores, on a lot 50 by 100. Epstein & Yarfitz negotiated the transaction.

Clement H. Smith has sold for the Van Bueren Realty Company, the plot, 33 by 100, on the northeast corner of Webster Avenue and 178th Street, to H. G. Barrett, who will improve the property with a business structure.

Brooklyn.

Wood, Harmon & Co. have sold at East Midwood—Two lots on East Twenty-fourth Street, near Avenue I, to F. E. Stockwell; two lots on Kenmore Place, near Avenue J, to S. M. Smith, and two and a half lots on Avenue J, near Ocean Avenue, to J. R. Cline. At Midwood Manor—Three lots on the northwest corner of Avenue I and East Tenth Street, to G. B. Baylor, and two lots on East Ninth Street, near Avenue I, to H. R. Smith.

At Midwood Manor West.—One and a half lots on East Fifth Street, near Avenue J, to J. T. Schuyler.

At Flatbush Gardens.—One lot on Hendrickson Street, near Avenue Q, to Peter B. Nielson.

E. Sharum sold for a client 104 and 104A Somers Street, two three-story brick three-family houses, on a plot 18.9 by 100 each, between Stone Avenue and Eastern Parkway. Twenty lots at Eastport, L. I., were given as part payment.

Long Island.

The Rockaway Park Realty Company sold for Jacob Strauss a plot, 60 by 100, on the west side of Ninth Avenue, 100 feet north of Newport Avenue, Rockaway Park, to L. Vincent Foscato of Manhattan.

The Queens Boulevard Realty Company has sold at Winfield, for Mrs. Magdalina Schneider, three houses and four lots on the south side of Shell Road, near Fisk Avenue, for $12,000; for Hugo Seizer, house and about three lots on the south side of Monroe Street, near Lexington Avenue, for $5,500, and for Mrs. Kaeslow of Woodside the southeast corner of Meyer Avenue and Prospect Street, for $3,000.

Jockers & Stack, automobile dealers of Flushing, have purchased from the Halleran Agency the plot, 50 by 100, and the buildings at 66 and 68 Broadway, in the heart of the business section of Flushing.

The Queens Land and Title Company has sold at Massapequa to John Mitroka a plot 40 by 100, to Frank Stevens a plot 40 by 100, to P. C. Albright a plot 40 by 100, to Neil McLennan a plot 40 by 100, and to Mary Carran a plot 40 by 100.

Masonic Temple for Grantwood.

George W. Walmer has sold at Grantwood, N. J., to the Whitehead Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Grantwood an irregular plot containing about 8,000 square feet, located on the south side of Knox Avenue, upon which the lodge will begin the construction of a three-story brick Masonic Temple.

New Jersey.

The W. J. Rich Development Company has sold at Hillsdale, N. J., to John F. Keogh a plot of two lots on Magnolia Avenue for immediate improvement; to Herbert Mather a seven-room house on south side of Conklin Avenue, and to H. Ludlow an eight-room house on south side of Large Avenue.

The Columbia Real Estate Company has sold at Morsemere a plot, 50 by 100, on the south side of Elm Road between Broad and Roff Avenues to William Eistell; to George R. White two plots on Harriett Avenue in the Delia Boulevard section. The same company has sold at Grantwood to H. M. Disston a plot, 50 by 100, on the north side of Columbia Avenue, with a seven-room one-family residence for his own occupancy, and to Charles Wolf an irregular plot on Franklin Avenue West, of approximately five lots for immediate improvement.

At Grantwood the Home Building Company has sold to R. Herman of New York a plot, 50 by 100, on Cathedral Place, just south of Edgewater Avenue.

The Palisades Home Development Company has sold at Grantwood a plot to William H. Lottington of Weehawken, 50 by 100, on the north side of Morningside Avenue.

Recent Buyers.

William W. Brower is the purchaser of the dwelling 313 West 104th Street, sold recently by Ellen T. Machell. Mr. Brower owns 305 in the same block.

March Building Shows Big Gain.

Preliminary March returns of building expenditure, eighty cities reporting, are quite favorable according to Bradstreet's, showing, as they do, a heavy gain over February and a moderate increase over March last year. Thus, the total expenditure at eighty cities for March, 1912, aggregates $50,799,955, as against $27,479,920 in February and $48,568,328 in March last year. There is here shown a gain of 85 per cent. over February and of 4.5 per cent. over March last year, which month, however, showed a decrease of 16.8 per cent. from March, 1910.

It might be noted that the increases over last year are furnished by a comparatively small number of cities, as only thirty-one cities show gains as against forty-nine showing decreases from March, 1911. New York City's large increase practically accounts for the entire gain made over last year, though it might be noted that San Francisco, Minneapolis, and Pittsburgh, among the larger cities, also show heavy gains, while Chicago, St. Louis, and Portland, Ore., show decreases.

Commercial Leases.

The southerly store in the building at 581 and 583 Fifth Avenue has been leased by the City Investing Company to Lewis & Simmons, who now maintain establishments on Old Bond Street, London, and Rue de la Paix, Paris. The lease runs until May, 1916.

The northerly store in this building was leased about a year ago to Fraser & Co., druggists. The store to be occupied by Lewis & Simmons adjoins Miss Helen M. Gould's residence, at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-seventh Street.

Duross Company has leased to the Hoffman Mailing Tube Company the six story and basement building of 55,000 square feet, 8, 10, 12 Jones Street, for a long term of years.

Shaw & Co. have leased the following stores: 16 East 110th Street to Steinfest & Dutton; 1,253 Amsterdam Avenue to I. Odence; 18 East 113th Street to Charles Geiger; 2,200 Seventh Avenue to Theodore Reiper.

Notes.

A building loan of $650,000 has been made by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company to the Greeley Square Realty Company, the holding company of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company's properties, on the new extension to the terminal building at Dey and Cortlandt Streets.

Marcel Levy has been appointed receiver of the rents of 116 and 118 West Forty-fifth Street, a nine-story apartment house, on plot 40 by 100.5, by Justice Platzek of the Supreme Court, pending a suit brought by Thomas E. Greacon to foreclose a third mortgage of $80,000. The prior mortgages amount to $135,000.

Herman M. Schapp has been appointed receiver of the rents of the southwest corner of Lorillard Place and 187th Street, a four-story building on plot 42 by 90, pending a suit brought by Leopoldina Siebert to foreclose a second mortgage of $5,000.

RECEIVERS' SALES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHern District of New York.—A. C. McLOON & COMPANY, Complainant, against ROBERT P. MURPHY HOTEL COMPANY, Defendant.—In Equity 8-187.

To the creditors of the Robert P. Murphy Hotel Company, and all others concerned:

Please take notice that pursuant to order of United States District Court, dated April 1st, 1912, the personal property belonging to the estate of the above-named defendant is offered for sale by McDougall Hawkes, the Receiver thereof. Sealed bids for the whole or any part of said property will be received by the Receiver at his office, No. 32 Nassau Street, Manhattan, New York City, on or before the 9th day of April, 1912.

Said personal property will be sold at public auction by Charles Shongood, United States Auctioneer, under the direction of said Receiver, at the Albany Hotel, Broadway and 41st Street, Manhattan, New York City, on the 10th day of April, 1912, at 10:30 o'clock A. M. At said auction bids will be received for the property as a whole and in parcels. After the auction the Receiver will determine which bid or bids of all those made—both at the auction and prior thereto—shall be accepted. No bid will be received either at the auction or prior thereto which is not accompanied by cash or a certified check on some bank or trust company in the City of New York of at least 10% of the amount bid.

The property to be sold consists of all the right, title, and interest of the Receiver in and to personal property contained in the premises occupied by the hotel known as The Albany, Broadway and 41st Street, Manhattan, New York City, consisting of bedroom, parlor, restaurant, rathskeller, and office furniture, furnishings and fixtures, curtains, rugs, carpets, linens, silverware, glassware and crockery, kitchen utensils and equipment, and machinery, comprising furniture, furnishings and equipment of the said hotel known as The Albany, and formerly owned and operated by the above-named defendant, and also including all the right, title, and interest of the Receiver in and to the lease of the said premises, occupied by said hotel, dated March 1st, 1907, and expiring March 1st, 1922, and all the right, title, and interest of the Receiver in and to sub-leases and contracts of Robert P. Murphy Hotel Co. for space and privileges in and about the said premises, and all other personal property of the defendant above-named, excepting accounts receivable.

The inventory and appraisal of the said personal property was filed in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York on the 19th day of March, 1912, and may be inspected there or at the office of the said Receiver or of his attorneys, Ivins, Mason, Wolff & Hoguet, 27 William Street, Manhattan, New York City. The said property may be inspected by prospective purchasers at said The Albany Hotel on April 8th and 9th, 1912, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M., and further particulars may be obtained upon application to the Receiver or his attorneys.

Dated New York, April 2d, 1912.

McDOUGALL HAWKES,
Receiver of Robert P. Murphy Hotel Co., 32 Nassau Street, Manhattan, New York City.
IVINS, MASON, WOLFF & HOGUET, Attorneys for Receiver, 27 William Street, Manhattan, New York City.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Southerly winds prevail generally over the region east of the Rocky Mountains, as a result of which temperatures continued to rise, and the warmest weather of the season now prevails throughout the Middle West and the greater part of the East.

Considerably colder weather has overspread the Rocky Mountain regions and the Northwest Canadian provinces.

During the last twenty-four hours there were scattered rains in the Rocky Mountain region, the Pacific States, and New England, while in other parts of the country the weather remained fair.

An extensive barometric depression that covers the plains States and the Upper Mississippi Valley will advance East and be attended by rains, and it is probable that these will reach the Atlantic and East Gulf States Sunday or Sunday night.

A change to considerably cooler weather will overspread the Upper Mississippi Valley on Saturday and the Lower Mississippi and Ohio Valleys on Sunday.

Winds along the New England and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be brisk southerly and southwesterly; South Atlantic Coast, moderate southerly, except easterly on the Florida coast.

Steamships departing on Saturday for European ports will have brisk southerly and southwesterly winds and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York, Southern New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Saturday. Sunday increasing cloudiness, probably followed by showers and cooler; moderate to brisk southerly and southwesterly winds.

New Jersey—Fair Saturday. Sunday increasing cloudiness; mild temperature; moderate to brisk southerly to southwesterly winds.

Northern New England—Fair and somewhat warmer Saturday. Sunday increasing cloudiness; moderate to brisk southwesterly winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1911.	1912.		1911.	1912.
3 A. M.	39	39	4 P. M.	57	70
6 A. M.	40	41	6 P. M.	56	67
9 A. M.	43	45	9 P. M.	57	62
12 M.	45	59	12 P. M.	58	61

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 54; for the corresponding date last year it was 48; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 44.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 42; at 8 P. M. it was 63. Maximum temperature, 70 degrees at 4 P. M.; minimum, 38 degrees at 12:01 A. M. Humidity, 77 Per cent. at 8 A. M.; 41 per cent. at 8 P. M.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

President Joseph K. Van Denburg of the Association of Men Teachers and Principals has issued a statement giving reasons why the Colne male teachers' salary bill should become law, and asking all citizens "who believe in the principle that a promotion should carry with it an increased salary, rather than a reduction of salary," to urge Mayor Gaynor and Gov. Dix to approve the bill.

The Anti-Merging Association will meet this afternoon at 603 East Ninth Street to take steps to support the Goldberg bill, which prevents the merging of eligible lists.

D. D. Kimball, a consulting engineer and a member of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, will deliver a lecture on "Ventilation" in the Harlem Young Men's Christian Association hall, 5 West 125th Street, at 8 P. M. on April 11. J. I. Lyle will deliver a lecture in the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, at 8 P. M. on April 9, on "Air Washers and Humidity Control."

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment has been authorized to employ Dr. Herman E. Riederer in connection with the inquiry into the Board of Education system, for a period not to exceed forty-five days or thereabouts at $12 a day, the total compensation not to exceed $750.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The following have been approved by the Municipal Civil Service Commission:

Report of Mr. Murray relative to the request of the Secretary of the Department of Public Charities, for information as to whether the salary of James J. Garvey, a stenographer and typewriter in the department, may be increased from $1,050 to $1,200. Mr. Murray states he is not eligible for promotion without examination, but would be eligible for a non-competitive examination, provided the request for same was made by the head of the department and for reasons which would appear urgent.

Report of Mr. Murray recommending that the request of the President of the Borough of Queens that William J. Casey, third grade clerk in the Bureau of Street Cleaning, be permitted to qualify in an examination for promotion to the fourth grade to anticipate the needs of the bureau, be denied, as the reasons advanced do not appear to be urgent.

Report of Mr. Ireland, with reference to the requisition of the chief clerk of the City Magistrates' Court, Brooklyn, for a custodian of supplies, and stating that in his opinion, from the statement of the duties furnished, any competent clerk would be able to perform them. It is recommended that certification be made from the clerk's list.

Report of Mr. Fuld of his investigation of the State registration of the eighty-six candidates who have passed the recent non-competitive examination for the position of nurse.

Report of Mr. Fuld of his investigation of the statements made on their experience papers by the fourth group of candidates whose names stand on the eligible list for the position of assistant nurse. He recommends that the report be filed.

Report of Mr. Ihlseng, examiner, recommending that the list of mechanical draughtsmen, electrical, be certified, in response to the requisition of the Fire Commissioner for a certification from which to make one appointment as architectural draughtsman at $1,200 a year.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination at the New York Custom House on April 24 to fill two or more vacancies in the position of assistant in farm cost accounting, Office of Farm Management, Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., at a salary of from $1,000 to $1,440 a year. The person, or persons, appointed to a position of this character may be stationed at the central office in Washington, D. C., or assigned to temporary field headquarters to conduct investigations on the cost of farm products in a given region by collecting records and other data from farmers. The office work in Washington consists in classifying and compiling data collected in the field and that received from farm co-operators. Men only will be admitted to this examination, which will consist of the following subjects, weighted as indicated: Questions on farm accounting, farm practice and farm management surveys, 50; thesis of about 1,500 words on some agricultural subject, 10; education, training, experience, and fitness, 40. An educational training equivalent to that required for graduation from an agricultural college, or at least one year of actual experience in practical farm cost accounting, or farm management survey work, such as might be obtained in station Government work, is a prerequisite for consideration for this position. Applicants must have reached their twentieth, but not their forty-fifth, birthday on the date of the examination.

PRIEST DIRECTS RESCUE.

Father Walsh Shows Men How to Save Man Caught Under a Car.

A man recognized as the Rev. T. J. Walsh, a Roman Catholic priest, led at midnight last night in the rescue of William Jackson, 38 years old, a lace importer, of 103 West Seventy-seventh Street, who, after being knocked down by a north-bound Third Avenue car in Third Avenue at Seventy-seventh Street, was pinned for twenty minutes beneath the front platform. Jackson was later taken to the Reception Hospital, where it was found he had suffered painful injuries.

Jackson was crossing Third Avenue from the east to the west side when the car, which was in charge of Motorman Thomas Ryan, struck him. Jackson's cries were heard by Policeman Martin, who called an ambulance. Jackson's body had been dragged beneath the front platform of the car and wedged against the forward truck.

Before the ambulance arrived a tall man, attired as a clergyman, pressed through the crowd. He was recognized as Father Walsh. The priest examined the car and then turned to a crowd of several hundred men who had pressed about him.

"If twenty of you men would assist I believe we could release the man with but little difficulty," he announced.

Fifty men volunteered their services. At the direction of the priest they lifted up the front platform. As the car was raised Jackson was dragged from beneath it and carried into a drug store.

CALLS GOVERNOR A PIGMY.

Senator Maloy of Maryland Resents Goldsborough's Criticism.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 5.—State Senator Maloy, chairman of the Senate Committee on executive nominations, and Gov. Goldsborough exchanged compliments to-day. The Governor made a statement that Maloy had exceeded his authority in taking to Baltimore the records showing the action of the Senate on executive nominations. The Governor was incensed because official papers were missing by which he could accurately determine whom the Senate had confirmed, whom it had rejected, and on what appointments no action had been taken for the purpose of permitting Democratic incumbents to remain in office.

Publication of the Governor's sentiments this morning enraged Senator Maloy, who said in a statement to the press:

"When this pigmy in intellect was elected to the high office of Governor the strain was too much for his little brain and he immediately developed a swelled cranium which makes even the Republicans who voted for him regret their ballots and causes the Democrats who left their party to hang their heads in shame. It is positively nauseating to see this 'pinhead' emerge from an office where have sat so many really great men of our State, and, aping royalty, have a flunky herald his coming announced in stentorian tones."

Gov. Goldsborough replied to Senator Maloy:

"No doubt I appear a pigmy from the heights of Senator Maloy's towering intellect, as I understand he is the perfect expression of the morals and intelligence of the Baltimore City machine."

WOMAN GIVES CLUE IN $40,000 JEWEL THEFT

Gems Were Taken Mysteriously 16 Months Ago from Store of Stern, Drivlett & Co.

TWO MEN PUT UNDER ARREST

One a Former Office Boy, the Other a Man to Whom It Is Said He Handed 2,000 Unset Diamonds.

A woman, angered at her husband's supposed betrayal by his business partner, supplied information three days ago to Second Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty which resulted yesterday in the arrest of Isidore Hellman and Israel Feldman as the two persons responsible for the theft on Nov. 17, 1910, of 2,000 loose diamonds valued at $40,000 from the jewelry firm of Louis Stern, Drivlett & Co. of 45 John Street.

So far none of the gems has been recovered, but Mr. Dougherty had Hellman paroled in his custody yesterday after Magistrate Appleton in the Tombs Court had held him in $25,000 bail, and for the rest of the day Mr. Dougherty questioned the prisoner closely. Though Mr. Dougherty refused to discuss what he may have learned, it was said on good authority that the information supplied by Hellman would lead to the arrest of another person, and perhaps result in the recovery of some of the gems.

The woman who finally supplied the information which Mr. Dougherty had been seeking ever since the case was first put in his hands, as head of the Pinkerton Detective Agency here, is Mrs. Joseph Millofsky of 3,858 Third Avenue, whose husband formerly was the partner of Feldman and Hellman. The men conducted an automobile renting business at 1,547 Broadway until recently, when Millofsky withdrew at considerable loss to himself. In her note to Commissioner Dougherty Mrs. Millofsky said that her husband could tell all about the diamond theft if he chose, and Detectives Savage and Cray were sent to his house.

Hellman was arrested yesterday morning as he was leaving the garage at 1,547 Broadway. Feldman was captured last night in front of a barber's shop at 112 Suffolk Street. Detectives Allen, Rosenfeld, and Yore of the Clinton Street Station, who started to look for him as soon as Mr. Dougherty had talked with Hellman, learned that he lived at 159 Delancey Street. They did not find him there, but learned there that he frequented the barber's shop.

The detectives were in hiding in doorways near by when Mrs. Feldman in a big automobile drove up to the place last night. She sat in the car for several minutes, apparently while Feldman, who had been summoned to Police Headquarters on Thursday but afterward allowed to depart for lack of evidence, assured himself that the coast was clear. Finally he darted out of the place and sprang into the automobile.

The detectives jumped on the running boards on either side of the car before the chauffeur could get it under away, and after announcing their identity ordered the car driven to the station house. There Feldman was locked up. He refused to say anything about the case.

According to the police, Millofsky accused Hellman of the actual theft, but said that the stones had been passed to Feldman, who stored them in a stove in his home in Brooklyn for several months, and then had some made into jewelry for his wife and sold some others.

The theft, the police say Millofsky told them, was planned by Feldman, and was executed after a customer had called at the jewelers and examined the diamonds, which were in two wallets. On the departure of this customer Louis Stern put the wallets in a safe, but did not close it. Hellman, who was employed there as an errand boy, the police say, abstracted them and passed them to Feldman who was waiting in the hall, so that when every employe in the place was searched Hellman escaped suspicion.

Hellman remained with the jewelry house for four months, finally leaving to go into business with Millofsky and Feldman. Commissioner Dougherty said he had been suspicious of Hellman and had had him shadowed, but never had been able to get any evidence against him.

According to the police Millofsky told them that he came to know of the robbery and the disposal of some of the stone through having been with Feldman when he sold some stones for $2,700. The police say that Feldman lost about $2,700 worth of the stones at a bathing beach at Coney Island. Feldman, they say, now has a suit in progress against the proprietor of a bathhouse which he patronized. After his swim Feldman declared that $2,700 of diamonds, $165 in cash, and a gold watch and chain were not returned to him.

DOCTOR UNDER HEAVY BAIL.

His Wrecked Auto Believed to Have Been Stolen.

Dr. Alan F. Gentry, who with Mrs. Mary Blake of Morristown, N. J., was in an automobile wreck last Wednesday at Clinton and Jelliff Avenues, Newark, was held yesterday in $10,000 bail by Magistrate Herr for examination to-day on a technical charge of assault and battery.

William H. Parry, Gentry's lawyer, requested to know why the bail was made so large. The Magistrate replied that he had done so because of the serious condition of Mrs. Blake, who is in St. Barnabas's Hospital, and because the conflicting stories told by Gentry and the different names he had used led him to doubt whether he had given his right name.

Detectives reported the number of the engine of the motor car which was operated by Gentry to the Philadelphia police, who said that a car of the same make and description had been taken from a garage in that city several months ago.

David Strauss, a Newark automobile agent, said that the number was the same as that in the stolen car. Mr. Strauss said that the stock number, a copper plate attached to the body of the car, had been removed. The license had been issued Jan. 3 last to R. H. Brooks, 34 Connecticut Avenue, Atlantic City.

Gentry after his arrest had said that he had written articles for magazines signed "Russell H. Brooks."

SEWER GIVES UP BOY'S BODY.

Victim Falls Into 74th St. Excavation—Carried Along to River.

A crowd of children were playing in Seventy-fourth Street yesterday afternoon around an excavation opening into the sewer, which is being lowered to make way for the Lexington Avenue subway. Suddenly the children scattered and persons in the street saw a small boy topple off the three-foot fence which protects the excavation on each side and fall into the sewer.

The sewer is open to the east of Second Avenue, about as far as the house at 313 East Seventy-fourth Street. From that point, the place at which the youngster fell in, it is closed for its whole length under the rest of the street, beneath First Avenue and Avenue A to the East River.

Several persons who had seen the boy fall raced toward the river, crying that a child was in the sewer and the crew of a coal barge moored at the end of the street, directly over the sewer opening, grabbed boathooks in the hope of rescuing the boy. The boy rose to the surface near the barge, but the men missed him, so rapidly was the tide sweeping his body along. Policeman Berry of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station got a boat-hook from the barge and ran to the end of an ash dump at the end of Seventy-third Street, yet the tide swept the boy, now floating face downward, just out of reach.

Calls were sent for the police launches of the Harbor Squad, but before they arrived the body disappeared, and since then has not been found. Who the boy may have been is not known, though the police believe that he was four-year-old William Bohorely of 338 East Seventy-third Street. Children of the neighborhood told the boy's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bohorely of 336 East Seventy-fourth Street, that it was he who fell into the sewer, but several men who saw him fall are certain that the boy was nearer 10 than 4 years. An alarm has been sent out for William Bohorely, in the hope he may simply have strayed away from home.

CONVICT MAINE ATTORNEY.

Legislature Finds Richardson Guilty and Exonerates Sheriff.

AUGUSTA, Me., April 5.—County Attorney Asa A. Richardson was found guilty by the State Legislature late to-night on charges of corruption and incompetency. The Senate voted 16 to 8 and the House 67 to 55 against the County Attorney.

The hearing of the case, which occupied the entire afternoon and evening until midnight, came after the action of the Legislature in exonerating Sheriff Charles C. Emery, also of York County, of charges of bribery and attempted bribery.

In each vote the Legislature was divided largely on party lines, the Republicans generally voting to sustain the charges against the Sheriff and to dismiss those against the County Attorney, while the Democrats took mainly an opposite view.

As soon as Sheriff Emery was declared acquitted he resigned his position, pending the outcome of court proceedings. Gov. Plaisted declined to accept the resignation.

BIEN JOLIE GRECIAN-TRECO

While it holds the figure in beautiful lines, the new Bien Jolie Grecian-Treco Corset makes the figure as free and natural as if uncorseted.

The reason is the material—plus the almost-boneless construction. Grecian-Treco is a new knitted fabric, remarkably light, soft and pliant in texture, yet possessing all the firmness and strength of a close-woven material.

The Grecian-Treco Corset has many attractive features that permit you to look, and feel, your best at all times.

In various styles, $5.00, $7.50, $10.00

Bien Jolie Grecian-Treco Corsets may be seen at:

Clothes Shop for Women

Where exclusive models can be found.
Where prices are lower than in any of the exclusive shops.
Where each customer's needs are carefully considered.
Where painstaking personal attention is accorded.
Where shopping can be done easily and quietly.

It is the outgrowth of a business which started by displaying models at the leading hotels out of the city where exclusive New York clothes were appreciated.

It is now catering to out-of-town customers who come to New York, and New Yorkers looking for a unique shop.

It is located at 22 East 46th Street, opposite the Ritz-Carlton.

La Resista CORSETS

"SPIRABONE"
THE FLEXIBLE STAY.

No other corset has this wonderful "Spirabone."

THIS IS SPIRABONE

Section of corset showing "Spirabone" stay.

"Spirabone" is so flexible that it responds to every movement of the body. Backward, forward, sidewise. And—it won't bend, break, rust or turn on edge. Nothing else like "Spirabone." It gives luxuriant comfort—real comfort and always retains the shapely lines of the corset. LA RESISTA corsets are THE corsets to wear if you desire the slender hip lines and uncorseted effect now in vogue.

DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.

Like all famous products—"SPIRABONE" is imitated. Do not accept the imitation. Get the genuine—LA RESISTA corsets, fitted with "SPIRABONE." Best by test—it's ALL in the weave.
